TRIBUNES POUR FROM PRESSES IN TIDAL WAVE

Printing Equipment World's Greatest.

(This is the second in a series of articles describing The Tribune's epochal achievements in the field of graphic arts and newspaper production in the 71 years since its plant was destroyed in the great fire of 1871 whose anniversary is being observed this week.)

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Chicago was burning. For more than 24 hours the flames had been rushing northward unchecked from DeKoven street and, on the night of Oct. 9, 1871, they were sweeping along Dearborn street, nearing Madison.

In the pressroom of THE TRIBUNE's building at that intersection a sweating crew was racing against time. The composing room had delivered type forms for the inside pages—2 and 3—and these were being run off. Meanwhile, the compositors were laboring over the forms of the outside pages—1 and 4—which would contain latest news of the fire.

Never, probably, in newspaper history has a press crew spent such a night. Above the whir and thump of the Hoe cylinder type presses rose the roar of flames and the unnerving cries from the streets of the stricken city.

Workers Race with Flames.

As the last sheet—printed on one side—came off the press, buildings directly opposite THE TRIBUNE burst into flame. There was a shout that McVickers theater was burning. But there was no letup in the mighty effort to get to press. The pressmen vowed they would get the paper out even if the roof over their heads should take fire.

At that instant, however, their battle was ended by the simultaneous bursting of gas and water mains, depriving the plant of light and of water for the boiler of the steam engine that drove the presses. A few minutes more and THE TRIBUNE's building was ablaze. In a few hours the physical achievements of 24 years of toil and effort were destroyed.

But the spirit symbolized by those undaunted pressmen and compositors lives today. And the pressroom of 1942 in which more than a million TRIBUNES a day are printed is the world's greatest.

As Powerful as Locomotives.

To picture the power of these mighty printing machines, the late James O'Donnell Bennett sat down with technicians of the Chicago and North Western railroad who, thru a mathematical process, likened them to 21 huge passenger train locomotives, thundering in THE TRIBUNE's subbasements. That was in 1937.

Today Mr. Bennett's 21 locomotives would have to move over and make room for five more to symbolize the power unleashed each night in the subterranean chambers of Tribune Tower.

In contrast to this picture, it is interesting to look back to the earliest press equipment upon which this newspaper was printed. Chicago had a population of 16,000 on Thursday morning, June 10, 1847, when the first issue of 400 TRIBUNES came off a Washington hand press.

History has recorded that a Mr. Franks, compositor, set the first stickful of Tribune type—an advertis-

MIDWEST RESOLVED TO WIN THE WAR, BRITISH ARE TOLD

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP).—The United States and Canada are filled with a "spirit of unqualified resolution" to win the war, Sir Walter T. Monckton, propaganda and information chief at Cairo, Egypt, told the British people today in a broadcast giving impressions of his recent trip to America.

"I had been led to expect I might find some lack of interest and enthusiasm for the war effort in the middle west," he said. "But I found, in the middle west, as elsewhere, a spirit of unqualified resolution."

Women in Uniform

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will be presented a color page showing 16 figures of American women war workers in the uniforms authorized for their particular type of work. Drawn by Margot, of the Tribune art staff, these uniforms are correct in every detail as to line and color.

8 INJURED WHEN CRAFT FALLS OFF NEWFOUNDLAND

Hull Split; Towed to Shallow Water.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Ten persons were killed and at least eight injured in an airplane crash at Botwood, Newfoundland, yesterday, the headquarters of the eastern defense command and first army announced late today.

Thirty-seven persons were aboard the plane but the army announcement did not disclose how many were crew and how many were passengers.

The crash happened between 5 and 6 p. m. yesterday, the army said. Apparently the plane fell into the sea off Botwood. The announcement mentioned towing the wreckage into shallow water to facilitate salvage operations. The airplane's hull was split in the crash, the army disclosed.

Names of 10 Killed.

The casualty list, as based upon reports made to the state department by the American consulate at St. Johns, included these dead:

Capt. Dwight G. Thomas, Lincoln, Neb.
Michael C. J. Doyle, Laurelton, N. Y.
John R. Redmond, Jackson Heights, N. Y.
Quentin Moon, Flushing, N. Y.
Daniel Pipoli, the Bronx, N. Y.
C. L. Lansing, New York City.
Lieut. Col. James Edward Whittaker, Worcester, Mass.
Capt. Harold R. Freckleton, Hartford, Conn.
Capt. William T. Meyers, Tampa, Fla.
Capt. Warren C. Lessing, West Orange, N. J.

The List of Injured.

The casualty list gave the names of these persons as injured:

Second Lieut. Joseph Francis McCaffrey, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Col. Clifford Palmer Bradley, Washington, D. C.
Second Lieut. Richard W. Cooper, Canton, N. C.
Maj. John H. Watkins, Hamden, Conn.
Col. August W. Kissner, Washington, D. C.
Second Lieut. Richard W. Bridgeman, Copley, O.
Lieut. William J. Payne, Houston, Tex.
Col. Alfred C. McNevin, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Others on the Plane.

The following were listed as other passengers on the plane:

Maj. Edward John Condon, a former Chicagoan, and recently of Charlottesville, Va.
Richard William Sidenberg, army courier, United States embassy, London.
Louis Prescott Dolbeare, office of war information, Brookline, Mass.
Lewis Galantiere, office of war information, New York City.
Marvin McCord Lowes, Reader's Digest, Pleasantville, N. Y.
George Samuel Acheson, Reader's Digest, Briarcliff, N. Y.
Harold Joseph Barnett, economist, Washington, D. C.
Helen J. Skouland, government clerk, Alameda, Cal.
Edward S. Mason, board of analysts, strategic services, Washington, D. C.
Second Lieut. Richard Robert Foster, New York City.
Second Lieut. Alfred K. Peterson, Milton, Mass.

DOGS OF WAR JOIN ARMY; KIDS WEEP

First Draft Pets Given Up Bravely but Sadly.

BY BEN MARKLAND.

A different sort of "troop train" left Chicago yesterday morning.

There were no soldiers or sailors or marines in the coaches except a few stragglers on furlough. The newly enlisted members of the armed services, en route to Fort Robinson, Neb., were dogs—the first sent into army service from the Chicago area.

There were several excellent show dogs in the group, including a German shepherd which won the title of "Companion Dog" in obedience competition. However, most of the 37 enlistees, all donated to the army thru Dogs for Defense, Inc., were house pets of average quality.

They left behind them a group of lonesome youngsters who, until the last minute, had kneeled on the concrete floor of the express office to stick their fingers thru the doors of their dogs' crates to feel one last friendly lick of their pets' tongues.

Three Say Good-by to Rex.

For example, Betty Tannhauser, 12 years old; her brother Robert, 14, and their cousin, Fred Karsch, 15, all of 5152 Bloomingdale avenue, were there to say good-by to their German shepherd, Rex, a silver colored dog which wandered into their yard last April.

The two boys feel that Rex, after receiving complete training from army specialists, can serve as a sentry aid to take their places until they are old enough to enlist.

A bystander asked Betty how she felt about losing her pet. Thru quivering lips came the answer: "We're all very proud."

Other youngsters and parents were on hand to see their pets receive a veterinary examination and be put into formal looking new crates labeled "U. S. Army Dog."

Boy and Sister Cry.

Paul Sims Jr., 8 years old, and his sister Carol, 5, cried soundlessly while their German shepherd pet of three years, Slivers, was loaded into an express truck for delivery to the depot. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sims, 6735 Carpenter street, said the youngsters were less subdued last week when they yelled to all their playmates, "Slivers is goin' to the army!"

B. H. [Bud] Peters, a city fireman, and daughter, Janice, 10, of 3536 North Kilbourn avenue, donated Bumbo von Germain, a boxer.

"Janice and I talked it over," Peters said, "and she agreed that since she had no older brothers to enlist in the army it would be all right for Bumbo to go."

German shepherds and Dobermann-Pinschers were the predominant breeds of the group. Others included an Airedale terrier, a collie, and a Dalmatian given by David Hauser, 13, son of Riverside's superintendent of schools.

Gerald Murphy, Glenview, regional director of Dogs for Defense, said the organization this week will open new offices at 228 North La Salle street. Dogs for Defense, a nonprofit organization of dog owners, has been delegated by the army as the canine recruiting organization. A quota of 8,000 to 10,000 dogs is the goal for Illinois during the next two years. Dogs are trained to accompany sentries and perform other duties around camps, defense plants, and in the field.

'Let's Get Into It and Get It Over,' Chicago Yanks' Plea

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND [By air mail].—"Let's get into this thing and get it over with."

From the rank and file on up that is the feeling of soldiers of a crack unit of the American army now stationed here, as voiced to this reporter.

It wasn't said as braggadocio. And it wasn't said lightly. The men of this unit before they left home were brought to a keen fighting edge. They had undergone more intensive training than any other unit.

Like the other soldiers in our 1942 army they are well informed. They know that grim days lie ahead.

Dislike Sitting Around.

But they tell you, as you chat in their barracks, or on the march, or in a pub, that the only way to win a war is tackle the enemy, hit him hard, and keep on hitting him.

In the words of Pvt. First Class William Kelly, 28 years old, of 4948 West End avenue, Chicago:

"When we came here we didn't expect to sit around. Most of us are disappointed. We want to get into this thing and get it over with so we can go home again."

Listen in to some other soldiers from Chicago and the middle west:

"It's different here from back home," said Pvt. Joseph Samocki, 27, 3580 Pennsylvania avenue, East Chicago, Ind. Another Hoosier, Pvt. Judy Witka, 22, of La Porte, Ind., whose girl, Pearl Albright, lives at 733 Michigan avenue, Hammond, Ind., said the point that impressed him most was that smoking is permitted in British movies.

40 Mile Hike Every Week.

"I don't know if we ever could outwalk the English," said Pvt. First Class Bradley E. Casey, 32, 442 Wellington avenue, "altho we have a 40 mile hike every week. These hills sure are deceptive. Say hello to my Chicago uncle, Pat Lucey."

"My work in the intelligence section is very interesting," said Pvt. First Class Walter J. Wnek, 23, 1451 North Cleaver street. "They're really supplying us with cigarets. It's nice to know that they're thinking of us back home."

"Just because I played piano and trumpet, they made me a bugler," said Pvt. Anthony W. Di Pietro, 22, 2704 South Union avenue. "You can tell them back home that the English treat us swell and the boys sure appreciate it."

Pvt. First Class Frank Radolak, 22, 2949 South Quinn street, said the Americans couldn't get over the British custom on subways, where the men let the women stand up.

They're Friendly People.

"They're a friendly people," added Pvt. First Class Richard C. Hannemann, 23, 1731 North Tripp avenue, "but they're a few years behind us. What they went thru in the blitz they sure took well."

Pvt. Virgil Fryman, 37, of Noble, Ill., like so many others, complained that the mail from home was getting thru slowly. As a substitute he cables home once a week.

On the ever present topic of the war itself, Staff Sergt. Peter Patritis, 34, of 8031 South Wood street, a former bank clerk, summed up the opinions of the others:

"We've all got to get to work, here and back home. It's going to be hard. But it's the only way to get this over. I don't ever want to see in the United States the living conditions under which the English have worked for the last three years."

STALINGRAD DEFENDERS REPULSE TANK ATTACKS

STALIN PRESSES ALLIES: 'FULFILL OBLIGATIONS'

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY.

[Copyright: 1942: By the Associated Press.]

Henry C. Cassidy.

MOSCOW, Oct. 4.—Josef Stalin described a second front as of first rate importance today, called upon soviet Russia's allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time" and expressed confidence that Russia's strength was equal to the attempt of Germany or any other aggressor to gain world domination.

The statement was contained in a letter to this correspondent and was Stalin's only direct wartime utterance thus far to the foreign press.

Text of Stalin's Letter.

His letter frankly answered three questions on the second front, allied aid and the soviet power of resistance. The complete text, in its authorized translation, follows:

"Dear Mr. Cassidy:

"Owing to the pressure of work and my consequent inability to grant you an interview, I shall confine myself to a brief written answer to your questions.

"One: 'What places does the possibility of a second front occupy in the soviet estimates of the current situation?'

"Answer: A very important place, one might say, a place of first rate importance.

"Aid So Far Little Effective."

"Two: 'To what extent is allied aid to the soviet union proving effective and what could be done to amplify and improve this aid?'

"Answer": As compared with the aid which the soviet union is giving to the allies by drawing upon itself the main force of the German Fascist, the aid of the allies to the soviet union has so far been little effective. In order to amplify and improve this aid, only one thing is required: That the allies fulfill their obligations fully and on time.

"Three: 'What remains of the soviet capacity for resistance?'

"Answer: I think that the soviet capacity of resisting the German brigands is in strength not less, if not greater, than the capacity of Fascist Germany or of any other aggressive power to secure for itself world domination.

"With respect,

"J. STALIN."

First Statement in Months.

The letter was typed on a plain white sheet of paper bearing no letterhead and signed in purple ink in a firm, bold hand with an emphatic period after the "J" and a dash after the name Stalin.

The letter was written yesterday and was in response to my letter delivered directly to the gate of the Kremlin on Friday requesting an interview or a written answer to the questions.

Stalin's reply in Russian, with the

THIS IS FINAL DAY FOR CHICAGOANS TO REGISTER FOR NOV. 3

Chicago voters who are not registered—or are incorrectly registered—must enroll today or they will lose their votes in the Nov. 3 election. They may register or report changes of name or address at the election board office in the city hall between 9 a. m. and 9 p. m., or at any of the city fire stations between 1 p. m. and 9 p. m.

Today also is the final day for registration and correction of registration in the suburbs under the election board—in Berwyn, Chicago Heights, Cicero, Elmwood Park, Harvey, Morton Grove, Skokie, Stickney, and Summit. Village and town halls will be open until 9 p. m.

Residents of suburbs under the county clerk's office have an additional day tomorrow in which to attend to their registration at village and town halls, which will be open until 9 p. m.

Downstate, except for cities having election boards, will have its second and final general registration tomorrow. All precinct polling places will be open.

Drive Germans Out of Strategic Point Near Moscow.

MOSCOW, Oct. 5 [Monday]—(AP).—The Russians held their ground stubbornly against incessant German attacks in the battered city of Stalingrad yesterday, a communique said today.

42

They also maintained the initiative northwest of the city, where the Red army's advances in the last few days were said to be threatening the entire German position. The siege now is in its 42d day.

The communique neither claimed advances for the soviet forces nor acknowledged withdrawals, but it appeared there was no let up in the intensity of the fighting despite earlier soviet dispatches saying the Germans lacked reserves within the city.

"The enemy, with infantry and tank forces, is attacking our positions incessantly," the communique said, speaking of the battle in the rubble-filled streets.

Battle for Strategic Hill.

In another sector within Stalingrad soviet forces were said to have smashed several blockhouses held by the Germans and killed about three companies of German infantry.

The Moscow radio said in a special bulletin that soviet troops had driven the Germans from an important strategical point on the front west of Moscow and beaten off five counterattacks. In one attack alone, the broadcast said, the Germans lost 700 men killed and 18 tanks destroyed.

Referring to the fighting northwest of Stalingrad, the communique said the Red army continued to conduct "active operations," the expression used to indicate they held the initiative.

The main battle in this area appeared to have been for a strategically important hill held by the Germans. The communique gave no indication of how the engagement was progressing beyond saying that 150 Germans were killed and a quantity of equipment, including tanks and machine guns, was destroyed.

Raid Nazi Headquarters.

It mentioned, however, that soviet scouts "carried out a daring raid on enemy headquarters and captured important staff documents."

The Germans thrashed frantically at the northwest suburbs of Stalingrad, fearing that a slackening of their offensive would provide an interval in which the Russian counteroffensive could be strengthened, dispatches said.

In the region of Voronezh, 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the Russians said, Red forces broke into the German lines, captured some defense positions and killed about 1,800 men in one day's fighting.

Heavy fighting also continued in the Mozdok area of the Caucasus where, the Russians said, the Red army repelled six German attacks in one day. Seven enemy tanks were disabled and two companies of Germans wiped out, the communique stated.

Line Stabilized in Caucasus.

In the Caucasus, fighting in the Novorossisk sector appeared to be stabilized with both sides struggling for an important hill southeast of the Black sea port. Red Star said the hill changed hands twice and that the battle was continuing.

[A Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Moscow said soviet marines on the Novorossisk front recaptured 14 important heights and several inhabited localities in two days of hard fighting, in which more than 1,000 enemy troops were wiped out. The Germans retreated in panic in one sector, the dispatch said.]

The Russians said that in the week ending Oct. 4 a total of 257 German planes were destroyed in air combats, on enemy airdromes, and by anti-aircraft fire. Red losses during the same period were said to be 137 planes.

Storm Towns in Caucasus.

BERLIN, Oct. 4 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said today that Russian troops had been driven from more blocks of houses and strongly fortified positions in the northern sector of Stalingrad.

A communique reported that to the south of the Terek river in the Caucasus the fortress towns of Elkotovo and Verchnijkurp were stormed. Elkhotovo is on a railway from Georgievsk to Ordzhonikidze. Forest positions in the northwest Caucasus also were reported captured.

'OSCAR AND LOUIE' KEEP YANKS BUSY ON GUADALCANAL

'Oscar' Is Jap Sub, 'Louie the Louse' a Plane.

BY F. TILLMAN DURDIN.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Sept. 22 [Delayed].—Hit and run naval warfare, a kind of guerrilla warfare of the sea between Japanese warships and American planes and shore batteries here, is a constant factor of the military situation on Guadalcanal and Tulagi.

In daytime American bombers and fighters dominate the sea for hundreds of miles around; at night fast Japanese cruisers and destroyers dare to move close in to these islands, strike swiftly and sneak away.

When Japanese ships get into the channel betwen here and Tulagi, either Guadalcanal or Tulagi is usually in for sporadic shelling. For periods of five minutes to three hours Japanese cruisers and destroyers range the straits and unlimber their guns at various spots in the marine occupied areas. Lately our artillery has been an increasingly discouraging factor to the Japanese, and the last few nights the Nipponese have merely cruised thru the harbor and kept their guns quiet.

Operate at Midnight.

The period between 11 p. m. and 2 a. m. is the danger hour. It is possible for fast Japanese ships to lurk hidden against some island coast several hundred miles away and just at dawn head for Guadalcanal and reach the island at about 11 p. m. These ships must finish their mission by 2 a. m. in order to be well out of this area by daylight.

Despite Japanese caution they get caught. Vigilant American bombers haye bombed several destroyers and a cruiser poised for blows against Guadalcanal or Tulagi in recent weeks.

Sometimes the mission of the Japanese ships is to land troops under cover of diversionary shelling of the marine area ashore. The marines are veterans now in taking naval shellfire. A Japanese flare is the usual warning signal for a quick shift from bed rolls to fox holes. Sometimes submarines do the shelling, focusing their three inch guns on Guadalcanal in rather aimless blows along the marine patrolled shoreline.

Jap Subs Are "Oscars."

The marines refer to Japanese submarines as "Oscar," and hold them in contempt. They haven't done much to justify their activities.

Oscar's sidekick is "Louie the Louse," a single float Japanese seaplane that sometimes dares a quick cruise over marine positions just at dusk, coming in low over the hills and hurrying off over the sea pursued by machine gun tracers. "Oscar" and "Louie" probably work together exchanging information, and it's probably "Louie" that releases the pulsating yellow flares to illuminate the shoreside gloom for surface raiders.

Grumman fighters operating from Henderson field here have held their own with Zeros, and against Japanese bombers have scored a devastating number of knockdowns. To date American pursuit planes have shot down 119 Japanese bombers, fighters, and reconnaissance planes for a loss to themselves of less than a fifth of this figure.

Grumman squadrons have tallied more Zeros than Japanese fighter pilots can claim of Grummans, yet American flyers say the Zero has superiority in certain characteristics. But the Grumman's ceiling has proved adequate to cope with Zeros here, where most of the fighting takes place between 20,000 and 30,000 feet.

Pilots Are Skillful.

The extraordinary record of the Grummans is to a considerable degree due to the skill and experience of the pilots. Pilots here would, of course, like a plane that would combine the Grumman's best qualities with those of the Zeros, but they realize that one plane cannot have everything.

Transport of seriously wounded men by plane to base hospitals has been developed as a regular practice by the marines. Big Douglas transport planes especially equipped for stretcher carrying have arrived daily at Henderson field and have taken out loads of wounded men.

Within 12 hours after being wounded and receiving emergency medical attention, the injured marines have been under treatment in hospitals hundreds of miles from the Solomons. Only lightly wounded men are being kept for treatment at the marine hospital here.

The planes which evacuate wounded from Guadalcanal are part of a squadron of marine air transports recently organized for freight, passenger, and ambulance service in war areas. Most of the pilots are veteran air line men.

WARNS BRITAIN AGAINST NEGLECT OF HER COLONIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Warning that the British colonial empire might be lost because of neglect or abandonment thru "lack of confidence in ourselves," Harold MacMillan, parliamentary undersecretary of state for the colonies, said today at Wolverhampton, "for the material purposes of war and peace we need the colonies. We need their mineral and agricultural resources in war and we need their opportunities for our trade in peace."

He asserted that the colonies had been won by individual men and women from these islands—traders, missionaries, settlers, and administrators, and that they have drawn upon British capital, skill, and experience in the past.

"They must be even more prodigally expended in the future. To shuffle off our responsibilities or to abandon our unfinished task would be a great refusal, a great abdication and a great crime," MacMillan concluded.

Britain Asks Youths to Help with Xmas Mail Rush

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Older boys and girls in secondary schools were asked tonight to help central postoffices thruout Britain to cope with the Christmas rush. Those who volunteer their services for the 10 days before Christmas will work eight hours a day but none under 16 years old will be required to work more than 44 hours a week.

JAPS CONTINUE GUINEA RETREAT; AUSSIES ADVANCE

Seven Miles from Gap in Mountains.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 5 [Monday]—(AP).—Australian bush soldiers continued their advance along the uphill trail of the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea yesterday to a point beyond Efogi, near the gap thru the mountain backbone, a communique said today.

Just how far they advanced was not stated, but it was announced they had pushed beyond Efogi, which was captured the previous day, and still were going ahead. Efogi is 64 miles from the allied base at Port Moresby and about seven miles from the Owen Stanley gap.

Apparently they had not yet caught up with the main body of the Japanese force, which the communique indicated was retreating. No details of the fighting were given.

Retreating Foe Strafed.

An indication that the Japanese were in flight was contained in the official statement that "allied fighters strafed and harried key points on the enemy's line of retreat."

There was a lull in allied air activity elsewhere over New Guinea, but medium bombers made a night raid on the airdrome at Buka, on the extreme northern tip of the Solomons, causing fires and explosions near the runway and in the dispersal areas.

At least one enemy plane was said to have been destroyed on the ground. The communique said there was no attempt at interception and all allied planes returned safely.

No Offensive for 6 Months.

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 4 (AP).—The Australian offensive in New Guinea, in which the Japanese have been driven 20 miles back up the trail to Efogi in the Owen Stanley range, was described by Prime Minister John Curtin today as essentially a holding operation.

Demands of other major war fronts for men and material and immense shipping difficulties would necessitate a delay of at least six months, he said, before united nations forces in the Australian theater are strengthened sufficiently to launch a large scale offensive.

The statement was made in an "austerity loan" broadcast in which three other prime ministers, W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, Peter Fraser of New Zealand, and Jan Christiaan Smuts of the Union of South Africa congratulated Curtin on completion of his first year in office.

Have Superiority in Air.

Meanwhile, the Australians, with allied airmen, were not doing badly with what they already had in New Guinea.

Army Minister Francis Forde and Air Minister A. S. Drakeford returned from a tour of the front, and Drakeford reported that the allied forces there were enjoying air superiority for the first time on any land operation in the Pacific area.

The Japanese have been given a real hammering in the skies north of Port Moresby, he said, and the effect had been so deadly that Japanese aircraft supplies had been seriously depleted.

At Buna, in one day nearly 20 Japanese aircraft were destroyed, he continued, and at Wairopi bridge they had received a "terrific lathering."

Friendly Plane Brings Puerto Rico Air Alarm

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 4 (AP).—A 55 minute air raid alarm kept San Juan on the alert from 11:05 a. m. until noon today when an unidentified plane was detected off the Virgin Islands. It later proved to be friendly. It was the longest daytime alarm Puerto Rico has experienced.

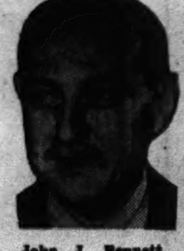
F. D. R. COMES OUT FOR BENNETT AS GOVERNOR OF N. Y.

President Says He'll Vote for Farley's Man.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—President Roosevelt today interrupted his Sunday rest from directing the war effort to announce his support of John J. Bennett, Democratic nominee for governor of New York, whom the President opposed bitterly prior to the state Democratic convention which picked Bennett.



John J. Bennett.

Mr. Roosevelt has contended right along that politics have been adjourned for the duration of the war and stated specifically at his press conference on Aug. 7 that he was not talking politics and not engaged in the New York campaign.

However, there was a vigorous behind-the-scene struggle between the President, who persuaded Sen. James M. Mead to run for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and James A. Farley, New York state Democratic chairman, who successfully managed Mr. Roosevelt's first two campaigns for the presidency.

Farley Supported Bennett.

Farley supported Bennett and won not only the nomination for Bennett at the convention on Aug. 20 against all of the political pressure available to the White House, but also control of the New York state delegation, which may have an important bearing on the 1944 presidential race within Democratic ranks.

The President had steadfastly refused up until today to give Bennett support in his campaign against Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee, and Dean Alfange, nominee of the American Labor party selected to woo the leftwing and radical elements.

President's Statement.

In disclosing the President's reversal in his opposition to Bennett, who has been New York state attorney general, the White House explained that "in reply to numerous inquiries with reference to the political situation in his home state of New York," the President has authorized the following statement:

"Of the three men in the race for the governorship of New York, I shall cast my ballot for John Bennett because I believe that he is the best qualified."

In the same statement Mr. Roosevelt urged voters thruout the nation to register and vote in the November elections, saying:

"I trust that every voter, not only in New York state, but thruout the country, regardless of party affiliations, will register, and on Nov. 3, exercise the right of the ballot. This is one of the essential privileges and duties of our democratic way of life for which we are now fighting."

Trip Thru U. S. Recalled.

The President's statement on politics closely followed his return last Thursday from a two weeks' secret tour of the nation, for the express purpose of inspecting the war effort, according to the President, who denied charges that there were political implications in his cross-country trip.

Congressional critics declared that it seemed a peculiar coincidence that the President has usually made some sort of inspection tour thruout the country just prior to congressional elections.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] said today in his weekly letter to constituents that if Mr. Roosevelt was looking for ways to win the war he could find plenty of them here in Washington.

"If the President," said Hoffman, "at a time when transportation facilities are strained to the limit, wishes to take a special train, spend two weeks in traveling 8,754 miles to inspect factories, shipbulding yards, and other war activities [tho what he can learn by looking at them is problematical] it is within his power to do so and no criticism is here made of the trip.

"If he wanted to learn of things which will promote our war efforts he could get them right here in Washington, in his own back yard, where the people's money is being wasted, where he has the power to bring order out of confusion, economy out of waste, and activity out of inaction.

"Let him first clean house here in Washington. It is time that all of us, and that includes the President, forget everything but the defeat of our enemies, the winning of the war, the preservation of our freedom."

In New York tonight Farley said the President's statement on Bennett "gratifies me." Herbert Brownell Jr., campaign manager for Dewey, recalled the President's earlier statement that Bennett could not win and said, "Obviously he was right and I am sure the voters will confirm his judgment by electing Mr. Dewey governor."

DRAFT CHIEF HERSHEY IN CHICAGO TO SPEAK AT TWO CONVENTIONS

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, arrived in Chicago yesterday, but had nothing to say for publication.

Gen. Hershey talked for an hour or so before a conference of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce in the Palmer House, but at the draft director's order all newspaper representatives were barred from the meeting.

The general refused to issue any statement or grant interviews, nor would he discuss new developments in selective service or comment on his visit which will keep him here for another meeting today.

Press relations officers of the Illinois selective service system said Gen. Hershey will talk at 11 a. m. today before the American Meat institute in the Drake hotel.

SEABURY JOINS N. Y. GROUP TO ELECT DEWEY

New York, Oct. 4 [Special].—Samuel Seabury and 10 other persons prominent in the civic, philanthropic, and religious affairs of New York City have been appointed vice chairman of the citizens committee for Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee for governor, Herbert Brownell Jr., state campaign manager, announced today.

"I have known Mr. Dewey for many years and have formed a very high opinion of his ability," Seabury said. "He is clear headed and acts only when he knows the facts. The Republican party could not have named a more excellent candidate for governor. I believe he will be elected."

Other vice chairmen of the citizens committee, of which Charles Evans Hughes Jr. is chairman, Harry G. Herman, secretary, and George H. Sibley, treasurer, are Edgar J. Nathan Jr., borough president of Manhattan; Thomas D. Austin, Mrs. Max Baller, Edward Corsi, Mrs. Louis Dreyfus, Mrs. John J. Kilcourse, C. B. Powell, Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Mrs. Beatrice Spitzer, and Thomas D. Thacher.

BRITISH WOMEN TOLD THEY MUST WATCH FOR FIRES

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Warning that Great Britain may expect more devastating fire raids than ever before if Hitler is able to free enough planes from the Russian battlefront, Ellen Wilkinson, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of home security, told a large Coventry audience today the reasons why the government found it necessary to call women up for fireguard duty.

"The raids on Germany have shown that fires can burn for 30 hours after bombs are dropped," she said. "This menace must be met and fireguards are essential as a means for meeting it."

Miss Wilkinson spoke amid interruptions which grew to boos when she said the government had done a lot for heavily bombed Coventry. But the boos changed to cheers from her women listeners when Miss Wilkinson admitted that a large number of men are not doing their share of firewatching.

BIG U. S. BOMBERS BLOW UP 2 AXIS SHIPS IN GREECE

Shoot Down 4 of 5 Enemy Planes Over Bay.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 4 (AP).—Two large enemy supply ships exploded under direct hits from American heavy bombers when they raided Navarino bay, southwestern Greece, in daylight yesterday, it was announced here tonight. The harbor town of Pylos is on Navarino bay.

The American formation of B-24s [four motored Consolidated bombers] was attacked by five axis fighters, four of which—three German Messerschmitt 109s and one Italian Macchi 202—were sent blazing into the sea by the defenders' guns.

Writer Aboard Bomber.

Aboard one of the bombers was Edward Kennedy of Brooklyn, chief of the Associated Press bureau at Cairo.

A combined British headquarters and RAF communique reported only patrol activity on the desert front during the night of Oct. 2. Rising dust curtailed air operations, they said.

Reports Raid on Pylos.

ROME, Oct. 4 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Two successive waves of four-engined allied bombers raided Pylos on the southwest coast of Greece yesterday, the Italian high command said today. It reported one raiding plane shot down by axis fighters.

On the Egyptian front the communique told only of patrol and artillery activity, but reported "repeated" air raids on the Malta airdrome.

NO GREEK DEFERMENTS.

When the Italians and Germans attacked Greece, Greek soldiers were conscripted regardless of whether they were single or fathers and the heads of dependent families, said Dr. Homer W. Davis, speaking in behalf of Greek war relief last night before the Greek Women's University club in the Fine Arts building.

Dr. Davis was president of the American college in Athens, and lived in Greece during four months of Nazi occupation. He said the Greeks fought as one.

GUN CREW CAPTAIN CITED FOR BRAVERY ON WAY TO RUSSIA

Ensign Howell S. Murray, cited Saturday by the navy department for bravery as captain of a gun crew of a merchant ship on the route to Murmansk, Russia, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell W. Murray, 31 North Linden avenue, Highland Park. He attended Hyde Park High school, was graduated from high school at Asheville, N. C., and from Amherst college in 1941. He entered Northwestern university's Abbott hall for naval training in September, 1941, and was commissioned an ensign last January. He is 24 years old. His father is vice president of A. G. Becker & Co., investment banking firm with offices at 120 South La Salle street.

REPORTS GREEK PEASANTS FIGHT ITALIAN TROOPS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 [Special].—Bloody clashes between Greek peasants and troops of the Italian army of occupation are still continuing in many parts of Greece, according to a statement issued today by the Greek office of information here. The immediate cause of the uprisings reported in recent dispatches from Turkey and Egypt, the office says, was the "arbitrary seizure of peasants' crops by the Italian carabinieri."

"The peasants turned on the Italian troops who had been broken up into small groups to supervise the harvest, killing many of them. The producers of the tobacco district of Agrinion set fire to their tobacco, while the farmers of the western Peloponnese threw their crop of currants and raisins into the sea.

"In reprisal for these acts, which they termed sabotage, the occupation authorities seized numerous hostages and arbitrarily confiscated their property. Guerrilla forces entered the struggle and were able to free a number of the hostages, who promptly joined their rescuers in the hills. Clashes are still continuing in many parts of Greece."

YANK EDUCATORS TELL OF BULGAR WAR CONDITIONS

Ten from Seized College Arrive in Turkey.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 4.—Ten Americans, members of the faculty of the American college in Sofia, Bulgaria, arrived here today. The college, which functioned thruout the last war, was seized by Bulgarian authorities on Sept. 12. It is now known as a mixed gymnasium for foreign languages—foreign, in this case, meaning German.

Heading the group was Dr. Floyd H. Black, of Bridgeport, Ill., president of the college for the last 16 years.

Four other American women remained in Bulgaria. Two are retired missionaries and the others are Miss Melody Turner and a Miss Carhart, who conduct a Methodist school for girls in Lovetch. The Lovetch school also was taken over by Bulgaria, but the college staff had no news of Miss Turner and Miss Carhart.

One Goes to Germany.

One naturalized American, John Mueller, a graduate of Colgate university and one of the United Press' string of correspondents, chose to remain and swap his American passport for a German one.

The educators brought back the most recent direct information about conditions in Bulgaria. Dr. Black said that the Bulgarian policy has been to avoid direct attacks on Americans but that they concentrated on building up hatred of Russia and Britain.

The Bulgarian people favor the war because of the territory they grabbed from Jugo-Slavia and Greece, he said, but confidence in their German ally's power has been badly shaken by the Russian campaign.

Other travelers said that most Bulgars realize they will lose the war. They also reported that the great majority of the Bulgar army is pro-Communist. The underground Communist element was strong in Bulgaria before the war, and even anti-Communist Bulgars were pro-Russian. Russia freed Bulgaria from Turkish rule and is looked upon as the mother of the Slav nations. Therefore, many are reluctant to fight Russia.

Whip Up Anti-Jewish Drive.

German soldiers no longer look smart and confident as they did when they entered Bulgaria in 1941. Neither the men nor the uniforms are as spruce as formerly, travelers generally remark. The mechanized equipment which the Germans gave Bulgaria now has been taken back, but 400,000 Bulgars are under arms.

An anti-Jewish campaign is being whipped up ferociously by the government. Even the Moslem is being treated as an inferior. Moslem war veterans have been drummed out of veterans' organizations along with Jews and Armenians. Like the Jews, they are unable to get food or other government relief.

Suppression of criticism was reported rigorous. These travelers said that if a man is heard to express fear of defeat it is enough to condemn him without trial. Thousands upon thousands are packed into concentration camps and many are expected to die of hardships this winter.

SECOND FRONT IN EUROPE IS VITAL, STALIN ASSERTS

Demands Allies Fulfill Obligations.

authorized English translation, was handed to me early today by Nikolai Palgunov, chief of the press department of the commissariat of foreign affairs.

First Statement in Months.

It was Stalin's first public statement on the question of a second front for almost a year. He previously had mentioned it only in a speech to a meeting of the soviet Communist party and other organizations in Moscow on Nov. 6, 1941, on the eve of the anniversary of the bolshevist revolution.

"One of the reasons for the reverses of the Red army is the absence of a second front," he said at the time.

"There can be no doubt that the absence of a second front in Europe against the Germans makes the position of the German army considerably easier. But neither can there be any doubt that the appearance of a second front on the European continent—and it must unquestionably appear in the near future—will materially ease the situation of our army to the detriment of the German army."

Stalin refrained from mentioning a second front in his public statements on the occasions of Red Army day and May day.

Counted the Main Obligation.

The second front became a major issue after Foreign Commissar Molotov's visit to London and Washington, D. C., last May and the publication of joint communiques that "complete understanding was reached with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

The main obligation of the allies, as indicated by frequent comment of the official Russian press, is considered here to be the opening of a second front.

Stalin discussed this matter personally both with Prime Minister Churchill and with Wendell Willkie, President Roosevelt's personal envoy who was here last month.

After their visits to Moscow, Churchill acknowledged in the house of commons that Russia was not satisfied with the support she was receiving.

Willkie declared that it was his conviction that the allies could help Russia best by starting a second front, and expressed the opinion that certain military leaders might have to be prodded into action.

DOUBT STALIN HAS GIVEN UP POST AS DEFENSE COMMISSAR

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Reports circulated in Switzerland and broadcast by axis propagandists that Premier Stalin had given up his post as defense commissar in Russia—reports entirely unsubstantiated hours later—appeared tonight to be due to a garbled reception of a Moscow news broadcast.

There was no announcement or official comment from Moscow. An impression grew that the report gained currency in Switzerland thru misunderstanding of Russian broadcasts telling of congratulations to Marshal Boris M. Shaposhnikov, chief of the Russian general staff, on his 60th birthday today. The apparently erroneous report said the marshal had succeeded Stalin as defense commissar.

Marshal Shaposhnikov, as a birthday present, was awarded the order of Lenin and his name bestowed upon the Tambov infantry school and superior school of tactics for infantry officers, a Moscow account said. He is a close military adviser of Stalin.

SIKORSKI SEES NAZIS WINNING SELVES TO DEATH

Hitler Fails to Balance Losses, He Says.

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP).—The Germans are "on the road to winning themselves to death," Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, prime minister of the Polish government in exile, said today in a Pulaski day broadcast to the United States.

Wladyslaw Sikorski.

"Hitler deceives himself and his people when he reckons up his successes," Sikorski said, "for he has not achieved the greatest one in spite of enormous losses. He has not destroyed soviet Russia, he has not conquered Moscow or Leningrad or occupied the Caucasus and he has not crossed the Suez canal or gotten into Iraq."

Now on Defensive.

The Polish leader declared Hitler's last speech showed that the Nazi Fuehrer was "now going over to the defensive on all propaganda fronts."

"It takes unlimited shamelessness and cynicism to compare the Atlantic charter with Hitler's new order," he went on. "In the name of Poles scattered thruout the world and 110,000 Polish soldiers fighting in exile I give him the lie."

Allies to Answer.

Sikorski added that Hitler would get an answer to that lie from the combined fighting strength of all the united nations.

"He will get the answer, too, from Americans of Polish descent who have found a second homeland in the U. S. A.," he declared. "Following the example of Pulaski and Kosciuszko they are fighting today under the star spangled banner for the realization of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's four freedoms."

SLAIN IN GUN FIGHT.

George Rhodes, 18 years old, colored, 2112 South Dearborn street, was shot to death yesterday by Thomas Chandler, 34, colored, of 20 West 18th street, in a gun fight near Rhodes home.

More Spanish Soldiers on Way to Fight Russians

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Oct. 4 (AP).—Another contingent of the Spanish Blue division crossed the frontier into France today en route to join axis forces on the Russian front.

A Report to the Board of Directors of Schenley Distillers Corporation

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Schenley Distillers Corporation on Tuesday, September 29, 1942, the Chairman made the following statement concerning the use of the Company's distilling facilities for the production of alcohol for military uses:

All of our 12 whiskey distilleries are producing either 190-proof alcohol for military uses, or are making "high wines" for redistillation into war alcohol. Some of the plants are engaged in both types of production and one of our plants, not included among the 12 mentioned, is redistilling "high wines." In keeping with the policy of this company, every distillery now making "high wines" is being converted as rapidly as possible into a plant capable of directly producing high-proof alcohol.

On completion of this program, all of the company's distilleries will be producing high-proof alcohol required for smokeless gunpowder, synthetic rubber, chemical warfare, lend-lease and other military uses. In addition to the 12 plants now producing war materials, the company recently acquired a distillery in Arizona, and is acquiring a distillery in Montana. Neither of these plants has been in operation, and both will be converted into alcohol plants as rapidly as possible.

One of our plants has been producing alcohol for military purposes since before Pearl Harbor, and from January 1st through October 31st of this year Schenley will have delivered more than 24,000,000 proof gallons of distilled materials, equivalent to more than 12,000,000 wine gallons of alcohol for war purposes.

Schenley plants are working on a 24-hour-per-day basis, something never before known in the beverage distilling industry, stepping up our production to an annual rate in excess of 60,000,000 proof gallons or its equivalent of 30,000,000 gallons of alcohol.

The government is looking to the beverage distilling industry for 240,000,000 gallons of alcohol for war purposes in 1943. This will mean that more than $100,000,000 of plant capacity of the beverage distilling industry will shortly be in full use for the accomplishment of this objective. It is evident that our country would be in a precarious position regarding the availability of the alcohol essential to victory if the people had not voted in 1933 to end prohibition, thus making this plant investment and production capacity possible.

Conversion of our whiskey distilleries into war alcohol units is being carried out by the use of special equipment called a packed column, designed and put into operation by Schenley engineers.

The packed column is constructed of non-critical materials, and consists principally of brick-tile Raschig-rings enclosed in a cylindrical shell. The separators, condensers and other needed equipment are part of existing distillery equipment, and only need to be suitably re-arranged and re-connected. Converting whiskey distilleries to war production plants by use of the packed column results in considerable savings of labor, time, materials and money, the essentials of industrial preparedness. The cost by our method is about one quarter of the cost of other known methods.

We have offered the use of the packed column system of conversion royalty-free to every distilling company in America, including whatever assistance is required in drawing up plans and writing specifications. Some companies have already availed themselves of this service.

While the entire industry will shortly be converted to war production, whiskey stocks aging in warehouses will continue to be available for bottling and sale. Trade reaction has been favorable to our recently announced plans for bottling and distribution of the company's products during the emergency which will enable us to make the best possible use of our reserve aging stocks of whiskies produced during the last nine years.

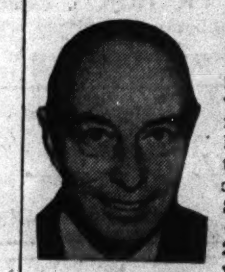
REVEAL WINNING BOX SCORE OF U. S. IN AIR: 279 TO 114

House Group Replies to Critics of Our Planes.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Robert A. Lovett.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Giving the nation the first "box score" in the epic struggle being waged by American combat flyers for air supremacy over the world battlefronts, a special house subcommittee tonight disclosed that United States army aircraft destroyed 279 enemy planes while losing 114 in the period from Feb. 1 thru Sept. 20.

From Aug. 14 thru Sept. 14, the subcommittee's report announced, the ratio of enemy planes destroyed to losses sustained by our army air forces was 7.5 to 1.

American airmen flying planes built in American factories and representing the best in American engineering skill and Yankee ingenuity, said the subcommittee announcement, have been found more than a match for any planes the axis war lord have sent against them.

Heavier Losses Ahead.

The group added a grim note of warning as to the probability of increased losses in the future, asserting that the ratio of our planes destroyed inevitably must go up as our forces advance further on the offensive in the air.

"This is obvious when one considers that the deeper one penetrates into enemy country, the longer the period of combat over hostile territory will be," the report stated. "Both the British and the German experience has indicated that aerial offensives are costly and we feel a heavy responsibility to point out these facts at the same time as these unusually favorable figures are released.

"We are confident that the American public has the courage and the understanding to accept the inevitable losses which must be taken in warfare, provided false hopes are not raised."

Answer to Criticism.

The group, an aviation subcommittee of the house military affairs committee, labeled its report a direct reply to recent criticism that the combat craft of the army air forces, particularly pursuit ships, is inferior to that of the enemy. Emphasizing that in aerial combat it is the "box score" that counts, the committee report declared that the records of our airmen should be a complete answer to anyone questioning the fighting qualities of American planes.

Following are the figures given by the subcommittee on victories of United States craft over axis warplanes:

1—From Feb. 1 thru Sept. 20: Enemy planes destroyed by army aircraft of all types on all fronts, 279. United States planes destroyed on all fronts, 114.

Down 5 to 1 in August.

2—For the month of August only: Enemy planes destroyed in combat, 75. United States planes lost, 15.

3—For the month of August: P-39s destroyed 19 enemy planes in combat with a loss of four P-39s. In the same period, P-40s destroyed 18 enemy planes with a loss of two P-40s.

4—For the day period, Aug. 14 thru Sept. 14: Ratio of enemy planes destroyed to United States losses, 7.5 to 1.

Exact figures in the latter instances are not disclosed, it was explained, only because the information is regarded as sufficiently new as to be of possible use to the enemy. It was revealed, however, that during the period P-39s destroyed 20 enemy planes with a loss of five and P-40s destroyed 14 enemy planes with a loss of one.

Triumph of B-17s.

Praising the achievements of American bombing planes, the report included two pulse stirring tales of triumphs scored by B-17 Flying Fortresses in the face of overwhelming odds over occupied Europe.

"On morning of Aug. 21, nine B-17 Flying Fortresses on a mission to Holland were attacked near the Dutch coast by 20 to 25 Messerschmitt 109-Fs and Focke-Wulf 190s, Germany's newest fighter," said the report. "In the fight which followed, two engines on one B-17 were put out of commission, causing the plane to become separated from the others. While flying alone it was attacked by a large number of enemy planes, in which encounter the co-pilot was killed and the pilot wounded.

"The bombardier took the co-pilot's place, revived the pilot, and with the help of the flight engineer brought the plane back to England on two engines, where the wounded pilot helped them to land it safely. The fight lasted 22 minutes, during which two Focke-Wulf 190s definitely were destroyed, in addition to four probables. All B-17s returned safely."

Quotes Combat Report.

In the second instance, a raid upon targets at Rotterdam by 24 B-17s on Sept. 7, the committee made public the following terse sentences from the official combat report:

"Enemy fighter opposition was continuous from the Dutch coast to the target and halfway across the North sea on return. One gunner was killed and two wounded in one B-17. All our aircraft returned safely, but several were damaged. B-17s destroyed 12 enemy planes definitely, 10 more probably."

Basing its findings on the testimony of expert witnesses, including American fighter pilots who have met and vanquished the enemy in the clouds, the committee declared that the Japanese Zero plane is an "excellent flying machine" but a "relatively poor" fighting craft.

The Zero has a faster climb, higher ceiling and greater maneuverability, the report admits. But, said the committee, the American P-40 has a number of better fighting characteristics, such as greater fire power, heavy armor, leakproof gasoline tanks, higher speed, and greater diving ability.

Accident Rate Improves.

Another section of the report, dealing with the nation's growing concern over airplane accidents, contains a letter from Robert A. Lovett, assistant secretary of war for air, in which it is disclosed that in the first seven months of 1942 the accident rate for army flyers per 1,000 flying hours was 15 per cent lower than the rate for the 10 years from 1930 to 1940.

From Jan. 1 thru July 31 of this year, Lovett's letter states, 45 per cent more hours were flown than in the whole of the 1930-'40 decade.

"We feel sure that the public is prepared for unavoidable accidents, but they are entitled to know that no pains are spared to keep accidents at the lowest rate consistent with the hazards necessarily involved in the primary task of the army air forces, which is to make our pilots the best combat pilots in the world," Lovett wrote.

High Officers Testify.

Among witnesses appearing before the committee were Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general, army air forces; Maj. Gen. Oliver C. Echols, chief of the air force material command; T. P. Wright, director of aircraft production of the War Production Board; Lieut. Col. Boyd D. Wagner, fighter pilot and American ace; Col. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., commander of a Flying Fortress squadron in the battle of Midway, and Assistant Secretary Lovett.

The report was signed by Representatives Dow W. Harter [D., O.], committee chairman; Andrew Edmiston [D., W. Va.]; Overton Brooks [D., La.], Leslie C. Arends [R., Ill.], and Charles H. Elston [R., O.].

'No Hunger, Best of Europe's Food,' Goering Promises Nazis

Marshal Goering.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Nazi No. 2 and one of the best nourished men in Germany, told his compatriots today that they would be fed this winter at the expense, if necessary, of the rest of Europe. Goering was blunt about it.

"In stifling the pangs of hunger the German people come first. It is my wish that the populations of territories placed under our care or conquered by us should not suffer hunger," he said.

"But if difficulties of food supply arise due to measures by the enemy then all should know: If there is hunger, it will be, in no event, in Germany. From now on it must be an unshakable policy that German workmen and those working in Germany be supplied with food the best of all."

Goering spoke for an hour and 48 minutes in connection with the annual harvest festival and his morale building address indicated unmistakably that German military leaders entertain no hope of finishing Russia quickly and that the high command is resigned to another defensive winter in Russia, with Germany exposed to air attack from the west.

Tries to Explain Poor Harvest.

The marshal asked all Germans to stand up under British bombing with patience, and said his own air force is so busy in Russia that he cannot get around immediately to meeting the British challenge in the air. But the day of retaliation will come, he said.

Goering's address, broadcast to Germany and the rest of the world, seemed designed to explain why this year's harvest in Europe may be inadequate for the needs of the continent.

Goering indicated that in only two respects were European and German harvests adequate. The potato crop, he said, was the best ever, while in the Kuban region along the Don river German troops took a district in which "sun flowers stretch as far as the eye can see."

Sun flower seed oil, he said, will do much to bolster the scanty fat rations of Germany and the occupied countries.

Promises More Meat.

Making one of the homely smartcracks, for which he is famous, he said:

"Take care of your potatoes, take them into the drawing room. I would rather put my potatoes in the drawing room than in the cellar, for a drawing room is of no use to me now, but potatoes will be of great use to me in the winter and spring."

Then he promised there would be some extra meat for Christmas [the average ration at present being about three quarters of a pound weekly], extra flour, "and probably other good things."

Special rations are being given to the more seriously bombed cities, he added, and said that on orders of Adolf Hitler every soldier returning from the front will be given a food package containing two pounds each of flour, beans, and sugar, a pound of butter, "and a great big sausage."

It's not for the soldier, "who is adequately fed," Goering said, but a gift "with which he can bring joy to his family."

The German army, he said, is supplied with food completely from occupied territories. The reich proper needs to feed only itself, 6,000,000 foreign workers within its borders and 5,000,000 war prisoners.

Seize $140,000 Gold Ingot from Vichy Fur Dealer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 4.—French police yesterday raided a fur store in Vichy owned by a man named Abramovitz and seized a gold ingot worth about 7,000,000 francs [about $140,000] and various English, American, and Austrian gold pieces. Abramovitz and his wife, who were arrested, said that the gold had been given them by a friend. They are held under a law which prohibits trafficking in gold.

FURRIERS TO VALUE-WISE CHICAGO WOMEN SINCE 1896

"A Pig in a Poke," you have heard the expression, maybe heard it referred to the buying of many articles such as furs. It is easy to suggest to you to shop for yourself and decide for yourself, but it usually requires an expert fur knowledge to shop and compare wisely. As fur experts we endeavor to consult every visitor to our showrooms as to what to look for and expect in the fur coat of their choice. It is this personalized service that has permitted us to successfully serve the women of Chicago for more than two generations . . . for we believe that to succeed, a quality furrier must give a specialized service plus better values.

Naturally, to know every fur coat in our stock . . . we really mean intimately, we cannot expect to do a large volume fur business . . . but by taking infinite pains we know that every garment in our showrooms will be outstanding in quality, style, workmanship and value. True, this holds us down in the amount of business we can do . . . but at the same time we know we will never through inability to personally supervise our stock, have to worry about offering "pigs in a poke." Because we have confidence in our furs that comes through personal knowledge, our customers can have confidence in our fur coats, too. That's the way our father ran this business before us; that's the way we hope our children will run it after we are gone.

MME. CHIANG HAS WILLKIE TO TEA; HE KISSES A GIRL

Makes a Tour of China's War Factories.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek.

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 4 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie was "greatly impressed" by the efficiency of the Chinese war industries he visited today after being honored at a tea by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. He kissed a Chinese girl war orphan, delighting the guests.

In his rapid tour of several of Chungking's war factories, moved inland years ago when the Japanese seized the Chinese seaboard, President Roosevelt's fact finding envoy questioned managers and workers.

"These industries are efficiently operated and the employés are skilful," he said. "What is being done is well done. A number of social problems remain to be solved, however, such as the high labor turnover. One of the principal problems of Free China is the transformation of an agricultural people to an industrial basis."

Compliments Willkie.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek had assembled a host of Chinese and foreign notables for her tea, at which she described Willkie as "a very distinguished personality, so wholeheartedly and essentially human that he is the very embodiment of the warmth and spontaneity which we so admire in Americans. He is a living vibrant symbol of the free nations."

Willkie, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, the generalissimo's American chief of staff, were at a tea table when seven of madame's adopted war orphans approached and sang "Welcome Willkie."

The group applauded warmly when Willkie left his table and kissed one of the little girls on the cheek. It was the second historic kiss Willkie planted during his visits to allied war theaters. A few days ago he kissed a Russian ballerina while the audience applauded.

"I accept as the quintessence of all the compliments I have ever received that I have been complimented by such a delightful lady," said Willkie. "In 1940 I made 625 campaign speeches and attempted to answer the master charmer of the day. That was easy. This is tough.

They're Going to Howl.

"The one contribution that I want to make is to howl and howl that all nations must be free to seek their own just aspirations. Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and I are going to howl for the right kind of world when this war is over."

Willkie was conducted on his tour of war industries by Wong Wen-hao, minister of economics. He questioned a score of surprised workers at their jobs, asking them about their wages, ages, hours of work, length of service, whether they were satisfied, and the like. A Chinese official served as interpreter.

Startles a Clerk.

Probably the most startled was 21 year old Yeh Tai-kwan, office clerk of a cotton mill employing 1,800 women and 1,000 men.

After telling his escort, "I want to ask my own questions, don't clamp on me," Willkie sat at the clerk's desk and asked:

"What do you think about the war?"

"I believe final victory belongs to China," was the reply.

The next query caused consternation.

"Why doesn't China make a separate peace? What difference does the united nations make?"

The clerk replied vehemently:

"No, no, we'll never do that."

Willkie wound up the day with a heart-to-heart chat with Chiang Kai-shek, whose guest he was at an informal dinner attended by a small group.

CITY FEDERATION INDORSES BAN ON 'CANNED MUSIC'

The Chicago Federation of Labor gave its formal support yesterday to the ban by James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians against recorded or canned music. The ban, effective last Aug. 1, prohibits union musicians from playing for commercial phonograph recordings, radio transcriptions, and juke box records.

The Chicago labor group declared that the object is to reëstablish employment for living musicians, and that the music fraternity has "the support of organized labor in its struggle to save its profession from annihilation."

Thurman Arnold, anti-trust chief of the department of justice, who recently initiated a suit in the federal court to smash the Petrillo ban, was accused by the Chicago group of trying the case in the newspapers and on the radio to the harm of musicians.

LONDON [By air mail].—It is a far cry from the rude air raid shelters where Londoners had hasty resort in the first fury of the Nazi blitz to the eight modern white walled tunnels—virtually complete communities—now being constructed deep in the earth. The new subterranean areas each have sleeping accommodations for 8,000 people, are stocked with food, and have medical and recreational facilities.

The first shelters were steel tunnels erected in gardens. They proved useless in wintertime because they flooded quickly. Brick surface shelters were attempted, but were badly constructed and frequently fell apart without much enemy help. Basements of big buildings were used for a time.

Then came the subway era and more recently new brick surface shelters were built—these being reinforced with steel and having extra layers of brick.

House 2 Per Cent of People.

London authorities stressed that the 64,000 who can be admitted to the eight new tunnels added to about twice that number who can use the subway stations form only 2 per cent of the population of London county. Thus, in the event of new German raids, private shelters will still have to be used by the great majority.

Two of the new tunnels are already finished and four others are sufficiently advanced for use in an emergency. The shelters are built beneath the subway tracks, at depths varying from 68 feet to 120 feet below ground level. After the war they will be used for an extension of the underground transportation system.

Each of these shelters consists of two main twin tunnels, 1,200 feet long and 16 feet 6 inches in diameter.

Have no Gas Protection.

The tunnels are mechanically ventilated and equipped with disinfectant apparatus. They are not gasproof, however, and occupiers will be warned to bring their gas masks. Large food reserves have been laid in, doctors and nurses will be in continual residence if the raids are resumed, and space is provided for movie showings and amateur entertainments. Each section is named after a British army or navy hero.

BRITISH HONOR 9 FLYING TIGERS FOR BURMA WORK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault and other former American "Flying Tigers" have been awarded British decorations, the war department announced today, for gallantry during the defense of Burma. The awards were made by the British air command in India, acting thru China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. The American volunteer group of flyers was in Chinese government service during the Burma fighting.

To Gen. Chennault, the commander, went the badge of an honorary commander of the most excellent order of the British empire. The distinguished flying cross was awarded to Squadron Leaders Robert James Sandell of San Antonio, Tex., and Robert H. Neale of Seattle, Wash.; Vice Squadron Leaders David Lawrence Hill of San Antonio, Tex., and Frank Schiel of Prescott, Ariz.; Flight Leaders C. R. Bend of Dallas, Tex., and R. L. Little of Spokane, Wash., and Wing Man Frank Lindsay Lawlor of Coronado, Cal.

The British empire medal [military] was awarded to Line Chief H. E. Fox of Coronado, Cal.

Just by Keeping Well YOU can help Win this War!

Nearly 15 million women workers needed!

YOU millions of women enlisting in war-production work face many new health problems. Many of you are young, starting your first jobs. Many of you are wives and mothers.

You're taking on double duty—the hardship of managing a home and a job at the same time.

And you are needed more than ever now. Every hour you lose from illness today is precious time lost to the war effort. You are needed too, as a well and healthy guardian of your family.

That's only one reason why it is so important that you keep well.

Another reason is the growing doctor shortage because such a big proportion of all of our doctors must be away with the armed forces. All of us must help the remaining doctors by avoiding needless and preventable illness.

It's easier to keep well than to get well

In this message are five simple rules for keeping well. Read them, clip them out and memorize them.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health Service says: "Health protection, like charity, begins at home. Let us learn all that we can about how to keep well. Let us live sanely, eat properly, sleep enough, play a little, avoid all overindulgence and sublimate worry by helping others in worse plight than ourselves."

FOLLOW THESE 5 RULES

Memorize these five keys to good health. Follow them carefully—for your own welfare and for victory.

1. Eat right
Milk, butter, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans and peas, fruit, green leafy vegetables and the yellow ones, whole-grain or enriched cereals and bread—these are the key foods. Eat plenty of them. And eat 3 meals a day!

2. Get your rest
Regularity counts most. You can't catch up on lost sleep or missed relaxation! Try to keep on a regular schedule every day. Take it easy for a little while after lunch and dinner. Go to bed on time, get up on time.

3. See your doctor once a year
You have your car checked and serviced every thousand miles. Do as much for your body. Physicians can prevent many diseases and illnesses for both children and grownups nowadays. Give your doctor a chance now, BEFORE you get sick. Go to see him!

4. Keep clean
Plenty of baths, lots of soap. Clean hands, clothes, houses, beds! Get fresh air, sunshine. Drink lots of water.

5. "Play" some each day
Romp with the family, visit with friends, take walks, play games—or do whatever you like to give your mind and body a change from the daily grind on the job. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Life insurance has provided the means to keep millions of Americans in health and security. This message is one way life insurance companies believe they can help you to help win this war. Institute of Life Insurance, 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

U. S. TROOPS KEEP LONELY VIGIL ON ALASKAN BEACH

Find Only Desolation, No Signs of Life.

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

AN ALASKAN COMBAT BASE, Oct. 4 [Wide World].—Lieut. Abner A. Towers wonders whether seal meat really would be good to eat.

Lieut. J. T. Abbott hopes his girl friend understands exactly why they could not be married as they had planned.

And Lieut. Joe Ridgeway wishes he could move just a little further away from that dead whale.

The three lieutenants, each with a squad of enlisted men, floundered ashore weeks ago, moved into concealed camps, manned radio sending stations—and then waited and watched. The first land on which they set foot in Alaska was an empty beach below a commanding promontory from which they could watch both sea and sky without being seen easily

His Nose Knows.

Each squad had only its shelter halves—pup tents in older military language. It was raining, as it usually is in the Aleutian combat zone. There were no signs of human habitation nor animal life at first glance, altho when the fog cleared, Lieut. Ridgeway was able to locate the whale that had given olfactory evidence of its presence. There were no trees, no paths thru the dripping, waist high grass that grew down to the beach.

Some streams were visibly alive with hump-backed salmon and the trout that follow to eat the salmon eggs. Sea gulls were over the beaches, and clumsy sea pigeons with yellow bills tried desperately to rise with their undersized wings.

Other streams ran concealed under the tundra so that a man falling might easily land in water he hadn't seen.

For rations, the squads had only the army's emergency portions, plus a few boxes of canned goods.

Can't Even Use Radio.

Then the small boats which had brought them left the three shore parties alone. Each officer was instructed to use his radio only to report the presence of the enemy in force. Even the serious illness or death of officer or enlisted man, they were told, would be insufficient excuse for breaking the radio silence which was their only protection—other than a few machine guns and rifles—from enemy attack.

On these isolated beaches, no one ever had lived in modern times, except a few trappers, and those had long since been evacuated. One or two of the outposts located old cabins or underground native huts and used them for shelter.

The outposts could not even listen to their radios—and heard nothing if they did, for radio silence was being maintained by United States forces all thru this combat area.

Then the supplies arrived by boat. The boat had no name, and she certainly was no beauty, but each unshaven lieutenant relaxed a little as he climbed aboard. And each one looked first at the piles of food, then at the officers who waited for them.

Fish to Fry—No Grease.

Over coffee—their first which had not come ready mixed out of a ration can—they told their problems, always the same: "We had trouble keeping dry. We caught some fish, but had no grease to cook them. With fuel and stoves we'll be all right."

Lieut. Abbott wondered whether Doris Okelberry, Goshen, Utah, had any idea where he was. They were to have been married in June, he said, but his orders brought him to Alaska the day before the ceremony had been scheduled. And Lieut. Ridgeway admitted that he really was getting tired of the dead whale.

JAPAN CAN'T INVADE ALASKAN MAINLAND, SAYS 'GLACIER PRIEST'

Alaska never can be successfully or practically invaded, despite the fact the Japanese now have a toehold in the western Aleutians, Father Hubbard, Alaska's "glacier priest," who for 16 years has ranged the northern territory from Siberia to the arctic circle, said here yesterday.

"Those who are in Alaska first definitely can hold it," says Father Hubbard. "We were there first, and there is no way the Japs can drive us out. They cannot ferry the necessary food and war materials for a successful siege, and the weather in the Aleutians area is too formidable to permit an invasion."

Father Hubbard is in Chicago to deliver an illustrated lecture on the war in Alaska in the Civic Opera house Wednesday night. While here he is stopping at Holy Family church, 1076 Roosevelt road.

The logical route for invasion of Japan, he believes, is thru interior Alaska, across to Siberia, and southward, with prongs on Kamchatka and the Siberian coast forming pincers on Tokio.

GREEN VOWS AFL SUPPORT OF U. S. INFLATION CURBS

Federation Council Rips NLRB and OPA.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 4 (AP).—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor pledged the support of his organization today to the United States government's new attack on the inflation front.

Here to attend the federation's 62d annual convention, opening tomorrow, Green said he interpreted the wage features as stabilization and not "freezing" and said "we will coöperate fully." Altho unable to express an opinion on all sections of President Roosevelt's executive order, he said in a press conference that one feature for which the AFL and CIO had contended had been embodied in the order.

"That is the exercise of the right of collective bargaining in mediation and utilizing the services of the war labor board in working out wage scales and settling wage disputes."

Hit NLRB for Bias.

The executive council of the AFL meanwhile angrily accused the United States National Labor Relations board of bias and criticized the Office of Price Administration for indecision in its annual report to the federation convention.

In a 250 page printed document, the council said that altho the three original members of the NLRB and many subordinates had been replaced "the evils we have been complaining of have not been fully removed."

The council attributed this to "the absolute power vested in three government officials to shape the structure of the trade union movement and the retention of certain important officials—particularly regional directors—who continue to reflect the bias and attitudes of the original board."

OPA "Hesitant and Dilatory."

The report attacked "the board's incredible disregard for craft union rights" and its favoritism toward the CIO policy of organizing unions on an industry basis.

"Unless the board abandons its present trends and permits workers to exercise the rights granted them by the Wagner act," the report said, "it is self-evident that passage of our amendments may become a necessary and even indispensable war measure."

Reviewing the record of the OPA, the council said its approach to rent control was "hesitant and dilatory" and that in the field of rationing it "sought to postpone as long as possible this necessary but unpopular step." The report said the OPA also "lacked courage in attacking the price structures of the initial processors of our raw materials."

Henderson Fails Promise.

The council told of a "stormy session" of the OPA labor policy committee with Administrator Leon Henderson in which Henderson was said to have promised, but never delivered, a statement of policy on the relation of price control to wage fixing.

The conclusion of the council's report recommended that the President establish an over-all board of economic and military strategy. This recommendation, which was prepared before the enactment of the recent cost-of-living stabilization legislation, was not developed substantially in the report.

Nearly 600 delegates were on hand for the opening convention session. Secretary-Treasurer George Meany reported per capita tax payments on 5,482,581 members, an increase of nearly 1,000,000 since the last convention.

TRIBUNES POUR FROM PRESSES IN TIDAL WAVE

Plant's Equipment Rated World's Greatest.

ment for Godey's Lady's Book—and won the drawing which permitted him to pull the press lever and print the first issue of the paper. The reader may be interested in knowing something of the operation of the Washington press, which was not drastically different from Gutenberg's first printing machine.

Speed: 200 Prints an Hour!

The rectangular iron form [chase] containing the handset type of a single page was laid on the press, inked by hand, and covered with the sheet to be printed. After a few more preliminaries, the lever was pulled and a plate came down, pressing the paper smoothly against the type. Later, the sheet had to be printed on the opposite side and folded by hand. The press' maximum capacity was about 200 sheets, printed on one side, each hour.

Two years later, the building at the southwest corner of Lake and La Salle streets, where THE TRIBUNE was born, burned down. Moving to the northwest corner of Lake and Clark streets, the paper obtained a second Washington press which served until 1852 when a Hoe steam press, with a self-inking cylinder and a capacity of 700 to 800 single sheets an hour was installed.

Improvements followed rapidly in press equipment, especially during the Civil war period when circulation rose sharply. A hand operated folding machine was developed. In 1869, Joseph Medill bought two eight cylinder Hoe presses to be installed in the newspaper's new home at Madison and Dearborn streets.

Plant Burns; Paper Goes On.

These are the presses that went thru the great fire. Even today they would be impressive to the layman; 20 feet high, 31½ feet long, and weighing 23 tons, they could print 16,000 sheets an hour—on one side.

During the first months after the fire, THE TRIBUNE was issued from a converted job shop on Canal street and printed on an old press Mr. Medill found stored in a barn. It moved back into a new building at Madison and Dearborn streets late in 1872.

In 1873 two revolutionary new presses were acquired. The paper was fed in from a roll instead of one sheet at a time, and they printed 10,000 sheets an hour ON BOTH SIDES, snipping them off with a cutting cylinder. These presses used stereotype plates—the first ever known in Chicago. Few improvements in printing have been as important to dailies of large circulation as stereotyping.

This is a method of casting, in hard metal, exact replicas of the type locked into the page forms, or chases. The stereotype changed to a large degree the design of newspaper presses.

Speeds Up Production.

When there was but a single type form—containing individual handset pieces of type—it could, of course, be placed on only one press. Every effort therefore, was made to design presses that would print ever increasing numbers of copies.

Stereo plates, however, could be cast quickly at relatively low cost and in any quantity required from the same page of original type. Thus, the publisher could install as many presses as his circulation might warrant. Too, the presses could be designed for speed and smooth operation without sacrificing other advantages for mere size.

Sterotyping had other good features. Casting did not wear down type faces as did duty on the press. Corrections were made in the composing room, instead of in the maw of the press, after which new stereo plates were cast, thus saving much time in press shutdowns.

In its bare essentials, stereotyping 70 years ago was done very much as it is today. The first step was to take an impression of the type form on a mat of papier mache composition. The mat was wet and composed of several sheets of tissue paper backed by blotting paper, the whole held together by a flour and water paste. Each of the early stereotypers had his own formula for this paste and he guarded it jealously.

Metal Plates Cast from Paper.

The mat then was dried and placed in a curved casting box, where hot metal was poured over it and given time to harden.

The resulting plate, semicylindrical in form, was shaved to remove rough spots on its underside and to make it the same thickness everywhere. The early casting box was operated by hand and the casting metal—composed of lead, tin, and antimony—was poured in from a ladle. The first Tribune stereotypes were heated by gas.

Since that time there have been many changes and improvements. Massive mat rollers that exert thousands of pounds pressure on dry mats are situated in the composing room on the third floor of the present Tribune plant. The mats are dropped down a chute to the stereo foundry in the first basement, just off the press room. Automatic conveyers, flush with the floor, send the finished plates scuttling along beside the presses to be picked up by the pressmen and locked on the cylinders.

The casting operation is almost entirely automatic. The great vats of metal are heated by electricity. And many of these refinements and improvements have been made under the eyes of Robert J. Longmore, superintendent and oldest employé of the stereotyping department. He came to work for THE TRIBUNE on July 4, 1898—44 years ago.

Employé Develops Folder.

With the inauguration of stereotyping, rapid improvement of news presses was on its way. In 1875 THE TRIBUNE had a Bullock press capable of running 12,000 sheets an hour. In 1879 came another leap forward, thru the genius of a Tribune employé.

Conrad Kahler, superintendent of the pressroom, devised an automatic folder that was geared directly to the press. Every other sheet was deflected to fall directly upon the one ahead of it so that an 8 page paper could be folded in one operation. It was the first automatic folding machine in Chicago and a patent was issued in Kahler's name. His device could fold 8,000 papers an hour as against 3,000 by the hand operated folders, which required a large force of men.

Nine years later THE TRIBUNE had 10 of these presses; capacity, 80,000 folded papers an hour. By 1893 capacity on a single press was 24,000 8, 10, or 12 page papers an hour, or 12,000 16, 20, or 24 page papers. Both steam and electricity now were available for power. In 1902 total capacity was 328,000 16 page papers an hour.

In 1920 came a revolutionary improvement that is standard at THE TRIBUNE, and has been copied widely. Twenty-five Goss press units were installed in the present Michigan avenue plant—then new—and were known as the McCormick unit type presses.

Conceived by Col. McCormick.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, conceived the plan of installing these units not as segregated, individual machines but as a continuous line. They were connected mechanically and electrically. Under this plan it is possible to operate presses of any size, insuring flexibility and maximum use of equipment.

Not a year has passed since then without expansion and advance in THE TRIBUNE press room. In the subbasements of Tribune Tower today are 101 press units with 19 double folders, 15 four color and 1 older color press [which will be described in a later article on color printing]. And their capacity? One million 65 thousand 40 page papers an hour!

THE TRIBUNE'S 165 press room employés are fiercely proud of these towering monsters which Mr. Bennett likened to thundering railroad locomotives. Proud, too, are Edgar Mahar, superintendent, who has watched TRIBUNE press development 42 years, and his oldest employé and fellow worker, Ray W. Carlton, who has been here more than 41.

There is a feeling of tense expectancy at press time. Down the block long lines of presses scuttle the curved, white metal plates—like so many prehistoric, armor-shelled reptiles. With the plates clamped into place the protective shields are battened down [they were invented and patented by Otto Wolf, assistant production manager of THE TRIBUNE to eliminate ink mist and protect the press crew].

Controled by Tiny Buttons.

A green button is pushed down, then a black one, and the mighty presses start almost noiselessly. Slowly they gain speed and a steady, metallic knocking becomes noticeable. This is the cutting and folding cylinder. At first its cadence is about that of a carpenter's hammer, striking a nail.

When the yellow button goes down and the presses thunder exultantly into high speed, the knocking fills the room with the staccato crash of a machine gun.

Suddenly, a grey cloud seems to swirl out from the maw of the great machines. There has been a break in one of the webs—the running strip of white paper that is coming up from the reel room below. Journeymen pressmen leap to the controls. The massive presses come to a stop.

Fly boys, as they are known, pull out the masses of torn paper. The man in charge is on the spot instantly. A pressman finds the folded and completed paper in which the tear started.

The man in charge looks closely at the small V-shaped strip where the break began. He breathes upon his fingers to moisten them slightly, then he runs them along the strip.

"Glue!" he says. A small spot of adhesive has somehow gotten onto the end of one of the 1,800 pound rolls in the reel. It has caused the layer coming off the roll at high speed to stick to the layer below. The ripping tear follows.

While the fault for the web break is being placed, fast work on the press is in progress. A carryoff boy is removing the rumpled and torn mass of paper. Pressmen are leading the severed end of the web high thru the inked plates and down thru the folding devices. While this is being done a brown button has been pushed down. This makes it impossible to start the presses from any of the many controls and averts injury to the men who are leading the web.

It is an intricate task and requires much skill. In years past many pressmen incurred grave injuries to hands and arms thru lack of the present safety methods.

Change Rolls Without Stop.

One of the most spectacular pressroom operations—and one that saves precious minutes and electric power—is called a "high speed paster." In a second basement, below the pressroom proper, rest the bases of the presses. From the aforementioned 1,800 pound rolls—three to a reel—the web feeds up to the inked plates at terrific speed. When a roll has dwindled to almost nothing a control is pressed, revolving the reel and throwing a fresh roll against the speeding web of the expiring roll.

The new roll begins to turn, gaining speed rapidly. Across its fly or lead-in end a special brown tape has been affixed in fantastic patterns. When the big spool is turning at press speed, another control is moved. Up from the floor comes a saw toothed knife, the width of the web. The knife flicks. The expiring roll flaps to a stop. A web of fresh paper is spinning upward into the thundering press, which hasn't slackened speed an instant. A heavy reek like that of chloroform fills the air.

It has been too fast for the eye to follow. But this is what happened. At the instant the knife flicked, severing the old web, a row of nozzles sprayed an ethylene mist upon the brown tape, imparting to it an adhesiveness like that of furniture glue.

Instantly, the tape seized the end of the old web in an ironlike grip and the "flying paster" had been completed. The ethylene, of course, was responsible for the pungent reek. Said the press room visitor to the veteran who had shown him about:

"A week's stay down here would not be long enough to learn about everything." Said the veteran:

"I've been here more than 30 years. I'm still learning."

A masked bandit who was shot and killed early yesterday by Policeman Edward Piggott of the Chicago Lawn station was found later to have served a year in the Bridewell for a holdup in 1929. The police said they would ask victims of recent robberies to see if they could identify the dead gunman as the man who robbed them.

The bandit was Joseph Novak, 38 years old, of 5143 Ada street. Policeman Piggott was in the garage of McAvoy Brothers, beverage distributors at 5941 South Damen avenue, when Novak entered and announced a holdup. Piggott killed him with a bullet thru the head after Novak had pulled the trigger of his own weapon, which jammed.

SEEK BAR PATRON WHO KILLED MAN AFTER SLAPPING

Police yesterday sought a man known only as "Tom," who shot and killed Al Rocco, 34 years old, after Rocco had slapped his face in the tavern of George Hughes, 2134 Michigan avenue. Police said they understand the killer is a commercial photographer.

Bartender Anthony Costanza said Rocco, who was manager of the Chinatown Bowery tavern, 2249 Wentworth avenue, was sitting at the bar when the man entered, took a seat beside him and said, "Hello, Al." Rocco slapped him on the face, saying, "Don't bother me," according to Costanza. Tom persisted and Rocco slapped him again.

Leaving the tavern, Tom returned with a gun. He fired six shots at Rocco, several taking effect. As he fell Rocco drew a gun and fired two wild shots at his assailant, who escaped.

He has both eyes open

Whether you work in a laboratory, or at a polished desk . . . you get perspective only if you have both eyes open.

Management-men have discovered a method of keeping both eyes open (and on the ball!) when making vital business-in-war decisions.

It takes two points of view to run a factory, or any other business, in these grim days. The inside facts come first, of course, but before important decisions can be made, outside factors must be judged, too.

Management-men get their internal facts from their control-records . . . but they see things more clearly—make sounder decisions—because they know where to find the answers to external questions like these:

Will the regional manpower offices save me trips to Washington? . . . Are employers coming to collective bargaining? . . . How sure a control over Congress is F. D. R.'s veto power? . . . What are the week's rulings on priorities, price control, transportation?

Business Week has just one job to do . . . to filter the news of industry, finance, government and war for the facts an executive needs to know when he faces a business decision.

That's why the red and black of Business Week's cover is a familiar sight on the desks of men who say the "yes" or "no" for industry.

Use Business Week to help in making your decisions.

Use Business Week to reach the Management decision-makers of industry with your advertising. . . If they don't mean business, they don't read Business Week.

Business Week reaches more management-men readers per advertising dollar than any other general business magazine, general news magazine, or general magazine of any kind.

EXPECT LABOR CONSCRIPTION AFTER ELECTION

New Deal Project Affects Both Men and Women.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Having adopted a program to combat the rising cost of living, which was a source of widespread uneasiness and might have had serious political effects, the Roosevelt administration now confronts the still greater challenge of a shortage of man power for the nation's agriculture and war industry as more and more men are taken for the armed services.

Nothing is to be done about the man power shortage, however, until after the general election Nov. 3. This has been made abundantly clear by administration officials testifying before congressional investigating committees.

Job Freezing Planned.

Immediately after the election the administration is expected to submit to congress a "national service" bill, under which the government would have authority not only to "freeze" men and women in their present jobs but also to assign them to work on farms, in war industries, mines, or wherever their services might be deemed necessary. Women as well as men would be subject to conscription for war industry work under the proposed legislation, while even high school children might be ordered to work part time on farms.

Bills of this character already have been introduced by Sen. Lister Hill [D., Ala.] and Sen. Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.] and the military affairs committee may begin hearings on them this week. However, these are not administration measures.

Bungling of Program Charged.

According to members of congressional investigating committees, the man power problem has been bungled to an even greater degree than the chaotic raw materials program, which was the subject of severe condemnation by the Baruch committee, appointed by President Roosevelt to survey the synthetic rubber problem.

The War Man Power commission, headed by Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, was created by President Roosevelt last April 18 to do, among other things:

"Formulate legislative programs designed to facilitate the most effective mobilization and utilization of the man power of the country; and, with the approval of the President, recommend such legislation as may be necessary for this purpose."

Altho the Baruch committee required only a few weeks to survey the complex and highly technical rubber program and make its recommendations, McNutt thus far has submitted no recommendation for legislation. He has issued directives—many of which have been ignored by other government agencies, notably by the selective service system—and has made many speeches, but he has had no legal authority for effective action. He has assured congressional committees that compulsory labor legislation is necessary and will be submitted to congress in due time, but the proposed legislation has not been revealed.

Food Shortage Predicted.

Unimpressed by the reassurances of Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, members of both the senate and house agriculture committees contend that there will be a serious food shortage next year because of the inability of the farmers to obtain labor and farm machinery.

"You cannot overemphasize the crisis which will hit this country if farmers are not given consideration of some sort," said Sen. George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.]. "The only way a terrible tragedy can be averted is to make some drastic changes in the selective service setup which will keep men on the farms where they can do more good than they can anywhere else."

Both McNutt and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, have estimated that it requires 18 men in war industries and other civilian occupations to equip and supply one man in the armed forces. With the ultimate size of the armed services currently estimated officially at 10 to 13 millions, a total of 180 to 234 million civilian workers would be required, according to the McNutt-Hershey estimates. The total population is not more than 134 million, according to the census bureau.

While it is obvious that something is wrong with these estimates, it is reported that some government officials are apprehensive that the mass army now being planned by the high command will be too big for the nation's production machine to support.

Production Requirements Grow.

War production requirements grow in proportion to the size of the army, while the man power available for war production diminishes as the army increases. It is understood that some administration officials are demanding a realistic balance between available man power and the prospective size of the army.

Nelson indicated in testimony before the house agricultural committee on Friday that estimates for the ultimate size of the army are undergoing study for possible revision downward.

"It is a question of balancing off our man power needs against the basic raw materials available to supply the armed forces and the man power needed for production," Nelson told the committee. "The discussions are moving forward rapidly on that front. A decision will be arrived at soon."

Members of congress contend that Gen. Hershey and the conflicting policies of local draft boards thruout the country share responsibility with McNutt for the chaos in the man power situation. They believe the selective service system has given inadequate consideration to the labor requirements of both industry and agriculture.

G. O. P. CHANCES NEVER BETTER IN MICHIGAN, SAY TWO CANDIDATES

Michigan's two Republican ticket leaders in the November election stopped briefly in Chicago yesterday and said G. O. P. chances were never better in their traditionally Republican state.

H. F. Kelly [top] and Homer Ferguson.

The two candidates—Harry F. Kelly for governor and Judge Homer Ferguson for United States senator — backed up their prediction with observations culled on the first part of a swing thru Michigan.

"The people are tired of the squabbling and bickering in high offices," said Kelly, now Michigan secretary of state. "The people are ready to go; they lack only leadership—and the Republicans can give it to them."

"Facts are what American citizens want," said Judge Ferguson, who single handed smashed organized crime in the Detroit area. "Give Americans the facts and they'll do the job. I believe it is the senate's duty to dig out and present the facts about the war effort."

VICHY, France, Oct. 4.—The showing of American moving pictures in France will be suspended after the middle of this month, according to a recent ruling of the cinema section of the secretariat for information. The information service has requested distributors to deposit old American films in their possession with the information service.

BURGLARS STEAL 200 DRESSES.

Burglars jimmied the double locked doors of a clothes shop at 1373 Milwaukee avenue yesterday, forced their way thru a heavy steel grating, and made off with 200 dresses valued at $500.

BIND CLERK, TAKE $69.27.

Two bandits with handkerchiefs over their faces seized Clarence Martin, clerk at the Birchmont hotel, 1456 Fargo avenue, early yesterday, bound him in the alley, and took $69.27 from the hotel's cash drawer.

BARRETT WARNS AGAINST ILLEGAL ACTS IN REGISTRY

Threatens to Prosecute; Quotes Statute.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 4.—Attorney General George F. Barrett today warned all election officials that he will prosecute under sections of the Illinois election code all persons engaging in illegal practices at the final general registration of downstate voters Tuesday.

All of Illinois is operating under a permanent registration law for the first time this year. Cook county and nine downstate cities have operated under such a law for several years.

Downstate voters in 4,060 precincts will have their last chance Tuesday to go to their nearest polling places and register so that they may vote in the Nov. 3 election.

Charges Bring Warning.

Barrett said he was issuing his warning because charges of fraud had been made following the first general precinct registration day, Sept. 19. He said these charges were to the effect that county clerks in a number of counties had failed to furnish polling places with adequate supplies of registration material so that all voters who appeared could place themselves on the books.

The attorney general said that his reports indicated that any shortage of materials which may have occurred was not the result of "connivance," but he added:

"I warn the election officials I will not tolerate crookedness in connection with registration and promise prosecutions for any who try to get away with it this coming Tuesday."

Charges were carried to Barrett from several large Republican precincts that certain precinct officials last general registration day received only a fraction of the cards and other material necessary under the law. It was said that in some cases polls were compelled to close at 4 p. m., five hours before the legal time, because they ran out of supplies. Many prospective registrants had to be turned away, Barrett was told.

Cites Words of Statute.

He said that examination of the election law disclosed he has powers, under chapter 46, paragraph 84, of the Illinois revised statutes of 1941, to prosecute election officials who tamper with the registration machinery as set forth in the new law. He cited the following:

"Whoever wilfully abets any one not legally qualified to vote at an election in voting or attempting to vote at such election; or

"By unlawful means prevents or attempts to prevent any voter from attending or voting at an election; or

"Gives or offers to give any valuable thing or bribe to any judge or clerk of an election, as a consideration for some act to be done or omitted to be done contrary to his official duty in relation to such election, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, or imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one or more than five years, in the discretion of the court.

Involves Loss of Franchise.

"Any person who is convicted of any such offense shall be disfranchised for a term of not more than five years and forfeit his right to hold any elective or appointive office in this state for a term of not more than five years."

Meanwhile, Alfred F. Schupp, Joliet, active co-chairman of the special registration committee set up by Gov. Dwight H. Green, said he hoped many farmers and residents of downstate rural areas would register today and tonight with the county clerks and the deputies established for registration under a ruling by the attorney general.

Schupp added with a smile that he hoped particularly that women in the agricultural sections would register—they are not required by law to state their ages, but merely to swear they are more than 21 years old.

REVISION OF GAS RATIONING URGED BY MOTOR CLUBS

Car Driver Campaign Planned at Rally.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Leading automobile clubs thruout the country, including the Chicago Motor club, made known today they propose to organize car owners to campaign for reforms in the administration of the rubber program.

William M. Jeffers.

They seek prompt relief from nation-wide gasoline rationing, projected as a tire conservation measure.

Other club representatives, at a two day conference here, said they will postpone any fight until William M. Jeffers, newly appointed rubber administrator, has had more time to demonstrate his ability to undo errors of other federal administrators during the first 10 months of the war. They were influenced by reports that Jeffers plans to provide rubber for the operation of all automobiles within limitations of the motor fuel rations.

At the sessions, behind closed doors, Joseph J. Cavanagh, general manager of the Chicago Motor club, charged that America's success in the war might be threatened unless there are radical reforms in the management of the government's rubber program. He said that under a democratic form of government it is proper for the electorate to voice demands for adequate rubber for all military requirements and for a sound civilian economy to support the military.

Clarence Werthan of Denver, Colo., managing director of the Rocky Mountain Motorists' association, said his clubs in Colorado, Wyoming, and New Mexico were going to pledge all congressional and senatorial candidates in the November elections to demand quicker and bigger production of rubber.

Committee Report Cited.

Matt F. Morse at St. Louis, Mo., president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, quoted criticisms of the rubber administration contained in the report of President Roosevelt's special committee headed by Bernard Baruch. His club is among those planning campaigns urging reforms that would end the necessity of nation-wide gas rationing as rigid as that imposed along the Atlantic coast. Restrictions were imposed on the east as a result of a regional shortage of petroleum, brought about by submarine attacks on oil tankers.

California clubs, while not represented at the meeting, were reported to be active in appealing for an end of fumbling with the rubber problem.

Thomas A. Henry of Detroit, Mich., president of the American Automobile association, objected to the issuance of any statement by the A. A. A. at this time. He and others pleaded for more time for Jeffers, a railroad man, to feel his way thru the rubber muddle.

There was much discussion in the closed conferences of reports that production of synthetic rubber could be increased by wiping out monopolistic tendencies and permitting all new processes to join in a rapid and adequate output of rubber substitutes.

Milwaukee Youth Killed Self, Say Investigators

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 4 [Special].—The coroner's office today called suicide the death of Louis Smith Jr., 16, who shot himself late yesterday in the garage of his home on Ryan road. Investigators said Smith hooked the trigger of a shotgun on a nail in the garage. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smith, said the boy was in apparent good spirits yesterday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

WAR BUNGLING DIMS NEW DEAL'S STAR IN WYOMING

G. O. P. in Position to Oust Two 'Rubber Stamps.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 4.—Popular dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war and with Roosevelt domestic policies threaten the Democrats with defeat in Wyoming in November. In that event the Republicans will gain a senator and a congressman and reëlect Republican Gov. Nels H. Smith.

Gov. N. H. Smith.

The universal testimony is that the people are ready to make any sacrifices necessary to fight this war to an uncompromising victory. Their sons are being drafted by the thousands for the fighting fronts. There is no complaint on that score, but there is a deep and spreading doubt that the direction of the colossal undertaking is in the most competent hands in Washington.

The natural impulse of the citizen entertaining such doubts is to vote against the party in power, which is responsible for the conduct of the war and properly chargeable with failure to measure up to the demands of the undertaking. This is the state of public sentiment in this region that is rebounding to the benefit of the Republicans.

Democrats on Defensive.

Democratic leaders privately admit that their party is on the defensive but do not regard the situation serious - at least not yet. As they judge public sentiment, people may be disturbed by the unfavorable course of the war up to date, by the apparent muddling and confusion in Washington and by official admissions that we are losing the war, such as that made by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph Bard, but at the same time are inclined to reserve judgment. As one of these leaders put it:

"Our people know that we started this war unprepared and that it's been a whale of a job to get the country organized for war. You'll find mighty few people who are ready to say that the President has made a bad job of it. Anyway, a good victory or maybe the push on the second front before election would change public sentiment a lot. There would be little pessimism left for the Republicans to capitalize."

Winning War Is Main Issue.

Frank A. Barrett, the lawyer and stock raiser who is the Republican candidate for congressman, said he would yield to no Democrat in satisfaction with a more favorable turn to the war, even if it meant Democratic victory at the polls and his own defeat.

"It is more important to win the war than to get elected to office," he said. "I should have no regret if I were defeated because of evidence of efficient conduct of the war by the party in power."

"The main issue is winning the war," said E. V. Robertson, the Cody raiser of cattle and sheep on a vast scale who is the Republican candidate for senator. "We unqualifiedly support the commander in chief in every effort he is making to win the war. But congress also has its function in the winning of the war. The importance of its function alone in the financing of the government for successful prosecution of the war cannot be exaggerated. It is imperative, for example, to halt all unnecessary peacetime expenditures."

Robertson stresses the economy program sponsored by Democratic Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia to which the President has exhibited only coolness up to date.

Sen. Schwarz Criticized.

Robertson's Democratic opponent is Sen. H. H. Schwarz, who is seeking a second term. Opposition to Schwarz emphasizes his lack of independence, the senator priding himself on 100 per cent support of the President. In his 74th year he is being twitted with his support of Mr. Roosevelt's dictum that a judge is not fit to serve after reaching 70. Schwarz is under fire also for voting against the amendment to make the pay of soldiers $50 instead of $45 a month. He said the $5 additional pay would not make the boys fight any harder or be any more patriotic.

Democratic Congressman John J. McIntyre, also serving his first term, is opposed because of his rubber stamp record. He has a formidable opponent in Mr. Barrett who is an exceedingly able and well known citizen, for many years a trustee of the University of Wyoming.

The labor vote, which is concentrated chiefly in the coal mining district and the railway centers, is accounted to be about 80 per cent Democratic. The live stock raisers, the sugar beet growers, the wheat growers, and other farmers and the business men, however, are becoming more and more antagonistic to the New Deal. The farm organization meetings of late have rung with denunciation of administration policies. The President is openly accused of favoring labor at the expense of agriculture, as in his plan to limit farm product prices by law while retaining the discretion to permit increase of wages.

Mrs. Roosevelt Stirs Storm.

The sugar beet growers are all het up over Mrs. Roosevelt's utterance at the Hudson shore labor school:

"I hope and pray that we won't encourage the beet sugar industry because it has always had to be subsidized and always took advantage of cheap labor that had to go on relief the rest of the year."

The beet growers contend that while they are subsidized, their program produces a net annual profit for the treasury. The wages Mrs. Roosevelt complains of are fixed by the secretary of agriculture.

With farm hands flocking to war industries the farmers are hard put to get their crops harvested. In the construction of the bomber training base at Casper, the plant for the remodeling of bombers at Cheyenne and the "Little Tokio" Jap colony at Cody, farm hands who never drove a nail got employment at $80 to $90 a week as carpenters, paying $10 down and 50 cents a day to the union.

The latest complaint is that the government is hiring teachers away from the local schools to provide instruction for the Jap children at "Little Tokio," paying higher salaries than the local school boards can afford to pay. Mexicans imported to harvest beets were diverted to construction work at "Little Tokio." Now arrangements are afoot to provide Jap labor for the beet fields.

The livestock raisers are so hard up for labor that many of them say they will have to go out of business. They are also worried over gas rationing, if eastern limitations are applied to this land of vast distances. Many ranchers are compelled to make a 100 mile trip to get their mail and supplies. The operations of the great cattle and sheep ranches require a vast amount of long distance driving. Unless proper allowance is made for operation of these industries, say the ranchers, the production of beef and mutton will be seriously decreased.

JAP NOMINATED TO LEGISLATURE IN HAWAII VOTE

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 4 (AP).—Thousands of Hawaiian born Japanese voted in Hawaii territory's primary election yesterday. Of seven Japanese who were candidates, one was elected, four were nominated, and two were defeated.

On Kauai Island, Wallace Otsuka won the Republican nomination for representative in the legislature while on Hawaii Island the incumbent representative, Ted Kuramoto, was defeated. In the territorial senate the only Japanese incumbent, Sanji Age, with two years of his term remaining, is under federal protective detention. He was taken into custody several months ago at Hilo. Of five Japanese members in the territorial house only Kuramoto sought reëlection. Thus, the only person of Japanese ancestry who might possibly be elected to the legislature is Otsuka.

Congressional delegate Wilder King not only won the Republican nomination but received more votes than all other candidates of both parties combined. His supporters feel his reëlection in November is assured.

ORDER TO DIM-OUT N. Y. YULE TREES IRKS LA GUARDIA

New York, Oct. 4 [Special].—Because of army regulations there will be no illuminated outdoor Christmas trees during dim-out periods in New York this year, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia announced today.

"I will follow this regulation; it will be obeyed," the mayor said. "I do not agree with it. It isn't necessary, but, as you know, we are following all of the rules and regulations." The ruling, the mayor said, came in a letter from Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, head of the 2d service command.

"I think that this letter, which I am sure that Gen. Terry did not examine very carefully," Mayor La Guardia said, "comes from the same source responsible for that silly, stupid diamond release, the dazzling diamond release that caused so much amusement." This was a reference to the report made on May 31 by Maj. B. W. Beers describing the illuminated Rockaway area as a "diamond sunburst" and the East River drive as gleaming like "a stretched out diamond necklace."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Lawn Care Conclusions.

October 4, 1942.

THE best method of "closing" a lawn for the winter was being discussed by two gardeners when we visted the Wheaton farm a few days ago. Since thousands of homeowners are interested in lawn care, conclusions of the farm gardeners on the best method of cutting, raking, and fertilizing the lawn during the fall may be of value.

The main lawn on the farm has a 1½ inch stand of blue grass now, and unless the weather remains warm enough to force another two inches of growth it will not be cut again this season. The men like to have at least two inches of grass to serve as winter cover.

No Grass Catcher Used.

Whether it is better to use a grass catcher behind the mower or allow cuttings to remain on the lawn puzzles many homeowners. The farm gardeners recommend cutting the grass often and letting the cuttings remain to serve as mulch. The only time the cuttings are unsightly is when the grass has been allowed to grow so long that the ground does not quickly absorb them.

The men will not fertilize the farm lawns this fall, preferring to use a complete plant food late in the winter. Many lawn specialists spread fertilizer over one of the final snows of the season and let the plant food be carried into the ground as the snow melts. The Wheaton gardener plans to spread commercial lawn fertilizer while the ground still is moist after the last snow.

Leaves Call for Rake.

Disposal of autumn leaves is important in getting a lawn ready for winter to insure a good spring growth. Vigorous raking is necessary where the leaf fall is heavy. A two or three inch layer of leaves may suffocate a stand of grass completely. Where the leaf fall is not heavy, raking still is prescribed to scratch the ground surface. Flexible steel rakes are used on the farm lawns.

The only other hint on fall and winter lawn care passed along by the farm gardeners is this: Avoid packing the snow on footpaths across the lawn. The men several years ago used a regular path across the lawn from a tool shed to a greenhouse, packing the snow on the path each trip. The following spring the path was a yellow streak across the lawn as a result of the winter suffocation caused by the packed snow.

> Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or of the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances. —First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

THE CHALLENGE.

President Roosevelt's latest attack on congress can only be interpreted as an assault upon the legislative branch as an independent arm of the government, equivalent to his attack on the independent Supreme court as it existed in 1937.

Congress was confronted a month ago with an ultimatum. It was either to pass specified legislation or the matter would be dealt with by executive fiat. The more thoughtful and independent members of congress swallowed their pride and undertook to meet the President's demand. They were convinced that they saw a genuine threat to the fabric of the Constitution, and they deemed it wiser to bend than to be broken.

In a little more than three weeks congress debated and passed an act subjecting the people of the country to virtually complete governmental control of their economic life. Its only reward was the cold observation by Mr. Roosevelt that in the first 100 days of the New Deal the legislative branch had been able to jump thru the hoop faster, giving him what he demanded within 24 hours, two or three days, or a week at most. The fact that the 100 days saw the enactment without proper consideration of some of the most unfortunate legislation ever inflicted upon the country was not considered relevant.

The congressional tendency, however mildly asserted, to inquire into the demands of the executive now seems to the President to be impertinent. The allowance that he makes for this unaccustomed perversity is the condescending one that congress is following a tendency, first displayed in the continental congress of 1775, to justify its usefulness by inquiring into matters of which it cannot possibly have adequate understanding.

This attitude, these assumptions, and this tone characterize clearly the relationship of master to subordinate. The executive and the legislative are not two coördinate branches in the view of a man given to this kind of expression. Rather it is for the sovereign to utter the decree, and the parlement to register it.

The more rabid New Dealers have made no secret of their boast that by reason of his unprecedented number of appointments to that body, the President controls the Supreme court.

They now arrogantly assert that he is on his way to get a congress even more subservient than the rubber stamp majority that has done his bidding for the last 10 years.

As congress came under attack, so did the press, and with it the institution of a free press. In the latter instance, it was less what the President said upon his return to Washington than what he had already done. His incognito "progress" thru the nation, inspired perhaps by his royal intimates, involved the first complete muzzling of the press by executive fiat.

The American people are warned. Their liberties, already disagreeably curtailed, are threatened with extinction. Their defense is in the ballots they will cast next month.

Mr. Roosevelt was in a critical mood upon his return to the White House. His strictures were not confined to congress and the press. Washington, and the people in it, also came under his fire. The morale of the country, he said, is fine—except in Washington. Burocrats in Washington, men four or five steps down from the top, are popping off on subjects about which they lack complete knowledge. Some of the top figures of his administration—among them the assistant secretary of the navy, the lieutenant general heading the services of supply, the rear admiral in charge of docks and yards, and the director of the draft—were rebuked for saying that we are losing the war. A statement from Donald Nelson that war production is lagging brought the astonishing comment that Mr. Nelson probably hasn't accurate figures on his own activities.

Mr. Roosevelt had been out sampling public opinion. He found the same dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war that every observer has seen who got out of Washington. And so, speaking as one who has placed himself at the head of the people, he says to them, "Follow me, and we will clean up this Augean stable."

There is only one defect in this argument. Washington is Mr. Roosevelt's city. No one else has anything approaching his influence over its collective mind. Its burocrats are his burocrats. Mr. Bard, Lieut. Gen. Somervell, Rear Adm. Moreel, Maj. Gen. Hershey—they were all picked by Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Nelson is his man.

Mr. Roosevelt may pretend to stand with the people, but when he points in scorn and anger at Washington, he is pointing at himself.

NEGLECTED TALENTS.

Scarcely a newspaper goes to press anywhere in this country on any day that does not contain a story, usually brief, of one or more accidental deaths in the army and navy air forces. This has been the case for more than a year.

The nation is paying a heavy price for the command of the air which we expect to assume, and paying for it in man power that we can least afford to lose. The army and navy air cadets are the cream of the nation's youth. Our supply of young men meeting the rigid physical, mental, and psychological requirements established by these services is by no means inexhaustible. It is, in fact, not far from exhaustion even if training and battle casualties did not have to be taken into account.

Of these two sources of loss, the training field operations away from the battle front have until now cost far more lives than actual combat. This is in part due to the fact that we have a vastly greater part of our air force in training than we have fighting, but that does not alter the other fact that a man lost in the training program represents just as great an air victory for Hitler and Hirohito as if he had been shot down by a Nazi or Jap pilot.

Our fatalities at the training fields and among recently commissioned and partly trained flyers are freely announced by the army and navy. What they do not and cannot announce, of course, is the number of men in training or the ratio of accidents to the number of men trained. These are obviously military secrets.

However, Robert A. Lovett, assistant secretary of war for air, reports that in the first seven months of 1942 the accident rate for army flyers per 1,000 flying hours was 15 per cent lower than the rate for the 10 years from 1930 to 1940.

It is impossible to compare this rate with that in other armies, either those of our allies or those of our enemies. But it does not require exact statistics to show that we are killing too many pilots.

These losses, moreover, are due to the injection of despicable political prejudices into the conduct of the war. We are frightfully short of leadership in the field of aviation. Its potentialities have been tardily recognized and the men capable of realizing those potentialities are invaluable. Under these circumstances, it is a continuing national scandal that the three men who had the brightest names for individual accomplishments and technical knowledge in the field of civil aviation are still being cold shouldered and kept out of the war aviation program because they had the courage to differ with the administration's foreign policy before Pearl Harbor.

Congress should insist that the services which Col. Lindbergh, Capt. Rickenbacker, and Maj. Al Williams would gladly give their country be accepted. Among them these three men know every phase of flying and of flight training. If their talents were turned to the direction of the training program, we could expect confidently a considerable reduction in the present shocking toll.

LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?

Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, testified before the senate small business committee that 300,000 retail stores may fail by the end of next year because of government restrictions, material shortages, and loss of trained employés to the draft. "The figures," he remarked, "are startling."

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, followed Mr. Taylor before the committee. The information he offered was that the little business man seemed bewildered, critical of the government's mode of imposing what Mr. Davis termed sacrifices, and slow to adjust himself to the war program. When it came to the sacrifices, Mr. Davis said, the little business man preferred "to let the other fellow do it."

It is not known where Mr. Davis gets his information, unless from the newspapers, but there are some rather curious aspects to his implied criticism that small business in wartime clings to the philosophy of "business as usual." If 300,000 small businesses—almost 20 per cent of all the small retailing establishments in the country—are to be forced to the wall by government imposed hardships and restrictions within the coming year, it is hard to see how they can be accused of clinging to "business as usual," or business at all. This is no question of willingness to accept "sacrifice." It is a question of willingness to accept extinction.

When Mr. Davis says that the little business man is not showing enough alacrity in accepting the destiny reserved for him by the administration, Mr. Davis really means that the little business man is not happy about hastening his own demise. If Mr. Davis' business is distributing information, it is somewhat strange that he should be concerning himself about the morale of an economic group which the administration evidently thinks should commit suicide as an act of patriotism.

It is difficult to generalize upon the administration's motivation in its policies with reference to little business, but there can be little disagreement that the war administration has never shown much concern in that direction. Little business has been neglected and it has been denied assistance until so late in the day that the only proposal that administration spokesmen can now make is that some form of subsidy be extended so that the small business man will have a chance of resuming operations after the war. In other words, the small business man now suffering from war regulation is to be permitted to go into hibernation, with the administration paying the rent on the cave, after which he will be allowed again to emerge and submit himself to peacetime regulation. The rental paid by the administration while he keeps himself out of the way will place him under obligation for an unpredictable period in the future.

It has been noted in the past that, despite all of Thurman Arnold's fulminations about huge business concentrations, the New Deal in general has been not unsympathetic to large enterprises from NRA days on. It has, for example, given them practically a monopoly on war contracts. Those who noted this sympathy usually concluded that a burocracy heading toward state socialism could keep a small number of large business units under its thumb more easily than it could a large number of small units.

The implications of the New Deal philosophy were expressed most baldly by Walter F. Crowder, chief of the business structure and operations unit of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. He suggested "business birth control as one solution to the problem confronting small business" and asserted that any steps to assist small retail businesses will fail if "births" are permitted to continue.

"It occurs to me," remarked Rep. Patman, "that Mr. Crowder is undertaking to steer our government on a course that is calculated to destroy some of the best things that our country is now fighting for. His statement, carried to its logical conclusion, means that he favors big business running the country, and in order to see that it does run the country he is in favor of strangling small business."

It is to be doubted that the New Deal's solicitude for large enterprises goes quite as far as wanting them to "run the country." What is far more likely is that it would not be averse to having economic power concentrated so that state control could be exercised more handily. Any one who has observed how nicely the war serves as a pretext for the New Deal to achieve the regimentation necessary to its long term social and economic objectives cannot reject the possibility that what is at present happening to little business can be accounted for in these terms.

It is the politician, we hear, who keeps government going. But we hope the action isn't so swift that there's no time to inquire, Going where?—Kansas City Star.

The office grouch has an awful hangover today and he is still in a heavy fog. "I believe that whatever is to be will be, provided it hasn't already happened." he said.—Jackson [Miss.] Clarion-Ledger.

HOW DICTATORS DIE.

Napoleon Bonaparte died slowly and in great pain. He was an invalid, frequently suffering from acute attacks of illness, during most of the five and a half years of his imprisonment on St. Helena. The histories and encyclopedias say that he died of cancer, but modern medical opinion seems to differ from that diagnosis.

"He died from the effects of an abscess of the liver complicated with amoebic dysentery contracted at Longwood." An Italian medical officer named Abbatucci gave this opinion, and in a recent examination of the case Raoul Brice, former surgeon general in the French army, concurred.

His condition became critical on March 1, 1821, and on May 5 he died in a stupor. On the last night he sprang out of bed in an access of rage, as if trying to escape from the Dark Angel, and then collapsed. It was an ugly end after long agony.

Nero, the Roman emperor, died a terror-stricken fugitive. He fled from his palace by night, after begging his attendants to kill him, and took refuge in a suburban villa owned by his freedman, Phaon. He often wept and cried out, "What an artist is perishing." [Appearances as a mime and reciter of poetry at public performances had been among his many eccentricities.]

When he heard a troop of cavalry gallop up to the door, he quoted a line from the Iliad and then drove a dagger into his throat, aided by his private secretary. As he was dying, a centurion rushed into the villa and seized him by the neck. He gasped at his captor, "Too late."

How will the dictator who recalls Napoleon by his conquests and Nero by his cruelties die?

HIDE YOUR HEART.

Hide your heart, working girl!
  Punch the clock and click your heels,
  Powder your nose and gulp your meals—
But hide your heart, working girl.

Girls are hired, you must know,
  Who are quick, alert, and sure.
  Dreams and the job can't both endure;
Girls are fired who are slow.

"Yes, sir," here, "No, sir," there—
  Letters cannot be delayed,
  Spend your nights on beauty aid,
Wash your hose, set your hair,
Efficiency in every curl.
  Bare your brain and skilful hands;
  These are what a boss demands—
But hide your heart, working girl!

Chicago's First Sports Item.

(From the Chicago Democrat, Oct. 8, 1834.)

"Sport: On Monday last, information was received by our townsmen that a large bear was that morning seen in the woods up the south branch of the Chicago river, adjacent to the town. A large number of the inhabitants was soon on the alert, armed with rifles, muskets, fowling pieces, and clubs. Some were on horseback, others on foot and in wagons.

"Bruin, who being closely pursued, took shelter in the top of a tree, from which he was dislodged by the well directed aim of a rifle, and before proceeding 10 rods from there was stopped in his progress by receiving two more balls thru the body.

"Most of the citizens who turned out for the sport of the hunt, and who had not yet commenced on the chase, were not disposed to be thus baffled in their expected feats. They soon raised a wolf hunt, when they all started off [nearly 100], dispersing in three or four divisions. One company on horseback had proceeded only a short distance when they started two and gave chase. Their course was toward the town, and one of them being so hotly pursued and being driven into close quarters took to the lake and was soon killed by a ball from a rifle. The other was driven into town and was despatched by one of the officers of the Fort with his sword.

"The hunting parties came in, one after another, and on counting the trophies of victory it appeared that about 20 wolves had been slain."

(John Kelley, now of Erie, Pa., who dug up this item, says: "At the turn of the century I met Alexander Beaubien, who had been 12 years old at the time of this hunt. He remembered it and told me about it.")

LINES FOR A LEADER.

(Julius Caesar, 100-44 B. C.)

There fell, no doubt, some scraps of ancient song
  To jar the ears of Caesar on that day
He marched the kings of conquered lands along,
  In sight of Rome upon the Appian Way.
For triumph's ear is supersensitive,
  Amid applause, to the ungolden tone
Whose sly, ironic cadences can give
  Sharp, subtle stabs to egos overgrown.

That he who came, and saw, and conquered all
  Should suffer so was certainly unfair;
Not knowing how conspiracy would fall
  Upon his clever head, nor when nor where.
Surely the gods of War will not allow Such wicked songs to gnaw the conquerors now!

Story in Run-On Rhymes.

Madge seems so young, yet she has a son, a seasoned soldier of twenty-one; and Eddy, the next, a scant nineteen, is a serious-minded U. S. marine. While Jimmy, the youngest, a little chap, is doing his bit by gathering scrap. She keeps herself busy and happy, and seems only concerned with her full life's dreams, but I've seen the start and the sudden fear that leapt to her eyes, and the unshed tear, as we heard a report on the radio from Hitler's reich or Tokio. Madge does seem young, but O, such might as she leads her boys in the cause of right! The Odd One.

OCTOBER COLDS ARE TRICKY.

THERE is something about autumn which seems to tax severely the stores of good health which we are supposed to have accumulated during the summer months. Damp, chilly days and quick changes in temperature may catch us unprepared and usher in nasal inflammation. Thus it is that lurking infections pounce upon the unwary, particularly those who have allowed resistance to drop.

The trouble with an October cold is that it is so likely to descend to the larynx and bronchial tubes. Slight hoarseness in the morning and a sense of soreness beneath the breastbone point to the fact that microbes have traveled downward into more vulnerable areas. Because the disorder may extend into the lungs, with pneumonia in prospect, every condition of this type must be caught at the outset if we would spare ourselves much suffering.

A hot bath is number one on the healing program. It is well to remain in the tub long enough to start perspiration. Chilling must be avoided on getting into bed. A croup kettle is a most valiant ally. Filling the air of the bed chamber with moisture from boiling water which contains some soothing drug such as menthol, oil of eucalyptus, or tincture of benzoin compound will allay irritation in the vicinity of the voice box.

A cough mixture will be helpful. Rather than attempt to dry up the secretions, it is important to allow them to flow freely. There are many useful compounds and physicians frequently prescribe a preparation which contains a small amount of chloroform and a bit of ammonium chloride.

Now and then the tonsils will be involved and a sore throat may be accompanied by swelling of these spongy masses. Here again heat is the ideal remedy, and directing a stream of hot salt solution over the back of the throat, as a rule, will be followed by marked relief.

Some one of the sulfonamide drugs may be employed with great benefit. The doctor may recommend one of these chemicals should the fever mount to 102 degrees or higher. Of course, complete rest in bed is imperative, as we must avoid heart or kidney damage should the infecting agent prove to be the streptococcus.

Hot drinks are always in order. A tremendous volume of toxins will be eliminated with copious supplies of fruit juice, lemonade, tea, etc. Six to eight ounces may be taken every hour. This will increase perspiration and the skin will assist the kidneys in getting rid of the poison.

How can we avoid these seasonal disorders? We can be especially cautious about wet feet and chilling. Adequate clothing is the answer. We may be dressed for a sunny day only to be caught insufficiently protected against a sharp fall in temperature.

Then, too, we can give a little more thought to mouth hygiene. Gargles will wash away millions of germs which otherwise may find suitable places for growth along the airways. We are all believers in fresh air and plenty of it. But an extra blanket may well be available at the foot of the bed should the mercury drop during the night.

BUCK UP.

Mrs. G. B. writes: My daughter wants to become a veterinarian. But she becomes faint and dizzy at the sight of blood. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY.

A praiseworthy ambition. One of the world's greatest surgeons, during his early student days, could not abide the sight of blood. Constant association will abate squeamishness.

HARD GOING.

L. E. W. writes: What causes a weakness in the back of the knees? When I am climbing stairs I feel as tho I won't make the top.

REPLY.

In all probability, the difficulty lies in the muscles of the thighs, the tendons of which are attached about the knees. General fatigue may be the answer.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 31.

1. The number of eyelets in the average pair of men's oxfords is 10 20 30 40.
2. In the first 1,000,000 men examined for selective service, what was the incidence of venereal disease?
   10 per 1,000 30 per 1,000 45 per 1,000 60 per 1,000.
3. Which one of these is known as the "Fireman's Friend" because of his reporting fires that others fail to discover?
   Milkman Policeman Iceman Aviator.
4. In the United States the limit on postoffice money orders is $10 $50 $100 $500.
5. A composing stick would most likely by used by a Physician Musician Beautician Printer.
6. In psychology we distinguish between primary and secondary colors, basing our judgments on the wave lengths of light involved. Both types of color, however, may vary in degree of saturation from a faint tint to a rich dark hue. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment below in differentiating between primary and secondary colors. Place a check mark under the appropriate heading for each one.

	Primary.	Secondary.
Violet	______	______
Yellow	______	______
Green	______	______
Red	______	______
Orange	______	______

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8 superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WASHINGTON RESTRICTIONS.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—It was very instructive to read in your front page editorial yesterday that the waste from the American and Canadian paper mills could produce 900,000 tons of synthetic rubber and with less expense and in a quicker time than other processes previously considered. It does seem very strange and alarming that every new major appointee in the Washington turmoil always starts off his first announcement with some restriction or curtailment of the people's usual activities, whether it is necessary or not, which may be beside the point.

It is quite impossible to find one instance where a major official came out with a definite and constructive idea of his job such as that in your editorial. The executive always announces decisions shortly after taking over his job, and usually on subjects he knows very little about. It looks as tho these pronouncements are cut and dried for them and if they say anything different than what was planned for them they rarely are heard from again. C. A. ROOKER.

STUDENTS AND TEMPORARY WORK.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—I read with a great deal of interest the editorial, "High School Workers," of Sept. 19. I heartily agree with the recommendation of THE TRIBUNE that high school boys can successfully be used in summer to relieve the labor shortage on farms. The recommendation made by the Cook county school advisory defense council was designed to permit part time employment of boys and girls who were carrying a full high school load. It was never designed to encourage the students to attempt full time employment and a full time school program. That would be neither sensible, educationally, nor fair to the pupils.

We do believe, however, that with the growing shortage of men and women available for part time employment, high school pupils can render a real service. The council merely suggested release of boys in the afternoon to meet the seasonal needs of truck farmers for a limited period this fall. Altho the primary objective is to provide these students with a high school education, we believe that they can assist in certain temporary labor shortage situations.

I appreciate very much the interest of THE TRIBUNE in the education of our youth. NOBLE J. PUFFER,
County superintendent of schools.

LIEUT. STRAUB'S STORY.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Every American should be proud of Lieut. Ruth Straub, the nurse from Bataan and Corregidor and the other nurses with whom she worked, worried, starved, and prayed. To most of us the story of sacrifice which you published is the best understood account of what happened on those islands. B. PARRISH.

ASKS MEDICAL REFERENCE BOOKS.

Camp Ripley, Minn., Sept. 23.—I am attached to one of the smallest medical units in the army as a laboratory technician. We have swell equipment, a good Spencer microscope, a centrifuge that will work anywhere, even in the back end of a jeep, and we have an alcohol Bunsen burner that must have been designed as a blow torch. But what we haven't got and what I miss most is a laboratory reference library. All I want is a two or three book reference shelf, so I won't have to depend on a doctor's absent-minded memory or my own good luck to follow the exact technique for a Gram stain.

One of your readers might have an old book on laboratory technique which he was about to give to the junk dealer. Please send it to us instead. These are some of the titles I dream about: Medical Dictionary; Todd and Sanford, Laboratory Methods; Bray, Laboratory Methods; Gortner, Outlines of Biochemistry; Rice, Textbook of Bacteriology; Mattice, Chemical Procedures; Kracke, Atlas of Hemocytology; Kolmer and Boerner, Laboratory Technique; Gradwohl, Laboratory Methods.

[Books for this soldier may be sent direct to him or taken to the Chicago Public Library, where Mr. Carl Roden, librarian, is endeavoring to fill requests from many service men, all of whose appeals have not been published].

UNEMPLOYED ALIENS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—I quote Colleen Shannon's letter of Sept. 28: "If we Americans have to be drafted for labor, then it's plenty good enough for aliens." I agree to that. I am a friendly alien refugee. I have registered, answered questionnaires, written applications to United States employment office, and other employment offices, but the answer always is: "On account of certain regulations, we cannot employ you, as long as you are not a citizen." It seems to me that this country cannot be short of man power. H. L. H.

PARKWAY PIPES.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Will the city of Chicago send a truck along its parkways and load all the iron pipes used to keep an American foot off the land? Uncle Sam needs those pipes to keep a Jap's foot off America. J. FISHER.

JOE LOUIS' PORTRAIT.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Sept. 23.—As the commanding officer of this hospital, I wish to acknowledge, in behalf of the staff and the patients here, receipt of a glazed print of Joe Louis. This full page picture has been hung in the hospital as an evidence of the patriotism of the Negro and of the democratic spirit of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in publishing such an impressive portrait of a Negro. It is too bad that there is such a spirit of discrimination loose in the land that when Joe is singled out as the heavyweight boxing champion who goes to the wars, his racial identity must make it a courageous act for a great newspaper to give him this recognition. This takes nothing away from Joe while adding to the credit the TRIBUNE deserves for the publication of his picture.

M. O. BOUSFIELD,
Lieutenant Colonel, Medical Corps.

PARENTS AND SERVICE.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—I have noticed that many of our present war heroes are fathers. They didn't use that as an excuse to evade the draft, and their wives seem to manage to get along. Their children can be proud of them. E. E.

1. Is there any way to protect my interest in the estate?

2. Can I sell my share of the trust fund to any person or persons?

3. Can any of the property be sold without my signature? We have a store in the same building with my brother.

4. Can they raise my rent without raising their own? I am one of the heirs.

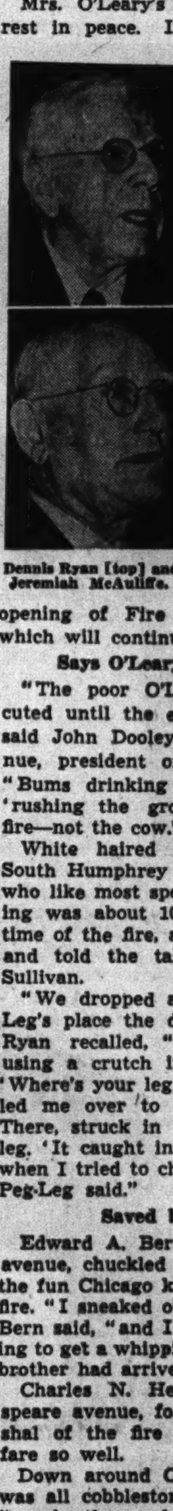
MRS. O'LEARY'S COW SLANDERED, SAY EX-FIREMEN

Hobos Started Big Blaze, Old Timers Agree.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.



Dennis Ryan [top] and Jeremiah McAuliffe.

Mrs. O'Leary's kicking cow can rest in peace. It wasn't her hoof which knocked over the lantern igniting the great Chicago fire of Oct. 9, 1871, but revels of a pipe-smoking crew of hobos lounging in the O'Leary barn, members of the Retired Firemen's association of Chicago agreed yesterday.

Laying a smoke screen of their own as they sat in the La Salle hotel yesterday and puffed cigars, the retired firefighters set memory ablaze as they observed the opening of Fire Prevention week, which will continue thru Oct. 10.

Says O'Learys Persecuted.

"The poor O'Learys were persecuted until the end of their days," said John Dooley, 5215 Gladys avenue, president of the association. "Bums drinking and smoking and 'rushing the growler' started the fire—not the cow."

White haired Dennis Ryan, 715 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, who like most speakers at the meeting was about 10 years old at the time of the fire, agreed with Dooley and told the tale of old Peg-Leg Sullivan.

"We dropped around at old Peg-Leg's place the day after the fire," Ryan recalled, "and Peg-Leg was using a crutch instead of his peg. 'Where's your leg' I asked? Peg-Leg led me over to the O'Leary barn. There, struck in the ruins, was his leg. 'It caught in the rotten boards when I tried to chase the bums out,' Peg-Leg said."

Saved by Stork.

Edward A. Bern, 4730 Greenwood avenue, chuckled as he remembered the fun Chicago kids had during the fire. "I sneaked out to see the fire," Bern said, "and I came back expecting to get a whipping. I didn't. A new brother had arrived."

Charles N. Heaney, 2838 Shakespeare avenue, former division marshal of the fire department, didn't fare so well.

Down around Canal street, which was all cobblestones then," he said, "my brother and I noticed our feet were awfully hot, so we looked at our shoes. The soles were burned off. Father met us at the door when we came home and he gave us a beating, but not on the soles of our feet."

Along with other neighborhood residents, Heaney and his uncle went into the water business after the fire, selling a bucket of water for 10 cents; a drink for a nickel.

When the fire started, the father of Jeremiah McAuliffe, 6605 North Talman avenue, retired chief of the fire department, rushed to rout out the neighbors.

"I heard all the hollering, so I hopped up and beat it," McAuliffe said yesterday. "I went so fast I fell down the stairs and got the finest pair of black eyes you ever saw."

Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, veteran of three wars, regretted his inability to add to the fire stories, but told the association of the importance of fire prevention in wartime.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by the Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Robert Cashman, 5757 University avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

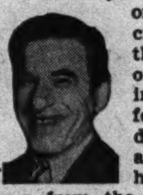
What was your most embarrassing experience while decorating some one else's apartment? [Asked of painters.]

WHERE ASKED.

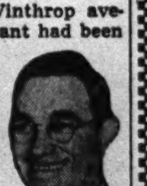
Painters' local 147, 222 North Wells street.

THE ANSWERS.

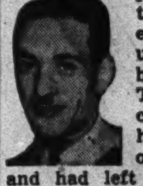
Henry W. Gilman, 6523 Kimbark avenue—The woman whose apartment we were decorating bitterly objected to use of tobacco. My partner was trying hard to conceal the wad in his mouth, but the woman talked for hours and it was getting more difficult. When she turned, he spat it at the window, but it was closed.



Matt Rottner, 2648 Division street—It's always hard to do a good job of decorating in a cramped space. I was in the closet standing on one ledge of the folded in-a-door bed. I felt so foolish when I came down with the thing and the lady of the house helped untangle me from the heap of bedding and pillows.



Robert Burns, 5737 Winthrop avenue—Half of the restaurant had been blocked off so I could finish the decorating. I was on the high plank between the two ladders when it broke and I landed squarely into the big bucket of ceiling starch below. I heard one customer say it was the best floor show he'd seen in a long time.



Irving Kramer, 1534 South Lawndale avenue—Before I could paint the pantry I had to clear the shelves, as no one else was home. I didn't use much of a system, but I managed all right. That evening I got a call saying some one had carried off a sack of flour from the pantry and had left a sack of plaster of Paris in its place.

Joe Aigner, 4242 Bernard street—My partner and I were painting the ceilings of a most beautifully furnished apartment. Neither of us noticed that a lighted cigaret was burning its way thru the luxurious rug below. It embarrassed me much to have to make that report to our customer.

William J. Malloy, 1660 Ogden avenue—It was in a big busy office and I was on a high scaffold when they started to lower it. There was a hook on the wall that I didn't see until too late and before we could stop the descent the better part of my trousers was ripped off and there I stood.

IS BALDNESS A SIGN OF INTELLIGENCE?

Some people say that this is a sign of intelligence, but it is not. Conditions today put a high premium on personal appearance and if this man were really intelligent, he would find out why he is losing his hair, by seeking expert advice. Baldness today is more apt to be judged by one's friends and the world about him as a sign of negligence and carelessness. At least 80% of all premature baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be corrected and checked if caught in time. Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner Associates, leading hair and scalp specialists, and hundreds of others have been rejected because benefits were not certain. If you are losing your hair you should consult them now. There is no charge for a private consultation and examination, and if your case is accepted for treatment you can be sure of saving and improving your hair.

Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

SBARBARO READY TO AVERT LAG IN CRIMINAL TRIALS

Plans to Ask More Judges if Necessary.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The docket of the criminal courts is showing a steady increase in accordance with the crime increase attributed by law enforcing officials to wartime conditions, according to a report made by Thomas J. Bowler, clerk of the Criminal court, to Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro. The number of pending cases has mounted over the 300 figure, which is considered by the judges as the danger mark against speedy justice.

Judge Sbarbaro said crime must not gain headway in Chicago and remarked that in recent years the city has enjoyed a reputation for a decrease in offenses and for speedy justice. If the present six judges cannot cope with the increase in cases, he said, he will ask the executive committees of the Superior and Circuit courts to assign additional judges.

Favors Trials in 2 Weeks.

"We should head off any crime wave before it can get started," said Judge Sbarbaro. "The way to head it off is to administer speedy justice. With few exceptions the ordinary criminal case should be disposed of within two weeks from the time of indictment, and much sooner, if possible."

The chief justice disposed of 74 cases from Sept. 8 to Oct. 2, besides handling the administrative end of the court. However, he has an advantage over the other judges in hearing most of the guilty plea cases and non jury trials.

Pending Cases Increase.

The report of Clerk Bowler showed that collectively the Criminal court judges during September disposed of 144 cases as compared with 224 indictments returned by the grand jury. The chief justice disposed of more than half the cases. The number of indictments untried as of Oct. 2 was 335, an increase of 80 cases over the preceding month.

CROWDS WATCH 2D REGIMENT OF MILITIA IN ACTION

The 2d regiment of the Illinois reserve militia reviewed all phases of its training in special maneuvers yesterday. The drills started at 9 a. m. in Garfield park, attracting at times up to 1,000 spectators. Because of adverse weather the 1,000 militia men participating returned to the regimental armory, 2653 Madison street, at noon to complete their work indoors. Maj. Gen. A. E. Inglesh, Kankakee, state reserve militia commander, was a spectator. Col. Robert Wigglesworth, regimental commander, said a number of men were enlisted. The militia primarily seeks those not subject to the draft.

GROCER'S HOME BURGLARIZED.

Nathan Fox, 53 years old, 7257 Cornell avenue, owner of a grocery at 356 East 51st street, reported to police that burglars entered his home and escaped with jewelry and clothing valued at $250 and $440 in currency.

SALARY LOANS

How single men and women and married couples without cars or furniture can borrow on their earning ability—No endorsers needed

WANT to get a loan quickly and without asking favors of friends? Household Finance offers a simple, private way for men and women with jobs to borrow $20 to $300. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed.

Repay by the month—or in full at any time

You may repay your loan in monthly instalments arranged to fit your income. Or you may repay in full at any time and pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. A $50 loan, repaid in four monthly instalments of $13.30 each, costs just $3.20. A $25 loan, repaid at the end of two weeks, costs only 29¢.

See the table below for popular payment plans. All payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month. You pay nothing more. We have no hidden charges.

3 ways to get a loan

We make three kinds of loans. 1: Salary loans—for the convenience of folks who have no car or furniture on which to borrow. 2: Auto loans—a loan on your car may suit your needs. 3: Furniture loans—hundreds of families get furniture loans. We will make your loan the way that best fits your own situation.

You may get a Household loan to pay up old bills, medical or dental expenses, repairs, taxes, insurance—for almost any purpose. If you need a loan, phone or visit us today.

—FOR VICTORY BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS EVERY PAY-DAY—

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. J. C. writes: "My son is in the war department in Washington, and he writes that the place is swarming with 'sun-downers.' Does he mean that our government is employing a lot of Japs? I should think there are enough Americans to fill these jobs."

ANSWER: "Sundowner" is slang for doctors, dentists, lawyers, and persons of other professions who work in salaried positions during the day and practice their professions in the evening. When you receive a letter from a Yank mentioning such terms don't worry about it until you find out the real meaning of the terms.

B. H. writes: "I am 39 years old, married, and have four children. I am an X-ray and clinical laboratory technician with 16 years' experience. I have had four years' service in the army medical corps. Do you think I rate a commission?"

ANSWER: There have been no procurement orders sent thru for officers in this type of work. Actually, if you could get a rating in the navy as pharmacist's mate, third or second class, stationed ashore, you would be better off financially than in the army as a second lieutenant. In the army, with your experience, you would probably be rated technical sergeant at $114 per month.

J. C. J. writes: "I read a story in The Tribune about some one wanting war workers in Hawaii, and these workers were being recruited in New York. Is there some place in Chicago where I could go and learn about it?"

ANSWER: The Civil Service commission offices, room 1115, 433 West Van Buren street, Chicago, or any postoffice in the larger cities.

L. A. J. asks: "Is it all right to send phonograph records to a friend stationed in Australia? He is anxious to hear some of the latest music."

ANSWER: Yes. Pack the records with one or more layers of thick blotter paper between each record. The package must not exceed 18 inches in length, or 42 inches in length and girth combined, or weigh more than six pounds. Mark the package "Fragile," and have it well wrapped in corrugated board.

M. D. asks: "Is it permissible for a draftee to name his mother beneficiary of his insurance policy instead of his wife? If so, that is the way we both want it to be, as I do not feel it would be fair to his mother, who is older and has no one to depend on."

ANSWER: Your husband can name his mother sole beneficiary if he wishes. It would be better for him to name his mother beneficiary and his wife as contingent beneficiary. He could divide his insurance into two policies, naming the mother beneficiary and the wife contingent beneficiary, and naming the wife as sole beneficiary of the other policy. If the mother is over 65 she is entitled to old age benefits. She might qualify for benefits under social security as well, if the son was employed in a "covered" industry for a certain period before entering service.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 4 (AP).—Laurence A. Steinhardt, who as United States ambassador to Turkey has matched wits with axis diplomats in Ankara, arrived here today on an unheralded flight to Washington. "I am here to report to the President and confer with the state department," said the ambassador. He declined to intimate whether he brought good, bad, or indifferent news.

ARMY'S COLISEUM RADIO CLASSES GET START TODAY

Chicago's historic Coliseum, 1513 Wabash avenue, starts contributing to the war effort today. Several hundred students, the first of thousands who will receive radio instruction there, will march into the structure at 7 a. m. for opening classes, Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, commander of Chicago's new army air forces radio school, announced.

The first group, student radio operator-mechanics, will use only 4 of the 14 classroms constructed in the Coliseum's main arena. Eventually more than 1,000 men will receive this instruction in shifts, with the facilities in use each day except Sunday from 7 a. m. to 9:05 p. m.

Construction work in the building, taken over by the army Aug. 15, was started Aug. 29 and is virtually completed, altho much equipment must be installed. Sections of the Coliseum other than the main arena will provide training facilities for additional hundreds. School headquarters are in the former Stevens hotel.

FOUND HANGED IN HOTEL.

The body of Frank Murray, 47 years old, 11941 Emerald avenue, a tavern owner, was found hanging in a room of a hotel at 334 East 115th street, yesterday.

Boy Accidentally Shot While Examining Rifle

Charles Goad, 13 years old, 4508 Oakenwald avenue, was wounded in the right shoulder yesterday when a rifle which he was examining was accidentally discharged. The accident occurred in the Horton gunsmith shop, 4571 Lake Park avenue, which he was visiting with his chum, Lawrence Putney, 16, of 4659 Drexel boulevard, an employé of the shop.

FREE LECTURE by Harry Evans, Personal Representative of

DALE CARNEGIE

at the MURAL ROOM of the

MORRISON HOTEL

79 W. MADISON ST., between Dearborn & Clark

TUESDAY, OCT. 6, at 8:00 P. M.

DALE CARNEGIE

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People"

Dale Carnegie, through the Dale Carnegie Institute, has trained more business men and women to talk effectively than any other living man. During the past 30 years, more than 40,000 men and women have profited by Dale Carnegie courses in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Boston, London and Paris. Some of the most famous men in the nation have been trained by the Dale Carnegie Institute.

12 THINGS THIS TRAINING WILL HELP YOU DO . . .

1. PREPARE FOR LEADERSHIP in military and civil life.
2. THINK ON YOUR FEET and speak extemporaneously before business conferences, clubs, organizations, dinners.
3. DEVELOP COURAGE AND SELF-CONFIDENCE. Destroy fear. Cure an inferiority complex.
4. INCREASE YOUR POISE, polish and personal force both in business interviews and before groups.
5. "SELL" YOURSELF, YOUR SERVICES, your product, your enthusiasms.
6. WIN MORE FRIENDS by increasing your knowledge of practical psychology, your skill in human relations.
7. IMPROVE YOUR MEMORY, speak without notes and recall names and faces.
8. WRITE MORE EFFECTIVE LETTERS.
9. ENRICH YOUR COMMAND OF ENGLISH.
10. INSPIRE YOU WITH NEW IDEAS.
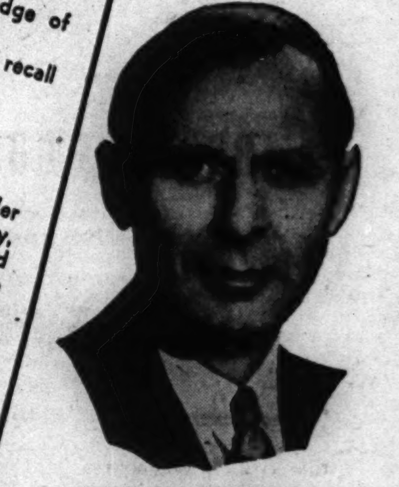
11. INCREASE YOUR INCOME. Doctor Everett Lord, founder of the College of Business Administration, Boston University, said: "I am positive that if you could persuade one thousand men to keep track of the hours they spend in any definite effort at self-improvement, these hours would show a cash value of ten dollars an hour."
12. OUR ARMED FORCES. To a man going into the armed services this training may possibly make the difference between remaining a buck private or getting an opportunity to attend an officers' training school. The Army is now emphasizing leadership training. For example, the Army Air Corps Officers' Candidate School at Miami Beach gives a course like ours, using in their training, the techniques we developed, and also using two text books we use in our classes—"Public Speaking and Influencing Men in Business" and "How to Win Friends and Influence People."



HARRY EVANS

AUTHOR—LECTURER—INSTRUCTOR

Mr. Evans' lectures and articles on selling are familiar to Sales Organizations and business men and women throughout the United States. He has been a member of the Dale Carnegie Institute faculty for many years.

"I consider Harry Evans one of the outstanding Instructors on our staff. His ability to inspire people to greater achievement is well known to thousands of men and women. He is also a convincing and forceful speaker."—Dale Carnegie.

HOW THIS COURSE IS CONDUCTED

You will meet one evening a week for sixteen weeks as one of a group of 40 business men and women.

These meetings will be held in private dining rooms of hotels or restaurants. Each group will be strictly limited to forty.

Your instructors will tell you what is right with your talk and what is wrong with it, and how to remedy and improve it. Every member of the class will write his suggestions for improving your talks; so when you finish, you will have the instructor's help and the comments of 39 of your fellow students. You will receive the helpful co-operation of your associates in the class.

As a result of this training you will soon develop courage and self-possession. You will learn to think on your feet. You will conquer fear; and "Fear," said Elbert Hubbard, "defeats more men than any other one thing in the world."

As the course progresses, you will be shown how to plan and prepare and construct your talks, how to illustrate your points, how to be clear, how to be entertaining, how to be impressive and convincing. You will be taught how to appear to advantage before a group, how to remember what you want to say, how to begin and how to end your talks.

If we described here all the things this training will do for you, it would sound like exaggeration. So we have prepared a booklet which outlines the benefits to be derived from this training, which will be given away at this meeting. In our files at 20 E. Jackson Blvd. are the names of hundreds of students who have taken this training. If you care to investigate, we will furnish you any or all of these names. You are invited to write or telephone them and discover for yourself precisely how they have profited by it.

MAKE YOURSELF QUICKLY AND FAVORABLY KNOWN

Theodore Alvy, Chief Engineer of La Cour Iron Works, attended monthly meetings of the American Association of Engineers for twelve years without being able to say a word. After completing this training, he arose at one of their meetings and spoke for twelve minutes.

"I made more friends," said Mr. Alvy, "and acquired more prestige by one twelve-minute talk than I had been able to do in a dozen years as a silent, inarticulate member."

Hundreds of other students have had similar experiences. So can you at meetings in your business or community.

Opening Meeting of the Dale Carnegie Course in Effective Speaking, Human Relations and Personality Development

Morrison Hotel, Mural Room
79 W. MADISON ST., between Dearborn and Clark
Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 8:00 P. M.

Harry Evans will explain Dale Carnegie's unique system of training, and you will hear several business men and women talk on how they have profited by this training. This meeting will be intensely interesting.

At similar meetings held last year throughout the country thousands were turned away; so come early. Both men and women will be welcome. No cost. No obligation. Those who have already taken this training are invited to bring their friends to this meeting.

These coupons will be honored in the order in which they are presented until the seating capacity of the Hall is exhausted.

Women In War Work .... By Kate Massee

Mrs. Goodman in her nurse's aid uniform (right) and in her Red Cross outfit. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Informing others about the superb job women are doing toward the war effort is always a pleasure and a privilege, but what we have to tell today gives us an exceptional thrill of pride.

It's about a young Chicago wife and mother who has credits of 1,100 hours of service as a nurses' aid, believed to be more hours than any other woman in the United States.

She is Mrs. Lillian Goodman of 6949 Sheridan road, and her hours have been put in since her graduation last November with a class at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Goodman's record is further exceptional in that most of her service has been given on the 3 to 11 p. m. shift, when many women who give their daytime hours to war work are at home. She prefers these hours, not only because she is urgently needed then but also because her husband, Albert, works nights as a linotype operator.

The Goodmans' 9 year old son, Robert, has his grandfather for company when he gets home from school in the afternoon. The grandfather, 71 year old Samuel Goodman, takes over some of the household chores, but Mrs. Goodman always prepares dinner and has their five room apartment spic and span before she leaves for the hospital.

Her duties at Wesley consist of whatever she has been trained to do to assist and relieve the trained nurses. She takes temperatures, pulse, and respiration; feeds babies and patients unable to feed themselves; charts, takes patients to the X-ray laboratory, changes dressings, and helps in the emergency room.

Previously to the last year's enviable record, this bright-eyed, dark haired young woman—she's 33—was chairman of Red Cross production for the north shore branch of the B'nai B'rith unit. Thus she is qualified not only to wear her nurses' aid uniform with its white chevrons on the apron but the blue coat and cap of the Red Cross, with three red chevrons denoting that many years of total service.

The Mothers' aid of the Chicago Lying-In hospital has added war activities to an already extensive program of financial and social service assistance to the hospital.

A résumé of wartime effort among members shows that 16 of them have become nurses' aids in Lying-In hospital—a contribution to relieve the wartime shortage of nursing personnel. Two hundred members have taken training in Red Cross home nursing, nutrition, and first aid. The aid supplies 6,000 cookies weekly to the "Bottomless Cookie Jar" at the Midway USO, and much of the furniture at the clubhouse has been supplied by members. An especially important tiem on the organization's list of accomplishments is the sale of $100,000 in war bonds since March.

The Chicago unit of the Women's Overseas league went on record at a recent meeting as approving a resolution passed at the national organization's 22d annual convention. Members of the league, who served overseas during the World war, have asked the war department and congress to correct in its treatment of women in service in this war what league member feel were inequalities and injustices in their experience as civilian workers. Included in the recommendations concerning the WAAC and enlisted personnel of the army among women are equalization of pay schedules, provisions for dependents of officers or enlisted personnel, benefits of government life insurance, and the protection for women that comes from a military status.

The Chicago unit has carried on its postwar work over the years in such activities as service work in hospitals and recreational work for patients at Great Lakes, Hines, and Elgin.

More recently the members have widened their scope of activities by working at the Service Men's centers, headed by their fellow member, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, and at various USO clubs.

Miss Celia Howard is president of the Chicago unit, and among active members are Georgene Faulkner, Nannette Sloan, Blanche Fulkerson, Charlotte Parr Palmer, Miriam Herrmans, Mona Inman, Ruby Rowley, Sara Frances Jones, and Mrs. John C. Langtry.

Mrs. W. D. Hohmann Jr., first aid chairman of the Jackson park area of the American Red Cross, announces that fall classes for first aid instruction are opening in that area during October. Residents who have not taken the course are urged to do so, and classes can be arranged at hours to suit their convenience. Those wishing to enroll should telephone Mrs. Hohmann at Plaza 2200.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Gift Problem for Soldier in AEF Is Solved

BY REA SEEGER.

Altho it is necessary in October to send gifts and boxes for sailors, soldiers, and marines on duty far from home, the problem of selection now needn't cause a panic. In nearly every store in town are army and navy departments to help the shopper select what is wanted.

Presents for service men have been streamlined down to essentials and the approved gift ideas garnered from a poll of the gentlemen themselves. Altho a shoe box capacity limit has been officially approved, there's still a surprising variety of things to send.

All such items are available in the stores. Everything from the blanks to fill out for a favorite magazine subscription to the tested fountain pens, approved wallets, bill-folds, and candy filled boxes are there. Ties, mufflers, and small gadgets such as puzzles and games are included. Nonbreakable frames for small photographs are star attractions.

One soldiers' and sailors' department has a soap display that almost rates a medal for something new and practical. As the men are supposed to buy their own soap, such a gift should click instantly. Three, six, or more cakes come in gift boxes, but this is not all . . . the soap itself is khaki color and will be marked with the name, rank and insignia. The markings do not wash away until the soap is used up.

Fully authorized by masculine experts are the tobacco mixtures, snappily packed in containers that are easily mailed. Assortments of smokes of all kinds come in festive appearing gift containers as do cookies, tea, candy, and crackers.

Crocheted Pineapple Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted, pineapple doilies still hold a favorite place in needlework circles. This 10 inch, circular doily is fun to create, since it is made in a slightly different fashion than the usual 'round and 'round ones. The small glass doilies may be made from a No. 30 thread and No. 12 hook, while the original is created of an ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton.

For instructions in crocheting the 10 inch pineapple doily, No. 1164, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Sunday, Monday Week.

Said the little daughter, getting ready for school, to the mother, getting ready to go to work, "Wouldn't it be nice if it could be Sunday, Monday, Sunday, Monday all the time?"

Mother, a white collar girl, thinking what a full time job it is to be father and mother both to her little girl, agreed.

"She thought," writes D. M. S., "that, while the pioneer woman suffered hardships, many a modern woman goes to work by day to support her children, takes a man's responsibility, then comes home at night to devote all the loving attention, the patience, and the time that children need from their mother."

White Collar Groans.

"Can't something be said in the column about thoughtless office sneezers? There is such a person in our office and his desk, unfortunately, is about five feet from mine. When he sneezes I'm right in the line of fire. The fact that he holds an executive position should not, in my opinion, condone his lack of manners. DISCREET SECRETARY."

"What can be done about the office pest who never shuts a door or a drawer? There's one in every office, but in ours there are two. Between them our place looks, most of the time, as tho we had just been burglarized." C. W.

Married Vs. Single Women.

A number of interesting comments have come in the mail relative to the wisdom of the company ruling on married women workers which cost a young woman [employed seven years in the same position] her job because she married an army officer.

Summing up, this is the reaction of the readers of this column:

The married woman vs. single woman in business long has been a basis for argument.

Whatever the policy of the company in normal times, the present policy should be related to one outstanding fact—that we are at war.

Consideration next must be given to the need for both unmarried and married women workers in order to win the war.

Several letters reported that "the ruling against married women workers has been discarded entirely in our company." Others reported that in hiring married women workers "agreements have been made that the jobs were to be released within six months after the armistice."

Some of the letters were indignant, others more coolly appraising, yet all were in accord on one point—that it is "a short visioned policy to bar married women workers under present circumstances."

Spelling Test.

"He was a reactionery. His opinion on subsiduaries was extrordinary. Some thought it revolutionary; others called it visionery, but nary a one recognized its monetary value. Because he was the secretary the board regarded him as a stationery member voluntarily committed to momentary rejection of mercenery advantage. He was thought of as a dignitery of the church . . . or a member of the judiciary, and yet he was, primarily, the manager of a habardashary not without pecuniary interests."

Archbishop Stritch Calls Food Basis of a True Peace

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 4 (AP).—The most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, Catholic archbishop of Chicago, said today that "if there is to be a true peace, farm stuffs must be equitably distributed thru all the world." The Chicago prelate, in a sermon which accompanied a pontifical mass opening the second day's deliberations of the National Catholic Rural Life conference, said: "There is no real problem of agricultural surpluses, but one of right distribution of agricultural products." Bishop A. J. Muench of Fargo, N. D., deplored the migration of farm people to the city for war industry jobs and suggested postwar resettlement plans for ownership of family sized farms with long term government aid. "A healthy agrarianism is democracy's best safeguard," he said.

Club to Open Drive.

The Chicago Club for Crippled Children will meet at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Palmer House to open a membership drive. Dr. Preston Bradley will speak.

Parents—Don't Become Bores to Your Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It's possible to become a terrifically mechanical parent.

When your children are babies or just beyond, at that stage where there's so much they have to learn, it's possible to get into too businesslike a frame of mind about them. The result usually is that motherhood [or fatherhood] becomes a bore to the one who is practicing it—meaning yourself. And I can assure you, tho the babies and smallest fry haven't and couldn't tell you about it, that you become a bore or just a nuisance to them. And the effect of your being a bore or a nuisance to your children is likely to be that they will become difficult to manage—tho the whole affair will be on an entirely subconscious plane as far as they're concerned. I've seen it happen.

Parents, for instance, get all wrought up over what they consider undesirable behavior. In correcting it they overlook the "whole" personality and welfare of their son or daughter. The special behavior overshadows everything else about their child. This accent on one fault often results in the failure of their effort to correct it.

Then we have the establishing of all those early habits which are quite necessary in order that we shall be able to take good physical care of our babies and young children.

There's the habit of eating—that is, of actually getting the right foods into our child, and also the acquiring of table manners. Innumerable mothers get all tied up in that process—in the mechanics of it and in the degree of conformity that they think their child should render. You should see the letters I receive on that, and the pediatricians' reports.

There's the business of establishing obedience—often, I'm sorry to say, just for the sake of obedience. Abstract discipline—discipline for discipline's sake—looms too large.

The establishing of certain habits and the following of set routines can become so overemphasized by a mother that it overshadows the deeply important things—things like the confidence, and happiness, and freedom, and responsiveness, and spontaneity, and investigating activity, and curiosity of a very little son or daughter. Those are vital elements in your child's life, not to be dulled or extinguished by the mechanics of physically caring for him, or correcting his behavior.

Board of Woman's Symphony to Sponsor Hallowe'en Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

BOBBING for apples is a sport in which most members of the Woman's Symphony orchestra board probably haven't indulged in years, but by Halloween of this year they'll have a double reason for going back to the youthful pastime. The board has taken over Huyler's restaurant at 310 South Michigan avenue for a Halloween party on Friday, Oct. 30. By that time there'll be an additional reason for celebrating, for the Woman's Symphony orchestra will have opened its new season nine nights earlier with a concert on Oct. 21.

Invitations for the gay party—a benefit for the maintenance fund of the orchestra—are being received this week, and the board is opening a ticket office at the Jackson street entrance to Huyler's. Tickets may be purchased for the cocktail party alone, which starts at 4 o'clock in the new lounge, or for cocktails and dinner. In addition to the old fashioned diversion of apple ducking, there'll be a fashion show in the lounge during the cocktail hour. The mannequins will reappear during the 7:30 o'clock dinner, which also includes a floor show.

Arranged for Convenience of Symphony Audience.

The party has been set for a Friday so that concertgoers may drop in after the symphony. Strolling musicians will provide music and later will play for dancing.

Mrs. H. Comer Winter, who selects the solo attractions during the orchestra's season, has charge of arrangements for the party. Publicity is under Mrs. Randolph Bohrer. Directing ticket sales and operating the benefit office will be Mrs. Ewald H. Siebel, Mrs. Albert Ullrich, Mrs. Jack V. Spachner, and Mrs. Russell Hobbs.

Lieut. Frederic Harney Bassett is taking an E. V. S. indoctrination course at the naval training school at Dartmouth college. During his six weeks there his wife will have a visit with her sister, Mrs. Rinaldo M. Arese [Jane Scriven], who arrived yesterday from the east.

Lieut. [j. g.] Rogers Follansbee's A. V. S. duties have taken him to Washington, D. C. His wife is staying for the time being with her mother, Mrs. Sewell L. Avery.

Mrs. William Alden Little and her elder son, William Jr., will be leaving on Oct. 16 to spend two weeks with Lieut. Little, who is stationed in Washington with the army air corps.

Lieut. Robert Tieken Directs Naval Salvage.

The Robert Tiekens are getting wholeheartedly "in the scrap," for Lieut. Tieken has been placed in charge of naval salvage for the 9th naval district. In view of the war effort, Miss Linda Meyer, Mrs. Tieken's daughter, has almost given up any idea of a debut this year.

Mrs. Sheldon Clark is hoping to go to Newport, R. I., later in the season to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. William Harrison Fetridge. Lieut. Fetridge has been teaching since the first of September at the naval officers' training school in Newport, where his wife recently joined him.

From Santa Monica, Cal., comes word of the engagement of Miss Pauline Scherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scherer, to Stanley Walter Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Raymond of Brentwood Height. Miss Scherer, a great-niece of the William Browne Hales of Winnetka and a granddaughter of Mrs. George Ellery Hale and the late Dr. Hale, was in Chicago earlier this year on her way east. Her paternal grandfather, Dr. James A. B. Scherer, formerly was president of the California Institute of Technology.

Miss Jane Lord Plans Wedding for Oct. 17.

Miss Jane Crowell Lord and Herbert C. Brook, whose engagement was announced this week-end, have decided to be married at 8:30 o'clock on Oct. 17 in the Hinsdale Union church. Miss Lord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lord of Hinsdale, attended the Walnut Hill school in Natick, Mass., and was graduated from the University of Michigan. Her fiancé received degrees from Northwestern university and from the university's law school and has been practicing here for several years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brook of Stronghurst, Ill.

Mrs. John W. Gary has called a meeting of the executive board for the St. Luke's Fashion show Oct. 28 from 2 to 4 o'clock today in the home of Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

Dr. and Mrs. George H. Musselman of Winnetka have moved to Freeport, Ill., for the duration. Their daughter, Miss Janet Musselman, who usually is one of the outstanding St. Luke's Fashion show models, will live with her aunt, Mrs. A. G. Stratton, in Highland Park.

Col. and Mrs. Clifford L. Burnham had a housewarming recently in their remodeled home in Church street, Winnetka. The party also was a farewell to Col. Burnham, who left on active duty. The house formerly was occupied by the Herbert Hydes.

Invited to sit at the speaker's table today in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House during the 12:30 o'clock luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations are Frederic Woodward, president of the council, and Mrs. Woodward; Wilfred H. Gallienne, new consul general for Great Britain, and Mrs. Gallienne; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Cowham; Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, and Mrs. Anthony Michel. The speaker will be Helen Kirkpatrick, American newspaper correspondent, who will tell of "Ireland and the War."

Miss Van Hagen, a debutante of the season, assisted as much as she could with benefit plans before leaving for Sarah Lawrence college.

Garden Club of Illinois to Meet at Dixon Estate

Hazelwood, the estate of Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen at Dixon, will be the scene of the semiannual meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., today. The president and two members from each member club of the organization have been invited to attend. The board of directors will meet at 10:30 a. m. and after a buffet luncheon and the business meeting guests will be invited to walk or ride over the estate. Mrs. Raymond Knotts is president of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc.

Music Notes

Della Willson and Harriet Rothschild, duo pianists from Kansas City, will appear in recital at the Goodman theater tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Their program includes arrangements by Abram Chasins of Gluck's melody from "Orpheus," Strauss' serenade, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Dance of the Buffoons," in addition to Rachmaninoff's Suite No. 2, Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Haydn, and music by Debussy, Milhaud, and Casadesus.

Salvation Army Women's Group to Plan Year's Work

The first monthly meeting of the season of the board of directors of the woman's division of the Salvation army will be held at the army settlement, 3053 South Normal avenue, at 10:30 a. m. today. Mrs William S. Monroe, president, has announced that plans for the coming year, including war relief work and alleviation of suffering among needy women and children in the Chicago area, will be discussed.

Board of Club Federation to Convene Here

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Having made the decision to advance the winter meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's clubs, and to transfer the session from Washington, D. C., to Chicago, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, federation president, in the capital, and Mrs. William T. Bruckner, Illinois director, working here, are moving rapidly to shape the program schedule. The three day conference, heretofore held in mid-January, opens Friday, Oct. 16, in the Hotel Sherman.

Names newly added to Mrs. Whitehurst's list of speakers are Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, and James M. Landis, director of the United States Office of Civilian Defense. Mrs. Bruckner has completed arrangements to bring Sterling Morton, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and member of the Illinois War Savings staff, and Preston Bradley, minister, author, and radio commentator, before the conference.

At the first evening session, the club women will hear Miss Margaret Bondfield of London, England, former British labor minister. Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the United States Children's bureau, and Mr. Eastman will speak at the luncheon session that day. Friday afternoon, Mrs. Bruckner will present Mr. Morton and Thomas Wilhelm, foreign correspondent.

The luncheon period and afternoon session will be combined on the following day, when Miss Mary Anderson, director of the United States Women's bureau, and Mr. Landis will appear on a war service program.

That night the entire board, numbering some 150 women, will be the guests of THE TRIBUNE in the W-G-N studio theater for the "Chicago Theater of the Air" broadcast. The Chicago Woman's club will give a tea for the visitors Sunday afternoon in its clubrooms.

Wartime needs dictated the change in place and time for the meeting of the club leaders, who represent clubwomen in every state. Discussion thruout the conference will be centered upon the part women can and should play in winning the war.

In coöperation with the effort to curtail civilian travel, club women living at a distance are not being invited, but all except the closed morning sessions will be open to those living in or near Chicago.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

A Woman's World . . Or Is It?

"Mrs. Astor's nicely cluttered bedside table," stated the caption beneath the picture in the magazine one reads in the beauty parlor, that sleek, shiny magazine devoted to the sleek, shiny people of the smart set. "Mrs. Astor's nicely cluttered bedside table."

Now, it is wholly immaterial that the bedside table belongs to Mrs. Astor. It is wholly immaterial which Mrs. Astor she is, altho only an idiot could have gone that far in the magazine and not known she is Mrs. Vincent Astor, for the bedside table was only the dénouement in a cozy series of pictures of Mrs. Astor at home and Mrs. Astor's home. Preceding it had been a picture of Mrs. Astor in something blue sitting at a desk tastefully dashed in something red; a picture of Mrs. Astor in something swirlingly chiffon sitting on a sofa with something canine named Robin Hood; a picture of the Astor antecedents over the Astor mantel; a picture of Mrs. Astor's beautiful three acre bed; and then Mrs. Astor's nicely cluttered bedside table.

Mrs. Astor is not at her bedside table. In fact, after a careful study of her decent clutter, one assumes that she has never been at it, lying beside it or reaching out to knock its clutter into an unphotogenic disorder. For here, set out in a geometric proportion that would confound Euclid, are a French telephone, paper, pencil [well, the pencil is a trifle out of line] an engagement book, a clock with hands at 12:26, an opened book of matches with three matches missing, a covered ash tray, a closed cigaret box, a neatly folded newspaper, a very elegant lamp with ivy crawling up its base, and an electric button to ring for the maid responsible for the clutter. On the wide shelf below are three books set in a row, their dust jackets as clean and unfrayed as the day they came out of the bookshop.

Now, this is all very interesting, and some day will go into the 1942 version of the Addison and Steele papers, but the one point to be settled—and certainly the sleek, shiny magazine has no intention of settling it—is this: is a clutter nice; and if a bedside table is nicely cluttered, is it a clutter; and if it is neither nice nor a clutter, should Mrs. Astor really permit it in her bedroom?

Something Is Wrong.

Item from music notes in the New York Times: ". . . and the music will be played by Wasantha Wana Singh."

Really, with such a longing should she be an instrumentalist?

Tale of the Sea.

Commander Mort Seligman, executive officer and hero of the aircraft carrier Lexington who now is commanding the navy reserve aviation base at Peru, Ind., was upset, and audibly so, shortly before the battle of the Coral sea when he received a letter from his wife saying she had just sat for a portrait by one of Hollywood's more fabulous photographers. The commander, telling one and all of the $500 fee charged by this photographer, fumed and fretted and finally said, "Well, at least it should be good."

He then began to watch each load of mail for the promised picture. It came, a ponderous package marked "Photograph—approved by censor" and packed carefully in layers of brown paper, cardboard and tissue. One by one the commander removed the layers, first summoning his fellow officers to stand by for a view of his stunning wife. At last the final and bottom layer was removed: within was a picture of a grimacing chimpanzee in a ruffled tulle skirt.

Contract According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

A hand which originally shapes up as a minimum bid may, as the bidding proceeds, improve a great deal. Consider the following case:

Rubber bridge.
Both sides vulnerable.
North dealer.

♥ A K 6
♦ Q J 10 8
♣ Q J 7 3

WEST
♠ K J 6 2
♥ 10 9 8 5
♦ K 9 7 6

EAST
♠ 10 5
♥ Q J 4 3
♦ A 5 4 3 2
♣ 10 4

SOUTH
♠ A Q 9 8 4
♣ A K 8 6 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 diamonds[!]	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 clubs[!]	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously, the slam contract was a laydown, despite the unfavorable position of the missing spades.

It was North who deserved the greater part of the credit for reaching the excellent contract. South's bidding, tho entirely correct, was plainly marked by his holding. North, on the other hand, had to solve many problems. The first arose when South's two club takeout came around. At this point a simple club raise was persuasive, but North did not like that action, realizing that if South had a perfectly normal hand, with a good club suit and the sketchiest of stoppers in spades and/or hearts, he would make a stab at three no trump, since he would expect greater top card values in the North hand. Thus, tho it is usually a bridge crime to rebid a four card suit, North chose that rebid rather than the more misleading club raise. North reasoned that there was not any great danger in rebidding a minor suit, because South would not support it strongly except with a very good hand.

It was only after South had revealed his distribution, first by bidding a minor, then by bidding and rebidding spades, that North got the proper picture of his partner's hand. Now South's failure to jump on the first round took on an encouraging rather than a discouraging aspect. It was perfectly obvious that that failure was attributable to a lack of fit, which, from North's point of view, was all the better, since he himself had very little in his own suit. It now appeared extremely probable that South would be able to use the ace-king of hearts far better than high cards in diamonds. Even if he had a singleton diamond, the opponents might well open hearts and give him a chance to discard it.

On all these considerations, and on the good fit that he could now see, North bid the slam, even tho his original bid had been an irreducible minimum.

"Blind Man's Bluff"

By Baynard Kendrick

Copyright 1942: by Baynard Kendrick

INSTALMENT VII.
LAWSON'S ACCOUNT.

Friendship with Blake Hadfield had left Sybella Ford with many ingrained impressions of the blind—impressions gleaned from one man and consequently not entirely accurate when applied to the blind as a whole.

Seated in the lobby of the apartment house at 72d and Riverside drive, waiting for word to admit them upstairs, she discussed her forebodings with Harold Lawson, who was partly the cause of her coming there.

Lawson, an assistant investigator for the state insurance department, hid a great deal of common sense and real ability under a jovial devil may care air. A muscular man with a clean shaven face and merry blue eyes, his addiction to tennis had overcome a tendency toward stoutness. Aided by expertly tailored clothes, he carried his two hundred pounds incredibly well.

For the moment he was worried. His testimony against Sprague and company where he had served as auditor before that company's failure had secured him a position with the state insurance department. His own ability had pushed him up rapidly until the fate of the depositors and certificate holders in the bankrupt Miners Title and Trust company had become almost a matter of personal concern.

The M. T. & T. had been a headache from the start. Harold Lawson was a born accountant, and he had an inward hunch that Blake Hadfield had emerged from the M. T. & T. crash with something more than his enormous salary salted away. The courts had held differently.

Then had come Hadfield's blinding and Sprague's suicide to place an even greater stench in the public's nostrils at any mention of the M. T. & T. Now, six years later, Hadfield's violent death had rocketed unwelcome notoriety again.

Murder, the police had hinted. There was plenty against the M. T. & T. already without a murder further to shake public confidence. In a desperate hope of proving that Blake Hadfield had committed suicide and because he knew Sybella had reasons of her own, Lawson had persuaded Sybella Ford to accompany him on a visit to another blind man—Capt. Duncan Maclain.

"I feel rather silly," Sybella admitted, taking a third cigaret from Lawson and lighting it from her second. "What can this man do that the police can't do better, Harold?"

"He can look at this thru a blind man's eyes, paradoxically speaking," Lawson declared. "I know Davis of the homicide squad fairly well. He's a tough one to shake loose from an idea."

"So are you," said Sybella drily.

Lawson laughed. "Are you referring to my perfectly natural desire to marry you, my dear?"

"Perhaps." She patted the back of his hand. "Only your infernal persistence got me to come here."

"If it's a matter of the fees, Sybella——"

"It isn't. It's just that I feel silly."

"Well, anyhow, I'm taking care of the fees. I don't dare call in Maclain in behalf of the state, but I do know that the homicide squad and the newspapers, too, have faith in what he says. I'm hoping he can put a bee in Davis' ear."

"Then you don't believe his son killed him?"

"Heavens, no," said Lawson. "I don't believe he was killed. Do you?"

A bell boy interrupted before she could answer. They rode up to the 25th floor in silence and there a smaller elevator took them up another floor in Maclain's penthouse. Rena Savage, Maclain's secretary, greeted them in the hall and ushered them into the captain's office without further delay.

Sybella was prepared for anything except normalcy, and normalcy radiated from the impeccable man who greeted them at the door. He shook hands warmly with Lawson, said "make yourself comfortable," then clasped Sybella's hand and escorted her to a chair.

He was strikingly handsome, she admitted, appraising his breadth of shoulder and slender waistline under the faultless suit of dark gray. His spirited aquiline face was strong and sympathetic, filled with interesting hills and valleys that caught highlights from his smile.

For an instant after he seated himself at his desk and pushed cigarets forward, she had an illusion that his sightless eyes, perfect in contour, were turning inquiringly from her to Harold Lawson. Unconsciously she snapped open her vanity case, touched powder to her nose, and looked to the set of her soft brown hair.

"I have a confession to make." Sybella paused and glanced at Lawson who grinned reassuringly. Yet she was confident from his expression that he had felt the captain's magnetism, too.

"You dreaded coming here." Maclain smiled with a touch of ruefulness. "So many people do. But usually they're in trouble. Sometimes I feel like a dentist."

"Sybella's not exactly in trouble, Capt. Maclain," Lawson made haste to explain, "and neither am I. I'm really the cause of our being here. I'm connected with the state insurance department, and the defunct M. T. & T. comes very much under my jurisdiction. I've been trying very hard to maintain public confidence that the assets would be liquidated to the best advantage of all concerned."

Maclain's eyebrows moved up in slight inquiry.

"There has been enough scandal connected with the M. T. & T.," Harold Lawson continued. "From the point of view of public welfare, Mr. Hadfield picked a most unfortunate place in which to die."

"Sometimes we can't pick our spots," said Duncan Maclain. "How is the public welfare affected?"

"Carl Bentley, the controler, has been doing a splendid job of selling real estate which the M. T. & T. took over on foreclosed mortgages, despite the fact that most people hesitate to deal with a company that has a black eye. Add a murder—" Lawson shrugged expressively, as tho the captain might see. "Well, to put it mildly, the difficulty of Bentley's job will be doubled and the price of the trust company's real estate will go heavily down."

Maclain relaxed in his chair, Sybella thought he hadn't heard Lawson's explanation at all. Then he folded his hands inertly on the desk edge and spoke with the tone of a man whose thoughts are far away.

"I have a confession to make, too, Miss Ford. I pictured you as fat, effusive, and slightly obnoxious. Possibly it's your name—Sybella."

She laughed. "A family cross I bear. It does smack of verdant luxury, doesn't it?"

"Since I've met you," said Duncan Maclain, "it smacks of neither one. You're very beautiful, aren't you?"

She was wise enough not to reply, realizing that she had received an extraordinary tribute, a compliment that was absolutely sincere. Lawson gave her silence an approving grin.

Duncan Maclain was quietly pleased and went on to explain. "People form pictures for me when I first meet them—indelible pictures which I label and keep in a permanent frame. The lines of the pictures are handclasps, the texture and warmth of the skin, the length of their stride as they walk beside me. The colors are tone of voice, sincerity, choice of apparel, and perfume."

Sybella said quite simply, "Thank you, Capt. Maclain."

Again she thought he hadn't heard, and looked for support to Lawson, who was staring with interest at the Braille books lining one wall of the spacious room.

"Tell me about Blake Hadfield, Mr. Lawson," the captain said after a time. "Have you known him for long?"

"Professionally only." Lawson twisted in his chair at the captain's shift of conversation. "I was auditor for James Sprague's brokerage house before it failed. Then I obtained a post with the state insurance department. Sprague and Hadfield were close friends. I met——"

"Friends?" asked Duncan Maclain. "I understand Sprague shot and blinded him."

"That was later on. Sprague had lost heavily in the M. T. & T."

You can keep the window open for ventilation even when it's raining and the wind blowing a gale if you use a type of metal, perforated ventilator called no-draft. It is made so that dirt, wind, and rain are kept out. The perforations are arranged on two sheets of metal and they are never opposite each other. In ivory finish, this contrivance is made in five extension sizes, the smallest being 18 to 24 inches and the largest, 42 to 48 inches.

I hear that the pickle folks are doing fine business now that there are thousands of lunch baskets sallying forth to defense plants.

There's nothing like a crisp dill pickle to make a meat sandwich taste better. Many sandwich fillings need pickle to sharpen flavor, too. Now's the time to make homemade pickles. Have you seen "Favorite Pickles and Relishes," a mimeographed booklet of mine which costs 5 cents, by mail?

Lobster tails don't come from the true lobster, but from a close relative. Have you noticed that almost every restaurant serves them differently? Usually they are broiled and served with drawn butter or a buttery sauce. Sometimes they are left in the shell and sometimes they are taken out of it. If left in the shell, the tail may be split in any number of different ways. This is the way I fix the tails at home.

First I wash them, then take a heavy pair of kitchen scissors and cut away the little "fans" and the cartilage across the bottom. The tail foliage should be left on, for the sake of appearance. If there is any darkened meat near the end, I clip it away. Then I loosen the meat slightly at the edges, using a knife, and make a gash down the center of the meat to permit quicker cooking.

Next, back side up, the lobster tails get a broiler roasting just enough to make the shell turn red all over. This is to get the bottom part of the meat started cooking. Right side up again, the meat should be drizzled well with butter, then broiled for just a few minutes, until it turns very white, and slightly brown at the edges. Serve the lobster tails immediately, one to a person, unless they're very small, with an accompanying sauce. I use melted butter, salted and seasoned with lemon juice and a little prepared mustard.

Lobster tails aren't expensive, usually, and they're an awfully good dish.

Okra is seasonable now, which means it's time for gumbo—shrimp gumbo, if you want to cover yourself with culinary glory.

SHRIMP GUMBO.

[Serves six.]

3 slices bacon, chopped
1 small onion, minced
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups canned or fresh tomatoes
2 cups hot water
16 okra pods, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper [or less]
5 cups prepared shrimp

Cook bacon until fat is free. Add onion and cook 5 minutes. Add flour, blend well, then add tomatoes, water, okra, seasonings, and shrimp. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. To prepare shrimp for this dish, shuck and remove sand vein down the back. If cooked, frozen, or canned shrimp are used, simmer the soup without them, until the last 15 minutes. This is a hearty dish, not one meant to precede the dinner course.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Pumpkin Chiffon Squares.

[Nine servings.]

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1¼ cups canned pumpkin
½ cup milk
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ pound vanilla wafers

Soften gelatin in cold water. To beaten egg yolks add pumpkin, milk, ½ cup sugar, salt, and spices. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens, then add the gelatin. Chill. When pudding begins to stiffen, add stiffly beaten egg whites, into which the remaining ½ cup sugar has been folded. Place a layer of the vanilla wafer crumbs in an 8 inch square pan. Pour in pumpkin mixture, and chill thoroly. Servie in squares, and top with whipped cream.

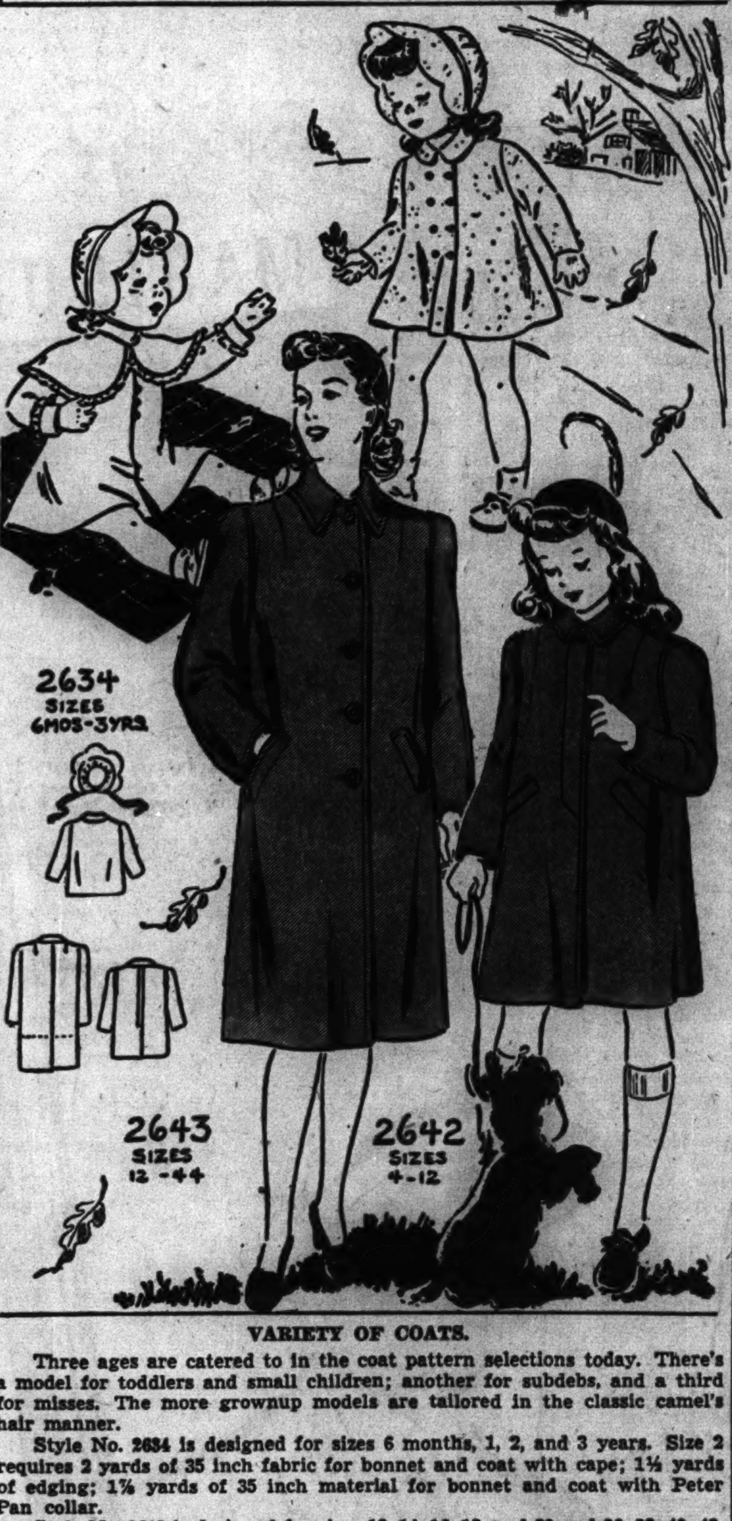
Three Coat Patterns



VARIETY OF COATS.

Three ages are catered to in the coat pattern selections today. There's a model for toddlers and small children; another for subdebs, and a third for misses. The more grownup models are tailored in the classic camel's hair manner.

Style No. 2634 is designed for sizes 6 months, 1, 2, and 3 years. Size 2 requires 2 yards of 35 inch fabric for bonnet and coat with cape; 1½ yards of edging; 1⅞ yards of 35 inch material for bonnet and coat with Peter Pan collar.

Style No. 2643 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 54 inch material with 3⅝ yards of 35 inch lining.

Style No. 2642 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 54 inch material with 2¼ yards of lining.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents for mailing costs (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The autumn pattern book costs 15 cents—10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Sunday Evening Club Begins 36th Season; Founder Is Greeted

Clifford W. Barnes last night opened the 36th season of the Chicago Sunday Evening club before an attendance of 2,500 persons in Orchestra hall. When Mr. Barnes, founder of the club, entered the hall, accompanied by the preacher of the evening, the Rev. Walter J. Spence of Winnepeg, Man., and Charles W. Seabury, Chicago business leader, he was greeted with applause.

The Rev. Mr. Spence in his sermon asserted that the United nations do not as yet know the meaning of sacrifice. To be worthy of winning the war, he said, we need sacrifice augmented by the courage that comes from forgetfulness and helpfulness for others.

Good Morning!

Sometimes I get to wondering about Dunning [Chicago State Hospital for the Insane]. With what do the mildly insane occupy their time? Do they ever write scenarios? And if not—why not? There are certainly any number of them who could turn out an opus the equal of this thing called "Hi Neighbor." . . . It is NUTS.

Well acted enough—and there are a couple of songs that aren't bad—but the story—O gibber gibber gibber.

The locale is a backwoods school that becomes the "Hi Neighbor" resort during vacation. . . . Here, and during said period, needy students work for their tuition. . . .

Business being slow at the start of the season with which this opus is concerned, a bright idea is born—and, the "Hi Neighbor" becomes a rendezvous for "Lonely Hearts" male and female. . . .

Just as things are going good, along comes Spinster Hattie Greenfield, thru whose generosity the school's existence had been made possible. . . . Hattie had heard of the high jinks and she's there with her pretty niece and her lawyer to stop them. . . . The niece is very pretty and the school physician, Dr. Hall, is very booky, and the head of the institution, Prof. Boggs, and Miss Greenfield had loved and split up in a good old summertime of long ago. . . . I'm not going to tell you any more because if I do I'm afraid I'll start trying to catch butterflies—and it ain't summer.

See you tomorrow.

Stage Notes

The Milwaukee season of plays at the Pabst theater, under the direction of Arthur Sircom, continues this week with a revival of Somerset Maugham's "Our Betters," with Constance Collier and Violet Heming in leading rôles. Performances will be given from Tuesday thru next Sunday.

Miss Collier has been associated with the rôle of the duchess in "Our Betters" ever since the first London production at the Globe theater in 1923. When the play was revived in New York in 1928 with Ina Claire in the cast, Miss Collier resumed the rôle. Violet Heming will be remembered by Chicagoans for her appearances, within the last few years, in "There's Always Juliet," "The Shining Hour," and "Yes, My Darling Daughter."

Beginning Oct. 13, for six days, Helen Jerome's "Charlotte Corday" will be presented as the third of the Pabst theater's four subscription plays. Except for a tryout production at the Mohawk Drama festival in Schenectady, N. Y., three years ago, the play is completely new. Erin O'Brien-Moore and Jose Ruben will take principal rôles.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 4.—Rosalind Russell's been having an argument with a horse. She's practicing riding side saddle for her coming rôle as Elizabeth Kenny, the famed Australian bush nurse. Rosalind's horse never heard of either Kenny or side saddles — and Rosalind doesn't know any more about side saddles than the horse. So, between them, they're having fun. Rosalind tells me that Elizabeth Kenny's favorite horse, when she was a youngster, was called "Punch"—very appropriate if you ask me. . . . And, even if you don't ask me, I'd like to toss out an idea and see what you think of it.

Last night at a dinner party I met a famous surgeon. He and I ran a race to see who knew the most about Elizabeth Kenny. The doctor knew plenty, but I did pretty well — thanks to Rosalind, who has told me so many intimate anecdotes. The doctor made a startling observation. "Do you realize," he said, "that, at the very time Elizabeth Kenny was trying to prove her now accepted treatment of infantile paralysis, President Roosevelt was stricken with this malady?

The doctor went on to say that he thought it'd be a good idea if a part of the next "march of dimes" nation-wide donation were set aside and given to the Kenny Foundation for training Kenny technicians. I think that's a wonderful idea—what do you think? You see, it's taken Kenny 30 years to prove she was right, but it takes more than 30 minutes to train technicians. It also takes money to pay for the training. In the recent Arkansas epidemic there were all too few of these technicians available. Kenny hasn't any money. She's never taken any for this work of a lifetime.

And, by the way, while we're grousing about gas rationing and a shortage of specially wrinkled prunes, we might take a lesson from the great woman who didn't need a bayonet in her back or bombs on her head to learn the art of self-sacrifice.

They'll Singe You.

All Metro was over on the "Cabin in the Sky" set yesterday watching the colored dancers jitterbug to Duke Ellington music. Wallace Beery, Mickey Rooney, Lana Turner, Red Skelton, George Givot, Lucille Ball — in fact, every one who had a minute to spare from his own picture was watching the proceedings. The dancers were hot and the music was sensational. Lana and Mickey just itched to join in, and Lucille Ball was in a corner trying to copy their steps. But, when those jitters take hold, no white person can compete. . . . That new Metro comic [wait till you see him] Zero Mostel, isn't worried about being typed. He says one reason why the studio won't type him is that they can't find out what he is. And he isn't going to tell—he's no stool pigeon!

Our Fun Girl.

Ruth Selwyn's new find, Jean Foulke, has plenty of sex appeal, and may be in Hunt Stromberg's first picture, "Dishonored Lady." If he can act, he's in the bag. Maj. De Seversky and his charming wife took time out to cook a Russian dinner for 40 at Ruth's the other night, and the little minx had Doris Duke as a waitress. In the meantime, Ruth's concentrating with Buffy Cobb on a musical revue called "Smarty Pants," which she hopes to produce in New York. I asked Buffy about the title. She looked at Ruth and said, "Could any title be more perfect?" Greta Garbo was thinking of renting Ruth's house, but there was one bit of hedge not high enough, and the deal was off. The great Miss G. must have utter seclusion!

Modesty Plus.

Over on the "Du Barry" set, two sailors watched Rags Ragland, George Givot, and Red Skelton. The sailors had been in the battles of Midway and the Solomons, as well as on the Yorktown and Lexington, and had been twice machine gunned by Japs. After watching for a few moments, one of them turned to me and said, "Boy! I don't see how you actors stand working under those lights all day!" . . . Teresa Wright finally made news. She bought a 1932 Chevrolet sedan, because it had good tires, to do her shopping in. . . . E. H. Griffith will have female messenger girls in his "Look Out Below." 'Cause why? You can't get boys. And the 75 year olds aren't pretty. . . . Ann Gwynne is dividing her time between Lieut. Bob Ross and Cowboy Star Tom Keene. But Keene has the edge! . . .

Unsung—but Singing.

Nelson Eddy wants no publicity, but he appears at army camps almost every night to sing for the soldiers. Funny how ballyhoo ends when you've finished your contract with a studio, isn't it? . . . Republic owns the song "Three Little Sisters" and will use the title for Jane Withers' next. Mary Lee and Ruth Terry will be starred with her. . . . Eight years ago Danny Dare worked out dance routines for Gracie McDonald and her brother. Now he's back teaching new steps to Gracie for "It Ain't Hay." . . . Studios are paying hundreds of thousands to sign up all the bands in America for their pictures, but they had no idea that those bands would get their biggest buildup from the Hollywood Canteen, where they'll all play free. The first week they'll have 13 bands. And, if you can find a bigger booster than a soldier made happy by music, I'd like to hear about it.

This and That.

Joseph Widener, that great horseman, who hasn't been here in 25 years, stopped by for a few days, visited the Metro lot, and had a mighty horsey conversation with Head Man Louis B. Mayer. . . . Englishman Richard Gully will soon be back from Mexico City to settle in Hollywood. And I hear that the earl of Warwick is at his castle doing a writing job. . . . That bright boy, George Bruce, is whipping "Dragon Seed" into shape. . . . Harry Sherman wants to buy Albert Dekker's contract from Paramount. Sherman has given Albert better parts than his own studio has. In "Buckskin Frontier" he was actually allowed to be romantic!

Man Usually Cause When Girls Fall Out

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When girls write in complaining of the treatment administered them by other girls, a school pal, say, or a young woman friend of considerable duration, you don't have to read far to discover there's a man in it.

"She talked about me behind my back," they'll report. "She turned out to be anything but a friend." et cetera, and so on.

Why not face the fact that when you or that girl becomes involved emotionally with a young man, there's bound to be a change in your relationships. You won't see so much of each other naturally. You won't rely on each other for movie dates and other entertainment sources.

The girl, involved with the boy, may not come right out and say she's waiting to hear from Jim or Bill and can't go along with you tonight. She may even manufacture a little white one just to spare your feelings. Your turn may be next and you'll be in the identical position. If you don't face the problem sanely, you'll get a mad on and perhaps say things you shouldn't and the other girl will be tempted to say things behind your back.

Because of the male shortage and the fact that this shortage will increase as the war goes on, women will have to resort to date companionship among their own sex. But the fact should never be lost sight of by the one who has failed having a husband or beau of her own that when the male does appear he has prior rights on dates and trips. Some psychologists may adapt an unhealthful meaning to the thing we are talking about. Our observation is that it is nothing but plain jealousy that is stirring. Or you can call it envy of the girl who appears to be getting her man.

Catholic Poetry Society to Hear Rector Lecture

Monsignor Reynold Hillenbrand, rector of St. Mary of the Lake seminary, will lecture on "Robert Farren, the Singing Gael," before the Catholic Poetry society at its first meeting of the season at 8 o'clock tonight in room 1008 of the Fine Arts building, 410 South Michigan avenue.

Weddings

Following a wedding trip to Lake Lure, N. C., Ensign and Mrs. John H. Alschuler are at home in Boston, Mass. The former Betty Marie Rogers and the son of Mrs. Alfred S. Alschuler of Winnetka were married on Sept. 14 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Walter Rogers of Brookline, Mass. In the east for the ceremony were Mrs. Alschuler and the bridegroom's brothers, Alfred Jr. and Richard Alschuler, and their wives, and his sisters, Mrs. Edward Gudeman Jr. and Mrs. Leon Despres. Linda Despres was flower girl.

Mrs. Louise Barlow Hamilton of Winnetka announces the marriage on Sept. 20 of her daughter, Jane, to John Patrick Trevorrow of Denver, Colo. The ceremony took place at Lubbock, Tex., where Mr. Trevorrow will receive his commission when he completes army pilot training this week. Mr. Trevorrow and his bride were classmates at Colorado college.

Miss Jane Pauline Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams of La Moure, N. D., and Lieut. Paul H. Whitney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross B. Whitney of South Marquette road, were married on Sept. 26 in the chapel at Fort Clark, Texas. After a wedding trip to Mexico Lieut. Whitney and his bride will make their home at his post. The former Miss Adams, a graduate of North Dakota State college, has been head dietician at the Grant and Passavant hospitals. Lieut. Whitney attended Wabash college and was graduated from the University of Chicago.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Wednesday in Cranston, R. I., of Mrs. Lillian Sherman Stewart of Oakdale avenue to Carl A. Whitman, ensign, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton H. Whitman of East Auburn, Me. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman of Harvey. Ensign Whitman and his bride will live in the east.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you like a fragrance that is a haunting and beautiful melange of scents, unidentifiable but exquisite, you're going to like a new perfume that has just come to town. We say "new," but actually it's been in process rather a long time. It was planned before the war, and named—and that's a curious story. By some strange chance its name turns out to be one of those simple but inspiring words that we can't help but fancy in these turbulent times.

Not that the name is important, nor the flacon in which it comes. Both are simple and choice. It's the perfume that counts—and that is extremely exciting.

On first whiff it struck us as sophisticated, but as it dries it takes on a diffused, soft quality, like sachet, that will make you change your mind a bit.

One of the most interesting things about it is the sachet quality. Like sachet rubbed into the skin, it has the trick of releasing its fragrance in warm, soft wafts. It's a smart fragrance and this interesting diffused quality makes it easy to use with utmost artfulness.

As you can gather, we're pretty crazy about this. It's interesting and different. Also, it's not too expensive. It comes in various sizes to fit various pocketbooks. A companion piece to the perfume is a concentrated cologne, perfumed with the same scent, that you can use as a daytime perfume with great success.

All the talk about perfumes and lipsticks and such being necessary to sustain our "morale" is offensive if your morale isn't more than skin deep, God help us all! But they do contribute to the sense of well being, as every woman knows. This new perfume is one of the best of spirit-lifters.

All-American Bridge Championship to Be Played Here Oct. 14-18

Announcement of the schedule for the nineteenth annual All-American contract bridge championships, to be held at the Morrison hotel Oct. 14 to 18, was made this week by the tournament committee.

The tournament, conducted by the American Contract Bridge league, is sponsored by the Cleveland Whist association, Greater St. Louis Bridge association, Indianapolis Bridge association, Michigan Bridge association, and the Wisconsin State Bridge association. The meeting is annually one of the biggest of the national tournaments, and this year, as usual, is expected to attract the best of the contract bridge world.

First event on the program is the mixed pair championship, in one evening session, Oct. 14. Thursday afternoon, Oct. 15, the women's pairs, in one session, will be held. The masters' individual, a two-session event, will be played Thursday afternoon and evening. Friday has been set aside for team of four play, afternoon and evening. Qualifying sessions of the open pair championships will be held Saturday afternoon and evening, with finals in two sessions Sunday. A non-masters' pair tournament also will be held in two sessions on Sunday.

Masters' points will be awarded for each event, with the greatest number —30—going to the winners of the open pair championship.

The something which always happens to the Chicago Cardinals when they play the Green Bay Packers, no matter what the year or the place, happened last night and most of the 24,897 spectators in Comiskey park weren't at all sure they saw everything.

They weren't sure they were seeing right when the dashing Cardinals started the fourth quarter in possession of a 13 to 3 lead with the Packers facing probable elimination from the National Football league race. Then occurred several items at the finish of which the Wisconsin northmen had a 17 to 13 triumph and a fresh start for the new season.

Brock Scores on Mystery Play.

The winning play was a mystifying 23 yard touchdown run by Charley Brock, Green Bay center, half way in the final period. The Cardinals had just yielded their first touchdown in three league games when that old reliable duo, Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson, clicked for six points on a 5 yard pass and an extra point by Hutson which pared the Cardinals' lead to 13 to 10.

The Cards had gained possession on their 12 after Tony Canadeo's punt. Bob Morrow, big, blond full back, broke thru for 9 yards. There was a line play which gained nothing, and then Morrow tried again. At the 20 yard line, with the play apparently over, Brock suddenly spurted from the confused mass of Cardinals and Packers and loped to a touchdown. Every one, it seemed, except Referee Bobie Cahn and C. Brock, was confused. The touchdown was allowed. Hutson coolly stepped back and collected the point and that ended the Cardinals' hopes of beating Green Bay for the first time since 1937.

It was the Cards' first league defeat after two shutout victories and the Packers' first triumph.

Conzelman Criticizes Cahn.

After the game, Coach Jim Conzelman strongly criticized Referee Cahn for allowing the touchdown, and he was unofficially backed by visiting football men. Several Green Bay players also told one of Conzelman's assistants that they didn't win the game; that it was handed to them by Cahn's decision.

"When the forward progress of the ball is stopped the play is over," declared Conzelman. "Not one, but several seconds elapsed before Brock took the ball out of Morrow's hands and loped down the field across our goal line. No, I'm not going to protest, but I insist it was a raw decision."

An unbelievable first half had given the Cards a 13 to 3 lead after the first of six damaging Chicago fumbles

We Two Shall Meet Again.

Somehow I think we two shall meet again!
Who knows the time or place that destiny
Will choose before our paths may cross, and then—
What shall accrue of joy or misery?
Perhaps it shall be day and cloudless skies
Will boast a bold and shameless, laughing sun.
Perhaps it shall be night time and a wise
Old moon will usher stars out, one by one.
Perhaps there shall be softly falling rain,
Like teardrops dropping from an angel's face.
Or snowflakes, veiling trees once bare and plain,
Thus lending beauty to the commonplace.
Yet rain, or shine, or snow, night time,
or day,
We two shall meet again! Somewhere!
Some way!

Mr. Prune Goes to War.

Among the draftees who have gone
To take their place in action,
I note the wrinkled prune that oft
We munched with satisfaction.
And now on many a stormy front
Far from our breakfast table
With all his vitamins he fights
In manner admirable.

So succulent was he and sweet,
Lowly and unassuming,
I shudder when I think of him
Out where the guns are booming.
We miss much more than words can tell
Our gallant, global rover,
And how we'll cheer his glad return
When this cruel war is over.

Fifth game — 8:15 o'clock tonight in Comiskey park.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs finally awakened yesterday to the fact they were embroiled in a city series with their perpetual enemies—the White Sox. Emerging from their protracted nap, the National leaguers went to work in a big way, polished off Thornton Lee, the lefty, without much difficulty, and triumphed, 5 to 3, after three successive setbacks. Thus the municipal event will swing from Wrigley field back to Comiskey park tonight for the fifth battle.

The alarm clock which aroused the Cubs in time to prevent the Sox from making off with another four game sweep was Hiram Bithorn, the Puerto Rican member of Jim Wilson's Pan-American ensemble. Probably emboldened by the early lead with which his pals fixed him up, Bithorn permitted practically no mischief for four innings. He was shaken up a bit by three hits in the fifth, followed with two more perfect innings, and then began to waver. But he staggered thru despite a total of four safe thumps in the eighth and ninth.

Wild Pitch Advances McCullough.

Lee wasn't exactly quick on the trigger in the second inning, a circumstance assisting the Cubs to their first run. Clyde McCullough led off with a bounder and Lee swiped at it with his gloved hand, but the ball squirted away for a base hit. By the time two were out McCullough was on third base, having gone there from second on a wild pitch. Phil Cavarretta's double to right center rode McCullough across the plate. A third inning run was put together neatly as well as quickly. Bithorn doubled off Myril Hoag's shin, Stan Hack sacrificed, and Len Merullo singled.

The Cubs made only one hit in the fourth, but it proved sufficient for scoring purposes. After Dario Lodigiani had thrown out Bill Nicholson, Dom Dallessandro drew the only pass issued by Lee. He stole second while Cavarretta was being struck out, and

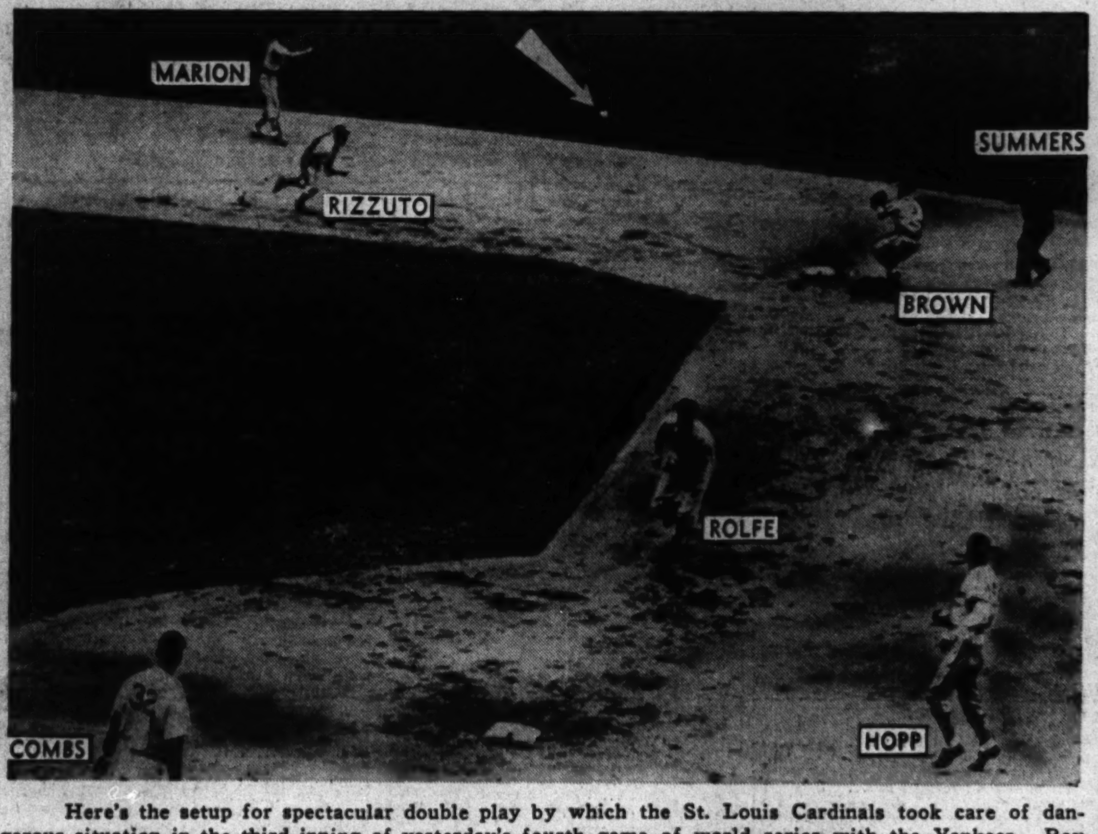
The Cards Are Fast, Yanks Discover



Here's the setup for spectacular double play by which the St. Louis Cardinals took care of dangerous situation in the third inning of yesterday's fourth game of world series with the Yankees. Roy Cullenbine of Yanks lined to the Cards' Martin Marion, who threw to Jimmy Brown in time to catch Phil Rizzuto off second. Red Rolfe had time to get back to first to avoid triple play. The Cardinals won, 9 to 6, to lead in series, three games to one.

BEARS TAKE TO AIR FOR VICTORY OVER RAMS, 21-7

Cleveland, O., Oct. 4 [Special].—Chicago's champion Bears continued their drive toward a third straight National Football league title by defeating the Cleveland Rams today, 21 to 7, before a crowd of 17,161.

The Bears took to the air for two of their touchdowns, scoring on passes caught by little Ray McLean. Half Back Harry Clark bucked over from the 1 foot line for the third Bear score after a steady drive down the field.

Footing Proves Difficult.

Chicago's famous T with man-in-motion attack and quick opening plays were hampered by the condition of the field. Footing was difficult over most of the gridiron because of newly laid turf which replaced sod chewed up two weeks ago during the Army War show.

It was costly, too, to the Rams who lost a possible scoring opportunity when Gaylon Smith, half back, slipped after making 7 yards with only McLean between him and the goal posts 60 yards away.

Late in the first period the slippery turf aided the Bears on their first touchdown when Smith fell, allowing McLean to take Charley O'Rouke's pass on the Rams' 30 and run unchallenged to the goal.

Luckman Tosses Accurately.

The Bears' aerial offensive gave Chicago touchdowns in each of the third and fourth periods. Sid Luckman pitched to McLean from the Rams' 32 for one tally and a succession of accurate tosses by Luckman put the ball in a scoring position for the third on the 6 yard stripe. John Petty and Clark bucked to the 1 foot line, then Clark rammed over for Chicago's final score. Joe Stydahar kicked the first extra point and Frank Maznicki connected for the second and third.

The Rams opened a frenzied passing offensive in the fourth period from their 26, completing four with Jack Jacobs tossing to Ben Hightower, rookie end. Chicago then brought the ball back from its 37 to the 49 where the Bears' only fumble set the Rams in motion for a touchdown.

O'Rourke, fading back for a pass, was smothered by Hightower and dropped the ball. Joe Pasqua, Ram tackle, recovered for Cleveland on

Oust Edwards as Lion Coach; Job to Karcis

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP).—Fred L. Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, today dismissed Head Coach Bill Edwards and Line Coach Roy Miller, and appointed John [Bull] Karcis, former National Football league full back, to Edwards' post. Karcis has been serving as back field coach with the Lions.

Mandel's move followed Detroit's third successive defeat in National league competition. Edwards and Miller entered the league a year ago from Western Reserve university where they compiled a successful coaching record. Their Detroit record last year was four victories, eight defeats, and a tie.

Karcis, 33 year old former Carnegie Tech star, played eight years of pro football in New York, Pittsburgh, and Brooklyn before retiring in 1940 to a high school coaching job in Pitcairn, Pa. He became Detroit's back field coach this fall.

Karcis will be assisted, Mandel said, by Lloyd Cardwell and John Wiethe, both on the active player list. Caldwell, former Nebraskan who is in his sixth season with the Lions, will be backfield coach. Wiethe, all-league guard in 1940 who rejoined the Lions last week after serving as American association baseball umpire, will coach the linemen.

New York, Oct. 4.—The 69,902 fans who set a new world series attendance record in Yankee stadium this afternoon saw an exciting 9 to 6 Cardinal conquest of the Yanks, a game of vast contrast with the 2 to 0 Cardinal victory yesterday, which in its turn had set a new attendance record of 69,123. Thus the Yanks, beaten three straight since they won the opener in St. Louis, must win tomorrow or yield their world championship to the dashing kids from St. Louis.

Red Ruffing, who beat the Cardinals, 7 to 4, in a near no-hitter in St. Louis last Wednesday, tho he was knocked out with a six hit, four run orgy in the ninth inning, will seek to keep the Yank hopes alive here tomorrow. If he succeeds, the big show will move back to St. Louis for at least one game. Striving to prevent the pilgrimage back to St. Louis thru the ambitious project of winning the championship here will be Johnny Beazley, the 23 year old rookie, who won the second game in St. Louis, 4 to 3.

Record for Receipts.

If the Yanks win tomorrow and in St. Louis Wednesday, the deciding game will not be played until Friday. For the first time it was decided this year to devote a day to ticket sales for the seventh game, if necessary.

In addition to breaking the old attendance record for the second consecutive day, the total receipts were boosted to a new all-time high, $269,408 having been paid to see this afternoon's slashing encounter.

It was the last game in which the players shared in receipts. The players' end today was $137,398.08, bringing their total for the series to $427,579.41.

Today's game was dedicated to those who like slugging, in contrast with yesterday's thriller, which was such a joy for admirers of great pitching and defensive play.

Atley Donald to the Rescue.

Morton Cooper, in his second inadequate performance of the series, yielded a run in the first inning on a double by Red Rolfe and a single by Roy Cullenbine and this run stood up for a 1 to 0 lead for Hank Borowy until the Cards broke loose with six runs on six hits in the fourth inning.

CONDIT IS STAR AS DODGERS WIN FROM LIONS, 28-7

Scores Three Touchdowns in 2d Victory.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP).—Merlyn Condit ran for three touchdowns and intercepted a pass to set up another as the Brooklyn Dodgers gained their second successive National Football league victory today by defeating the Detroit Lions, 28 to 7, before 12,598 spectators at Briggs stadium. It was Detroit's third straight defeat.

Condit, 185 pound half back, scored two touchdowns 75 seconds apart in the first period to give the Dodgers a safe working margin, but just to make certain he ran 45 yards for a third period score. Dean McAdams passed to Eddie Rucinski for 20 yards and the last Brooklyn score in the fourth period.

The Lions scored in the second quarter, marching 60 yards in 15 plays for their first touchdown of the season. Ned Mathews fired a 5 yard pass to Emil Banjavic, half back from Arizona, for the score. The Lions threatened to tie it up later in the period before the Dodgers took over the ball 7 yards from the goal line, and it was all Brooklyn the rest of the way.

REDSKINS, 14; EAGLES, 10.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP).—A 35 yard pass from Sammy Baugh to Andy Farkas, followed by a 1 yard line buck by Farkas, gave the Washington Redskins a last quarter touchdown and a 14 to 10 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in Shibe park today.

Until these two veterans clicked for a 67 yard drive for the winning score, it appeared to the 16,000 spectators the Eagles were headed for an upset 10 to 7 triumph, thanks to a 34 yard touchdown run by Ted Williams and a 30 yard field goal by Len Barnum, in the first half.

Barnum punted to the Redskins 33 with less than eight minutes to play. Baugh flipped a 20 yard pass to Al Krueger and a second later threw one for 10 yards to Dick Todd for first down on the Eagle 37. The next play found Farkas in the clear on the Eagle 20 where he snared Baugh's toss and ran to the 2. Farkas hit center for 1 and then plunged over for the game winning touchdown.

Barnum Kicks Goal.

Early in the game the Eagles drove to the Washington 18, but three plays lost 5 and Barnum booted his field goal from the 30. The Redskins came right back with a touchdown to go ahead, 7 to 3, when Todd took a screen pass from Baugh and ran 53 yards for the score. Todd added the point.

This advantage lasted until the middle of the second period when the Eagles covered 82 yards in five plays to take a 10 to 7 edge.

ASSUMPTION IS WINNER IN MET LEAGUE FINAL

Assumption won the championship in the Metropolitan Amateur Baseball league yesterday by beating St. Vitus, 7 to 1, in Block stadium, Indiana Harbor.

Triner A. C. took consolation honors in the senior division of the league by winning two games yesterday, the first from the Rams A. C., 12 to 2, and the second from the Chi-Reds, 14 to 2. Third place went to the Melrose Park Red Birds, who beat the Clarion A. C., 4 to 3.

Ninth Cancellation Ends Outdoor Polo Season

Park Ridge and the Detroit Rangers gave up all hopes of playing their final Tri-State league polo game when wet grounds forced the fourth consecutive postponement in as many Sundays yesterday. The outdoor season ended with a record of eight contests and nine cancellations in 17 week-ends.

Steelers and Dudley Defeat Giants, 13 to 10

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Steelers upset the New York Giants in a National Football league game today, 13 to 10, with a passing and running attack which surprised the 9,600 fans in attendance. Bill Dudley, left half back and former University of Virginia player, sparked the Steelers to victory.

The Steelers' triumph was the first here over the Giants, champions of the eastern division since 1936, and was their first success of the season.

Pittsburgh spotted the Giants 3 points early in the game when a fumble led to a 37 yard field goal Ward Cuff.

Steelers March 80 Yards.

Bouncing back, the Steelers went 80 yards to a score in the second period, Full Back Joe Hoague taking the ball over on a 3 yard plunge.

The Giants got their only touchdown in the dying moments of the first half on a 16 yard pass from Full Back Tuffy Leemans to Rookie Merle Hapes. Cuff kicked the extra point.

Stopped on the 1 as the final period opened, the Steelers came right back, scoring the winning touchdown on a reverse from Bill Dudley to Half Back Curtis Sandig. Armand Niccolai kicked the extra point. Lineups:

Leo Defeats Catholic of Joliet, 40-6

Leo High school, defending champion in the Catholic league, opened its south section campaign by routing Catholic High of Joliet, 40 to 6, yesterday on Shewbridge field.

Bob Kelly, left half back, started the Lions rolling. He scored on a twenty-five yard run around end and later in the first period raced over from the 12 yard stripe.

Bob Hanlon registered two touchdowns in the third period. He caught a pass from Don Murphy and ran fifty-five yards for his first score. He smashed nine yards for his second touchdown. A pass interception and thirty-seven yard run by Tony Kelly brought another touchdown in the third period. Lineups:

FENWICK HIGH WINS

Fenwick High school's football team started its Catholic league schedule yesterday afternoon by defeating St. Philip, 25 to 0. The game was played in Hanson Park stadium.

Jack Higgins, senior full back, led the Fenwick offensive as he scored two touchdowns and accounted for a third on a lateral pass. He plunged thru for a touchdown in the second period and another early in the third. Then, in the closing minutes of the quarter, he lateraled to Frank McDonald who scampered across.

The final Fenwick tally came in the middle of the fourth period as Jim Padulka, soph quarter, recovered Jack Martin's fumble on the 20 and ran 80 yards for a touchdown.

A St. Philip march that threatened Fenwick came to an end at the half with the ball 4 yards from the Fenwick goal. Lineup:

ST. MEL, 14; ST. GEORGE, 0.

St. Mel lived up to advance predictions by scoring in the second and fourth quarters yesterday to beat St. George, 14 to 0, in Key Branch stadium. Mario Maggio was credited with the two touchdowns for the west siders. John Murphy tossed a 34 yard pass to Maggio on the 1 yard line, and on the next play he plunged over to give St. Mel a 7 to 0 lead at half-time. Maggio was again on the go in the final period when Louis Mattucci tossed him a 25 yard pass and he raced 25 yards to score. Frank Saccamanno booted both points after touchdown. Lineup:

MARICICH, SMALL GAIN 58 PIN LEAD IN $1,200 MATCH

The team of Johnny Small and Eli Maricich, paced by Small's high single game of 254, took a 58 pin lead over Herb Freitag and Paul Krumske in the 24 game doubles bowling match for a $1,200 purse as the second block of six games was rolled yesterday at the Dearborn-Jackson recreation. The third block will be bowled at 8 o'clock next Saturday night and the final block at 1:30 next Sunday afternoon, both at the Gold Coast Recreation. Scores:

Freitag-Krumske, 360 390 428 388 324 375—2,265; Small-Maricich, 413 371 375 382 447 390—2,378.

Packers Rally to Win From Cards, 17-13

Lach Takes Pass for Score.

Then the amazing battle began to roll. The Cards almost completely stopped Green Bay's high powered passing and running. The first of Steve Lach's interceptions late in the quarter came on the Green Bay 35 yard line, just as Hutson was reaching for the ball. After Marshall Goldberg made a yard at center there were only 90 seconds left to play. Bud Schwenk threw a high pass which Lach caught over his shoulder on the 11. Then he ran for a touchdown and Bill Daddio picked up the extra point.

On the fourth play of the second quarter Lach intercepted a pass by Isbell and was crowded out of bounds on the Packers' 46. A clipping penalty on the play set the Cards back to their 34, but they went on from there to set up the first of Daddio's two field goals in the period. Goldberg picked up a first down with two strong smashes, and Schwenk flipped the ball to Ray Elbi, who took it on the Green Bay 40 and continued 4 yards. Schwenk, who smartly mixed up running with his passing, dashed for 8 and Goldberg got 5. After three passes from the 23 failed Daddio went back to the 32 and kicked the placement.

Cardinals Go on the Loose.

Lach brought the Packers' punt to his 35 and the Cardinals were on the loose again. Schwenk, on a fake reverse, swept around the Green Bay right end for 30 yards, finally being tumbled out of bounds. He passed 10 yards to Frank Ivy, but the Packers held for three downs. This time Daddio, kicking from the 35, sent a hard kick high over the bar.

The Packers made their only threat of the first half after Brock, who really was watching the ball all night, intercepted Goldberg's pass on Green Bay's 21. The Packers had spurned punting on fourth down and had surrendered the ball on their own 28.

Capping the advance Andy Uram tumbled out of bound after making a 38 yard gain on Canadeo's pass to Chicago's 14. Hutson, on an end run, got only 3 when he slipped. Then Johnny Martin caught Canadeo's pass back of the goal line and the crisis was over.

Fight Off Packers in Third.

The Cards fought off the Packers thru the first 10 minutes of the third quarter despite a fumble by Johnny Knolla and two penalties. From the Cards' 35 the Packers went to the 9 and then Goldberg grabbed a low pass back of the goal line as Hutson reached for it. Goldberg ran to the Cards' 16. Then after the Chicagoans had marshaled a dangerous offensive to Green Bay's 32, Goldberg fumbled and Russ Letlow recovered on the Packers' 36. The Packers had marched to the Cards' 34 when the quarter ended, which was a prelude to all that fourth period trouble.

The Cards were so tight on pass defense in the first half that Isbell completed only one pass, good for 8 yards. Four others were incomplete and one was intercepted. At the finish Green Bay had only five completed forwards to show for 19 attempts. The Cardinals clicked on 10 out of 24 and out-first-downed their conquerors, 11 to 9.

Vikings Hand Sparta First Defeat, 1 to 0

BY OFFSIDE.

By the margin of a free kick, the Vikings handed Sparta its first defeat of the season, 1 to 0, yesterday before 2,500 who turned out for the USO benefit program featured by a double soccer attraction. In the supporting game, the Slovaks beat the Kickers, 3 to 0.

The first half of the Viking-Sparta contest offered nothing in the way of scoring despite the fancy passing of Jimmy McDermott, playing his first game for the Vikings. Ray Camplin shared the spotlight with McDermott with his daring saves in the Vikings' goal. However, fouling became more frequent as the second half opened. Mons Sebby, taking a free kick, placed high near the goal for Al O'Hare to head past the keeper, and that was the game.

Jerry Bohm opened the scoring for the Slovaks in their contest with the Kickers after 20 minutes when he kicked goal from five yards. In the second half Smitty Tomecek resumed the scoring when, stretched out on the ground, he tipped the ball out of his hands for a goal. Ted Doubek made the final goal when he let go a hard drive high into the net from 25 yards.

SEATTLE WINS PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE PLAY-OFF

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 4 (AP).—Seattle defeated Los Angeles in the second game of a double header today, winning the lion's share of the Pacific Coast league playoff pot. The Angels took the first game, 8 to 3, but lost the seven inning second, 10 to 1, before a crowd of 3,500.

The Rainiers, in winning the play-off series, four games to two, will receive $5,000, with $2,500 going to Los Angeles.

GOPHERS NEED PASS TOSSER TO ROUND ATTACK

Garnaas Missed in Loss to Seahawks.

Saturday's Games

Purdue at Northwestern.
Missouri at Wisconsin.
Camp Grant at Iowa.
Minnesota at Illinois.
Indiana at Nebraska.
So. California at Ohio State.
Iowa Preflight at Michigan.
Stanford at Notre Dame.
Great Lakes vs. Pittsburgh in Cleveland.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

There are two factors to be considered in review of the Iowa Seahawks' 7 to 6 victory over the University of Minnesota football team Saturday afternoon. Each has a bearing on Minnesota's defense of its Western conference championship, which will begin this week at Illinois.

The Gophers played Saturday without Bill Garnaas, veteran quarter back. Bob Sandberg, who substituted for Garnaas, performed competently, handled the ball accurately on the laterals, but like any substitute in a key position, his choice of plays probably will be a subject for discussion this week.

Garnaas Excellent Forward Passer.

When Garnaas returns to action—he may play against Nebraska a week from Saturday—the Gophers will be at full strength barring subsequent injuries. Garnaas also is reputed to be one of the best forward passers on the Gopher squad. Minnesota's need to complete a rounded attack is just that.

This is the second topic for consideration. Saturday's weather was not forward passing weather. A slight drizzle made the gridiron slick, and while the football was changed repeatedly, no passer had complete control: Bill Daley, the Gophers' great running back, completed two short passes Saturday, but he didn't come close on his long throws.

Herman Frickey completed a 31 yard pass to Cliff Anderson in the second period. In brief, unless Garnaas can fill this requirement Minnesota will not have a passing attack as effective as last season when Bruce Smith was the passer. In the conference title games with Michigan and Northwestern, Minnesota will find that these rivals will concentrate on defense against the ground attack by Daley and Vic Kulbitski, Minnesota's full back.

Loss May Prove a Help.

The missed kick for the extra point in this particular game merely provided a technical winner. For Minnesota's title defense it may be just as well that the squad no longer can think of the run of consecutive victories. In the mechanics of football the Gophers were a better offensive team Saturday than the Seahawks. Daley was the reason.

The Big Nine has more than its share of great running half backs, but Daley's performances Saturday set a high standard. He ran 55 yards for Minnesota's touchdown, and his run with 60 seconds to play, which measured 50 yards from the scrimmage line, was at least 80 yards as it was executed. From the time Daley pulled free from four tacklers as he vainly sought a pass receiver, until he was blocked out of bounds by Mal Kutner on the Seahawks' 1 yard line. Daley's twisting course was of the pattern one mentally associates with such football greats as Red Grange, Paddy Driscoll, and Jim Thorpe.

Minnesota then was denied the winning touchdown when Kulbitski fumbled on the first play as he plunged at center. Second guessers will decide that Sandberg should not have called the plunge. This is the logical play, of course, on first down, and while Kulbitski fumbled, it was not his error that permitted John Haman, former Northwestern center, to crash thru the Gopher line. The blame for the fumble actually should be traced to the mistake in blocking.

Great Lakes Improving.

Football prospects have been changed in the central states in two particulars by Saturday's games. Great Lakes apparently is improving, as the sailors' victory over Iowa indicates. The Hawkeyes, by previous conquest of Nebraska, were considered a formidable opponent as long as the first eleven was on the field.

Notre Dame, by losing to Georgia Tech, now faces a tremendous task in rallying its forces. This is the critical week, for the Irish must redeem tarnished prestige against Stanford.

$350 RAISED FOR RED CROSS BY NET EXHIBITION

Approximately 400 persons attended a tennis exhibition that contributed the entire receipts of about $350 to the Red Cross yesterday at the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

In the exhibitions Miss Mary Hardwick defeated Mrs. Dorothy Round Little, 9-7; Jimmy Evert beat Seymour Greenberg, 6-3, and the mixed doubles ended in a set apiece. Miss Hardwick and George O'Connell won the first set, 6-4, and Bobby Riggs and Mrs. Little took the second, 6-2.

CARDS CERTAIN THEY'LL FINISH SERIES TODAY

St. Louisans Sing in Their Dressing Room.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—Singing the haunting hill-billy tune, "Willie, My Toes Is Cold," the triumphant St. Louis Cardinals, certain victory is only 24 hours away, soothed themselves into complete relaxation with song in their dressing room after blasting the New York Yankees for their third successive victory today.

Manager Billy Southworth listened and smiled. Then he pulled off his sweaty shirt, lit a cigaret and began talking. Nobody had to urge him by plying him with questions. He said he was ready to shoulder blame for the disastrous showing of his ace right hander, Morton Cooper, who was batted out in the sixth by Charley Keller's three run homer.

Cooper Needed More Rest.

"I had figured that Cooper would be the real Cooper today, but he wasn't right. He should have been given another day of rest. But he pleaded to let him pitch, so I gave in," Southworth said.

Southworth, while hopeful tomorrow's game would end the series, still refused to make any predictions as regards the final outcome.

The cleats on the Cardinals' shoes clattered noiser than ever on the concrete floor as they went from one to another to extend congratulations. They figure it will be all over tomorrow.

Johnny Beazley, who will pitch tomorrow, was immensely pleased with the assignment and will go into it with confidence.

Yankees Still Determined.

In the Yankee dressing room, the air of disappointment which filled the place after yesterday's loss was strangely absent, and a sign on the bulletin board spoke louder than words of the New Yorkers' renewed determination. It read: "Train for St. Louis leaves at 8 o'clock Monday."

Roy Cullenbine was the first to break the silence after the players slumped to their chairs. He seemed to be speaking what was in the mind of every one of them when he said: "Well, we've got our work cut out for us."

In his office, Manager Joe McCarthy forced a smile as he was confronted by newspaper men, something that appeared impossible for him after yesterday's game.

Ruffing to Pitch Today.

"Well, fellows," said the Yankee skipper, almost nonchalantly, "Ruffing is the pitcher tomorrow. That's all I've got to say. We play at 1:30."

He declined to make excuses for Hank Borowy, his starting pitcher, who was routed in the Cardinals' big fourth inning, or for the ill-fated throw to second base by Catcher Bill Dickey which put the winning runs in scoring position. Dickey himself explained why he threw to second base on Enos Slaughter's attempted steal on a 3 and 2 pitch to Stan Musial.

"The pitch was close enough to be called a strike," he said, "and the umpire's call was a little late. I was set to throw and when he called it a ball I couldn't hold it back."

The veteran catcher didn't say so, but that probably explains why the throw was wild, enabling runners to go to second and third.

Borowy Says He Was Pressing.

Borowy admitted that he was pressing too hard. "I didn't seem to have my stuff," he declared. "Maybe it was the importance of my first world series game that made me press."

Charley Ruffing, who pitched the Yankees to victory in the opening game, was confident he could keep the American leaguers' hopes alive tomorrow. "You never hear me say no," he said as he winked. "I'll get 'em tomorrow."

At one point, the door opened slowly and a familiar individual appeared only long enough to shout: "Keep your chins up, boys! We'll get 'em yet." It was Babe Ruth.

Play by Play of 4th World Series Game

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—The play by play account of the fourth world series game today follows:

FIRST INNING.

ST. LOUIS—With the count one and one, Brown rolled to Rizzuto and was thrown out. T. Moore doubled to left center, DiMaggio reaching out to make a barehanded stop to keep the ball from getting past him and Keller. Slaughter bounced to Borowy and was thrown out, T. Moore holding second. DiMaggio made a running catch of Musial's fly in short center. No runs, one hit.

NEW YORK—Brown took Rizzuto's hot roller and threw him out. Rolfe blooped a short fly near the left field foul line for a double. Cullenbine singled to center, scoring Rolfe. DiMaggio flied to T. Moore, who made a running catch in short center. Musial took Keller's fly. One run, two hits.

SECOND INNING.

ST. LOUIS—W. Cooper flied to DiMaggio. DiMaggio went into left center to take Hopp's fly. Kurowski flied to Keller. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Gordon popped to Marion. Dickey flied to Musial. Priddy flied to T. Moore. No runs, no hits.

THIRD INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Marion was called out on strikes. Rolfe threw out M. Cooper. Brown hit a slow grounder to Rolfe and beat the throw for a single. T. Moore walked. Slaughter raised an easy fly to Keller in left field. No runs, one hit.

NEW YORK—Borowy was called out on strikes. Rizzuto tried to bunt down the first base line and was safe with a single when M. Cooper, Hopp, and Brown all ran in to make the fielding play, leaving no one to cover the bag. On the next pitch Rolfe bunted down the third base line and beat Kurowski's throw to Hopp for another hit, Rizzuto stopping at second. Marion reached his long left arm out for a gloved-hand catch of Cullenbine's liner and threw to Brown in time to double Rizzuto off second in a spectacular double play. No runs, two hits.

FOURTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Musial bunted and beat Borowy's throw to Priddy for a single and the Yankees collected around Umpire Magerkurth at first base to make an angry protest. Walker Cooper shot a single between Borowy's legs and into center field, Musial sliding safely into third base, W. Cooper going to second on the play at third. Hopp walked to load the bases. Kurowski drove a hard grounder single thru Rolfe and into left field, scoring Musial and W. Cooper, and sending Hopp to third with a headlong slide. Borowy, mopping his brow and under obvious pressure, walked Marion on four pitches, again loading the bases. M. Cooper reached for an outside pitch and looped it into right field for a single, scoring Hopp and Kurowski and sending Marion to third. Atley Donald, a right hander, replaced Borowy on the mound for the Yankees. Brown flied to DiMaggio in short center and the runners held their positions. On the first pitch, T. Moore lined a single into left field, scoring Marion and sending M. Cooper to second. Slaughter knocked a grounder to Priddy, who threw to Rizzuto in time to force T. Moore at second, Slaughter reaching first safely and M. Cooper going to third. Musial rocketed a ground double that hugged the foul line all the way into right field, scoring M. Cooper and sending Slaughter to third. W. Cooper lined to Gordon to end the inning. Six runs, six hits.

NEW YORK—T. Moore made a sensational catch of a 420 foot fly by DiMaggio on the dead run in left center. Keller struck out. Marion took Gordon's fly. No runs, no hits.

FIFTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—After failing in one attempt to bunt, Hopp popped to Rolfe. Rizzuto threw out Kurowski. Marion flied to Keller. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Dickey hit a lazy fly to Musial. T. Moore took Priddy's fly. Donald was thrown out by Marion. No runs, no hits.

SIXTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—M. Cooper fanned. Rolfe threw out Brown. T. Moore drove a long fly into left which Keller took with a gloved-hand catch after turning his back to the ball and running almost to the low wall in front of the left field stands, about 390 feet from the plate. No runs, no hits.

NEW YORK—Rizzuto lined a single into left field. Rolfe walked, sending the Cardinal bull pen into action. Cullenbine lined a single over second base, scoring Rizzuto and moving Rolfe to second. DiMaggio popped high to Marion between second and third. Keller looked at one low ball and then blasted a tremendous arching home run that fell deep in the lower right field stands, some 400 feet from the plate, scoring Rolfe and Cullenbine ahead of him. Harry Gumbert, a right hander, was called in to replace Cooper. Kurowski stopped Gordon's grounder, but made a wild throw to first, and Gordon was safe. Brown ran far to his left to make a gloved-hand stop on Dickey's grounder, pivoted and threw to Hopp in time for the out, Gordon stopping at second. Priddy doubled in the right field corner, scoring Gordon with the tying run. Howard Pollet, a southpaw, replaced Gumbert on the mound for the Cardinals. Donald grounded to Brown and was thrown out. Five runs, four hits, one error.

SEVENTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Slaughter walked. Musial also waited out a walk and on the fourth ball Dickey made an unnecessary throw to second, the ball going into center field for an error, letting Slaughter reach third. W. Cooper followed with a single into center field, scoring Slaughter, Musial stopping at second. Ernie Bonham, a big right hander, who was beaten in the second game of the series in St. Louis, came to the mound to replace Donald. Hopp sacrificed, Priddy taking his bunt on the base path and tagging him out, unassisted. Kurowski was passed purposely to load the bases. After fouling off the first four pitches, Marion flied to DiMaggio in deep center and after the catch Musial scored and W. Cooper and Kurowski each advanced. Ray Sanders batted for Pollet and popped to Rolfe. Two runs, one hit, one error.

NEW YORK—Max Lanier, a left hander, who worked in relief in the first game of the series, went to the mound for the Cardinals. Rizzuto lined a single into left field for his third hit of the game. Brown took Rolfe's hot roller and threw to Marion, forcing Rizzuto at second, but Marion's relay to Hopp was too slow to catch Rolfe at first. Cullenbine, now batting right handed, flied to T. Moore in center. Marion ran in to take DiMaggio's grounder and threw him out. No runs, one hit.

EIGHTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Brown singled to center. T. Moore sacrificed, Bonham fumbling his bunt but recovering in time to throw to Gordon, who covered first. Slaughter popped to Rizzuto. Musial was passed purposely. W. Cooper grounded to Gordon, who threw to Rizzuto for a force play on Musial at second. No runs, one hit.

NEW YORK—T. Moore ran over into right center to take a 400 foot fly by Keller as the crowd cheered. Gordon flied to Marion in short left. Kurowski ran into the pitcher's mound to take a high pop by Dickey and fell down after making the catch but retained the ball in his upraised hand. No runs, no hits.

NINTH INNING.

ST. LOUIS—Hopp singled to center on the first pitch. Kurowski sacrificed, Priddy to Gordon, who covered first. Marion bounced to Bonham and was an easy out, Hopp going to third. Lanier singled to right, scoring Hopp. Brown grounded to Gordon, who threw to Rizzuto, forcing Lanier at second. One run, two hits.

NEW YORK—Marion threw out Priddy. Rosar batted for Bonham and singled to left. Rizzuto flied to Slaughter. Brown threw out Rolfe. No runs, one hit.

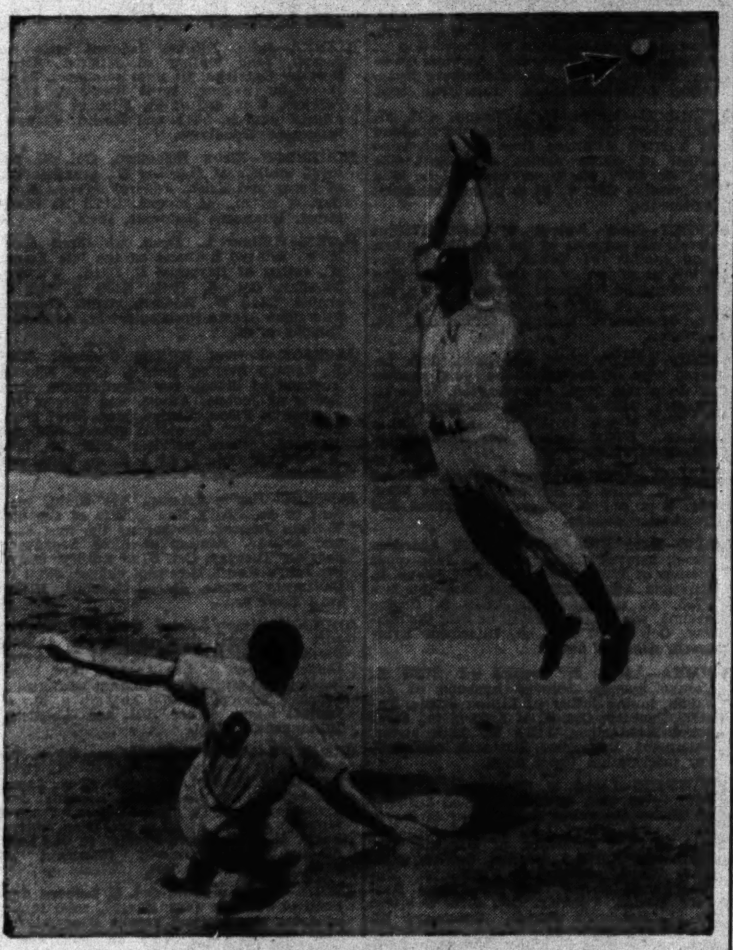
Rizzuto Needs a Ladder!



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Enos Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, slides into second base in seventh inning of fourth world series battle with Yankees as Phil Rizzuto goes up for ball he can't get. The throw was made by Catcher Bill Dickey trying to catch Slaughter stealing. The Cardinals won, 9 to 6, to lead series, three games to one.

Liner Becomes a Double Play; Break of Game

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—The break of this afternoon's world series game easily was Roy Cullenbine's hot double play liner to Martin Marion with two on and Morton Cooper in trouble in the third inning. Five feet either way, and the Yanks would have gone to town.

The long and the short of this series showed up at home plate in the first inning, when Phil Rizzuto, who just about has to reach up to touch bottom, came to bat and ranged up alongside Walker Cooper, the Cards' catcher who has to duck thru doorways.

When Stan Musial doubled for his second hit in the fourth inning, Corp. Billy Conn stood up in his box and remarked, "Well, so long fellows; this is where I came in."

Terry Moore ran a country mile to catch Joe DiMaggio's 420 foot fly in the fourth. Too bad the AAU wasn't in on this, because he must have busted Gunder Haegg's record by 10 seconds.

Time Marches On dept.: When Rizzuto singled to lead off the sixth, the stands started to whoop it up. In the old Yankee days, a single wouldn't even wake the customers up. Anything less than a homer was considered kid stuff.

Joe Gordon and Johnny Hopp collided when Joe beat out his hit in the sixth. The Flash threw such a body block at the Card first sacker that George Halas immediately sent him a Chicago Bears contract.

The last Yankee run was unearned. That makes five unearned for the Yanks this series and one unearned for the Cards.

HOOD TO MEET MAXIN TONIGHT AT MARIGOLD

Hubert Hood, this year's Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, will attempt a herculean task when he makes his professional debut in an eight round windup bout against Joe Maxin of Cleveland in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

An eight round secondary feature will bring together Jimmy Joyce, Gary lightweight, and Alvin Gomez. Tommy Lemmon, Milwaukee welterweight, who reached the semi-finals in the 1942 Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, will make his professional bow in a four round preliminary contest against Isadore Miner. Other four rounders will involve Al Reasoner, Hines, Ill., junior welterweight, and Bill Jordan, and Jimmy Varketta, Cleveland 144 pounder, and Jerry Pittro.

Promoter Fred Kohler will open the 1942-'43 indoor wrestling season by offering Walter Palmer, Chicago heavyweight, and Ole Olson of Milwaukee as the principals in his windup bout in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening.

CARDINALS BEAT YANKS, 9-6; NEED 1 MORE FOR TITLE

Cooper, Johnny Hopp, Whitey Kurowski, Martin Marion, and Mort Cooper functioned at Borowy's expense, all getting on base and all eventually scoring. Atley Donald succeeded Borowy and was slapped for a single by Terry Moore and a double by Musial, but none of the men he put on got home.

Off Cooper's National league record of 22 victories, including 10 shutouts, a 6 to 1 lead obtained in such brutish fashion seemed very rich. But, alas, the Yankees tied the score in the sixth after Keller's second wasted three run homer of the series had knocked out Cooper and brought on Harry Gumbert. The fifth and tying run was an unearned marker on Kurowski's low throw on Joe Gordon's grounder and Jerry Priddy's double. Howie Pollet had to go in to retire the side.

Perhaps you'd like to read the step by step account for the two big innings that resulted in the 6 to 6 tie, before we tell you about the way the Yanks, for the second time, blew after effecting a tie.

Musial Starts Fireworks.

Here is the detail of the Cards' tremendous inning: Musial led off with a safe bunt and went to third like a flash on Walker Cooper's single to center, W. Cooper reaching second on DiMaggio's throw to third. Hopp walked, loading the bases. Kurowski then shot a low single between third and short, Musial and W. Cooper scoring, and Hopp, to the astonishment of the Yankees, especially Keller, dived safely into third to easily beat Keller's throw. Borowy nervously walked Marion and again the bases were loaded.

Mort Cooper singled to right, Hopp and Kurowski scoring and Marion reaching third. Donald replaced Borowy and Brown supplied the first out with a fly to DiMaggio in short center. Moore singled to left, Marion scoring and Mort Cooper stopping at second. Slaughter forced Moore, Priddy to Rizzuto, Mort Cooper stopping at third. Musial then made his second hit of the inning, a double along the right foul line which scored Mort Cooper with the sixth run of the inning. Walker Cooper lined to Gordon to end the inning.

Rizzuto Opens with Single.

Rizzuto pushed off with a single to left and Rolfe drew Mort Cooper's only pass. Cullenbine singled to center, scoring Rizzuto. DiMaggio popped to Marion and then Keller jolted Cooper with a drive far into the right field lower deck. The homer sent Rolfe and Cullenbine home ahead of Keller, whereupon Gumbert replaced the utterly chagrined Cooper. Gordon grounded to Kurowski, who made a bad throw to first which caused Gordon and Hopp to sprawl in a tangle near the bag. Gordon got to second on Dickey's out and scored on Priddy's double to right. Pollet replaced Gumbert and Donald bounced to Brown.

And now for the final tipoff on the extent to which the Yanks have the jitters: With the score 6 to 6 going into the seventh, Donald walked Slaughter. Donald walked Musial also and on the fourth wide one Bill Dickey, of all persons, had a brainstorm which caused him to throw the ball into center field, Slaughter reaching third. Walker Cooper singled, scoring Slaughter, after which Ernie Bonham made his second appearance in the series, replacing Donald. Hopp sacrificed and Kurowski was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Marion then scored Musial with a fly to DiMaggio.

Max Lanier, who had indicated some disappointment because he was not given the starting assignment today, held the Yanks in check in the last three innings, thus becoming the winning pitcher. He also singled to drive in Hopp in the ninth inning..

Matt Niesen Wins Class A Title at Tam o' Shanter

Matt Niesen defeated W. C. Green, 12 up, in the final round of the class A club golf championship tournament at Tam o' Shanter Country club yesterday. E. G. Hays took the class C title, scoring a 1 up triumph over A. A. Strudeman.

Cubs Beat Sox, 5-3, for First in City Series

scored on a single to center by Bob Sturgeon.

Sox Get Into Spirit of It.

The Sox got into the spirit of the thing after Hoag and Lodigiani had been tossed out in the fifth. Bob Kennedy slammed such a wicked drive back at Bithorn that the impact knocked the Puerto Rican onto the seat of his pants, the ball escaping for a single. Kennedy worked his way around to the plate on singles by Mike Tresh and Lee. The Cubs retrieved this run in the seventh on singles by Sturgeon and Bithorn and Lee's second wild pitch.

McCullough's third hit and Nicholson's first of the afternoon built the foundation for the Cubs' fifth run. McCullough went to third on Nicholson's contribution and home on Dallessandro's fly to Hoag.

Sox Make Things Interesting.

The Sox made the eighth interesting for Bithorn on a double by Tresh and a single by Kolloway, but in endeavoring to score, Tresh was out at the plate on Novikoff's throw. Then Luke Appling walked with one out in the ninth and Hoag singled. Lodigiani doubled to left center to score Appling and Kennedy's fly sent in Hoag with the final run.

Ted Lyons, who threw a three hit shutout at the Cubs in the series opener, will be back on the job tonight for the Sox. Claude Passeau, who lost Friday night's third game, will be Lyons' opponent.

The Cubs' infield will begin to disappear today. The grounds crew will do a bit of scraping on the skinned portion, and then lay a blanket of turf for football cleats to tread.

Cardinals Now 3½ to 1 Choice to Capture Series

New York, Oct. 4 [Special].—The St. Louis Cardinals now are 3½ to 1 favorites to win the world series, but the Yanks are the 2 to 1 choice for the fifth game tomorrow. The bookies are asking that you lay $2 to win $1 on the Yanks for the fifth battle. If you like the Cards, they'll offer you a $8.50 profit for a $5 wager. You must lay $3.50 to win $1 if you want to bet the Cards will win the championship. They'll offer you a net $3 for a $1 wager, if you believe the Yanks still can keep their world title.

CARDS CAN NOW ALMOST TOUCH $6,192.50 CHECKS

They'll Get Them if They Win World Series.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP).—If the St. Louis Cardinals win the 1942 world series each player's share will be $6,192.50, the biggest payday in history for a series in which the players did not share in the broadcasting rights. If the Yankees should come on to win out in the next three games, each player will get $5,125.42.

The players' pool—taken from the receipts of the first four games totals $427,579.41 this year. Of this, the two series teams get 70 per cent, or $299,304.59. Under baseball rules of a 60-40 breakdown the series clubs' pool, the winning team this year will split $179,582.75 and the loser $119,721.84.

The Cards have voted to divide their end of the purse into 28 full shares and five one-fifth shares, which would make each full share $6,192.50.

The largest series paychecks to individual players in the past were for the $6,471.10 each Yankee got from the 1937 series and the $6,544.76 each member of the Detroit Tigers collected for whipping the Chicago Cubs in 1935. However, in each of those cases, the players' pool included the money paid for broadcasting rights for the first four games. This year's complete radio money has been contributed to the United Service Organizations.

GOPHER PICTURES AT WAILING WALL LUNCHEON TODAY

The motion pictures of the Iowa Seahawks' 7 to 6 victory over the University of Minnesota will be shown at the Wailing Wall luncheon at noon today in the Bal Tabarin of the Sherman hotel.

James [Jim] Kelly, Gopher track coach who handles the football reserves, will give a running description of the pictures. Before the pictures are shown Kelly will give a short blackboard talk analysing the basic Minnesota formations.

The victory by the Naval Preflight team marked both the extension and the finish of one of the great winning streaks in college football. For Minnesota it meant the end of a winning record which had reached 18 games. For Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, Seahawk coach, it meant 20 victories in a row as a coach. Seventeen of the Gopher triumphs came while Bierman was the Minnesota coach. Bierman's present team of naval aviation trainees has won its first three starts.

OPA TO FREEZE ALL RENTS AT MARCH 1 LEVEL

Orders to Curb Evictions Also Drawn Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced tonight that nation-wide rent control will be instituted tomorrow, with rents not previously under regulation stabilized at the level of March 1, 1942.

Simultaneously, Henderson disclosed that he has issued orders to amend existing regulations in order to protect tenants from eviction resulting from the sales of rental properties.

The new announcement from the price administrator was part of the fast moving week-end developments to curb inflation, including the issuance yesterday of a Presidential order for stabilization of wages, salaries, profits, and food prices and the appointment of James F. Byrnes as "director of economic stabilization," Byrnes resigning from the bench of the United States Supreme court to accept the post.

Covers the Entire U. S.

Under the order to be signed tomorrow, Henderson said, rent control will be extended over all areas of the continental United States which have not been heretofore designated as defense rental areas. So far, Henderson had specified 396 such rental areas, including all industrial and military centers with a total population of about 90 million persons. Tomorrow's order will bring in the remainder of the country, including rental dwelling units in rural areas.

"This means that rents should be held to levels existing March 1, 1942," said Henderson. "Any landlord anywhere who has raised rent since March 1 should, as a patriotic citizen, make reductions to the previous levels.

"The OPA will establish machinery for enforcement and administration of this national extension of rent regulation as rapidly as administratively feasible. Compliance with these orders will mean that the cost of housing to American families—the most important single item in their budget—will be kept stable thruout the war.

Stabilization Sought.

"The problem of inflation is nation-wide and effective prevention requires nation-wide action affecting all elements of the national economy. The President has repeatedly emphasized the extensive nature of the problem and has stated that all threatened rent increases thruout the country must be prevented as part of an effective solution. The purpose of tomorrow's order is to stabilize rents in the United States and prompt compliance with these recommendations by landlords thruout the country will carry out the President's directive.

"Thousands of landlords in areas previously placed under rent control have already made a substantial contribution. It is now the patriotic duty of landlords in all other areas likewise to stabilize rents as a part of their participation in the total war effort."

Curb on Evictions.

Concerning the steps to prevent evictions, Henderson said:

"In areas in which rent control is now being administered there is a growing practice of owners forcing tennants to purchase the premises in many cases at exorbitant prices. This practice is in many areas a device to avoid the effect of rent control and to collect from the existing tennant or a new occupant monthly instalments in excess of maximum rents. This practice must cease.

"I have today instructed the rent division to amend its present regulations to give tenants security or tenure for the duration," he continued. "Such amendment would make provision for bona fide sales where no change in occupancy results and the area directors would have authority to make certain exceptions where hardships would result to the owner if he were unable to obtain possession. Generally it will be the objective to prevent owners from dumping rental property on the market merely to avoid the requirements of rent control."

SOUND OF HORN DISTURBS POLICE BUT NOT SLEEPER

The continuous blowing of an automobile horn attracted Policemen William Reilly and Arthur Hoff to a parking lot at 63d street and Wentworth avenue early yesterday morning. One car stood in the lot, and in it slept Rodney McManus, in evening clothes and undisturbed by the horn.

McManus, who is 24 years old, tried to explain, but he couldn't be heard above the horn. The police shut it off and learned that McManus was on his way home from a wedding at which he had been an usher. He couldn't imagine how he got into the car, which wasn't his, or why its horn was blowing.

But the police, noting that the windows had been broken, took McManus into custody. He said that he is a bachelor, a steel worker living at 6231 Woodlawn avenue, and complained that the wedding reception had been entirely too dry. Since that didn't account for his headache or his presence in a car belonging to somebody else, police said they would question him further.

FIND MUCH OF SCRAP FOUND BY CHILDREN NOT TYPE FOR STEEL

Much of the scrap being collected by Chicago's school children is unsuitable for salvage, William Pohn, president of the Chicago chapter of the Iron and Scrap institute, said yesterday.

Pohn urged children not to throw curtain rods or hangers, tin cans, pie plates, bottle caps, or granite or enameled kitchenware on their school scrap piles. This type of scrap, he declared, does not lend itself to proper re-smelting, and results in inferior steel.

While all scrap is subjected to inspection before it is dumped into the re-melting furnaces, a percentage of the undesirable materials may escape detection, he said.

William L. McFetridge, OCD salvage director for the Chicago area, said he is receiving a growing number of complaints by block salvage captains that children take pieces of scrap out of the blocks' piles to throw on the school scrap heaps.

TODAY'S APPEAL: BUY TAG TO AID 50,000 CHILDREN!

A goal of $85,000 to help care for more than 50,000 dependent children in the Chicago area has been set by the Chicago Children's Benefit league for its 35th annual tag day today. More than 10,000 taggers, manning 6,250 collection boxes, will work from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m. selling the red, white and blue star shaped tags with a picture of a child in the center.

Last year $59,000 was raised in the drive to help maintain the 50 Chicago child welfare agencies which comprise the Chicago Children's Benefit league. They include child-placing agencies, children's hospitals, neighborhood centers, day nurseries, and special homes and schools for handicapped children.

"Money is needed this year more than ever to help maintain the work of our member agencies," Mrs. Walter C. Gielow, 711 Lincoln street, Evanston, president of the league, said yesterday. "The work of our nurseries, in particular, has become increasingly important as more and more mothers are employed in war industries."

TRIBUNE PHOTOS LOCATE CHICAGO SOLDIERS FOR KIN

Relatives of two Chicago soldiers far away in the southwest Pacific acknowledged indebtedness yesterday to pictures in THE TRIBUNE for information as to where the soldiers are stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore J. Hartman, 913 Wrightwood avenue, recognized their son, Corp. Thomas P. Hartman, among a group pictured in New Caledonia. The picture was printed in the rotogravure section Sept. 27.

Mrs. J. Trevor, 6058 South Fairfield avenue, recognized her brother, Pvt. Edward M. Gilmartin, in a picture from New Guinea also printed in the rotogravure section of Sept. 27. She last heard from him in July.

REV. C. R. OATEN, CHURCH PENSION TREASURER, DIES

The Rev. Charles R. Oaten, 72 years old, treasurer of the general board of pensions of the Methodist church who served 44 years as a minister, died yesterday in his home, 2661 Asbury avenue, Evanston. He was a native of London, England. His widow, two daughters, and a sister, survive. Services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday in the First Methodist church, Evanston. Burial will be in Memorial cemetery.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SENT TO POLICE BY CONSCIENCE

Went Back, Then Fled, Says Bartender.

A conscience-stricken hit and run driver whose automobile killed a pedestrian Friday, yesterday surrendered to Chicago Lawn police. The driver is Vincent Lannen, 35 years old, of 3036 West 55th street, a bartender.

The victim of Lannen's car was William Kieltyka, 59, of 5602 South Tripp avenue, died on the way to County hospital after being struck at 55th street and Kildare avenue. Lannen, who was held pending a coroner's inquest this morning, told police that he had stopped his car and gone back to see the injured man, but had become panicky and had fled.

Injuries Are Fatal.

Mrs. Clara Aubert, 66, of 2835 Walnut street, died of injuries suffered Saturday when she was struck by an automobile driven by Martin Budnick, 2854 Madison street, at Warren and Francisco avenues. Budnick was charged with reckless driving.

Thomas A. Paul, 18, of 4445 South Fairfield avenue, and his companion, Miss Bernice Novak, 16, of 4446 South Fairfield avenue, were killed when a fast Grand Trunk Western train struck their car at 71st street and Central Park avenue. The car was carried two blocks.

Struck by Cab.

Mrs. Irene Bevans, 55, of 4510 Emerald avenue, was killed when she was struck at Halsted and 45th streets by a taxicab driven by Harry Deban, 3109 Sunnyside avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 537 persons had lost their lives in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 412 died in Chicago, where 15,397 were injured.

5 ARMY FLYERS BAIL OUT, 2 DIE IN BOMBER CRASH

Wayne, Neb., Oct. 4 (AP).—Two men were killed this morning when an army bomber made a forced landing 2½ miles east of Wayne.

Five men escaped by bailing out of the bomber and two others were slightly injured. The pilot said the bomber's motor stalled, causing the forced landing. The retractable landing gear failed to work. The plane landed on its tail, then bounced over on its nose. The navigator and radioman died in the crash.

Names of the crew were not available.

Probe Akron Crash.

Akron, O., Oct. 4 (AP).—Two army air force boards today began an investigation into the crash of a medium bomber which killed all seven crew members near the Akron airport. One of the plane's motors failed immediately after a takeoff last night, and the ship burst into flames as it plummeted to the ground on its back, guards at the Goodyear Aircraft corporation reported.

Two Killed in Georgia.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 4 (AP).—Second Lieut. Richard Paul Hoffman, 21 years old, pilot, and Pvt. James V. Howling, 23, were killed in the crash of their plane today on a take off from McKinnon field at St. Simon's Island, the Savannah army air base announced. Both were stationed at Hunter field.

COMMUNITY FUND SOLICITOR DRIVE WILL OPEN TODAY

Active solicitation for the 12th annual Chicago Community Fund drive will begin today, Charles Y. Freeman, general chairman, announced yesterday. More than 50,000 volunteer workers will assist in the drive to raise $3,750,000 to help maintain 185 private welfare agencies. Precampaign solicitation by the sponsors' division, headed by Bryan S. Reid, already has brought in $551,346.

OBITUARIES

Joseph Varallo.

Services for Joseph Varallo, an old time music master, who died Friday in his home at 1040 Diversey parkway, will be held from the chapel at 935 Diversey at 9 a. m. tomorrow to St. Sebastian church. Mr. Varallo, a native of Italy, had lived in Chicago 66 years, and for half a century had been a violinist and music teacher. He was 72. He and his brothers, Frank and Nicholas, formed a string trio many years ago. Mr. Varallo also played with the old Chicago Opera orchestra. He leaves three sons and a daughter, and his brothers.

Mrs. Anna M. Woller.

Services for Mrs. Anna M. Woller, 84 years old, who died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amy McClelland, in Santa Monica, Cal., will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in Memorial Park cemetery chapel. Mrs. Woller went to California after the death of her husband, Charles C., four months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Woller had lived on Chicago's north side since their marriage 55 years ago last November. Mrs. McClelland and another daughter, Mrs. Dora Dean, 1628 Greenleaf avenue, survive.

Eugene Callahan.

Eugene Callahan, 43 years old, a Chicago park district policeman stationed at the south side headquarters, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital. His home was at 309 East 76th street. He is survived by his widow, Mary. Services will be held at 8:45 a. m. Wednesday at St. Dorothy's church.

Fred L. McCausland.

Fred L. McCausland, 54 years old, an executive of the United Shoe Machinery company for 30 years, died yesterday at his home at 227 North Marion street, Oak Park, after a year's illness. Services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 124 Madison street, Oak Park.

George L. Schein.

Services for George L. Schein, Chicago and New York attorney who died in New York Oct. 2, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Rosehill cemetery chapel. Mr. Schein was senior partner of the law firm of Schein and Beckwith. He is survived by a son and three daughters.

Mrs. Sarah Delaney.

Mrs. Sarah Delaney, 52 years old, mother-in-law of Raymond Meyer, an athletic coach at De Paul university, died yesterday in her home at 925 South Austin boulevard. She leaves her husband, Thomas, and two daughters.

NEW LABOR BODY ADOPTS BY-LAWS, ELECTS OFFICERS

Preliminary organizations of the Confederated Unions of America [independent], a new national labor federation, was completed yesterday with the adoption of a constitution and election of officers at the close of a three day meeting of representatives of independent unions at the Hotel Sherman.

Donald F. Cameron of Milwaukee, a member of the Associated Unions of America, who was elected secretary-treasurer of the new organization, said initial steps had been taken to enroll approximately 40 organizations with a combined membership of more than 300,000 workers.

Matthew Smith of Detroit, secretary of the Mechanics Education Association of America, was named president of the CUA. Other officers included A. E. Baker of St. Louis, president of the United Brotherhood of Welders, Cutters, and Helpers, first vice president; Earnest Weaver of Chicago, head of the Communication Equipment Workers union, second vice president, and A. L. Pruett of Houston, Tex., president of Independent Metal Workers union, local No. 1, third vice president.

UNITY, SUPPORT OF U. S. URGED AT RALLY OF SLAVS

An appeal for unity among the Slavic races from Nazi dominated nations, as well as for whole hearted support of the American government by those groups, was made last night by Sava Kosanovich, minister of the exiled government of Jugo-Slavia, at a rally at the Serbian Church hall, sponsored by the Friends of the Jugo-Slav Chetnik.

The Chetnik is the group of Jugo-Slavs who have continued to wage guerrilla warfare against Nazi invaders. Proceeds of last night's rally will be sent to representatives of the Jugo-Slav government in London.

Others who spoke at the rally were Grga Andjelinovich, former Jugo-Slav minister, and Prof. John Zvetina, professor of administrative law at Loyola university.

NEW CONTROLS MAY CHECK, NOT HALT INFLATION

Loopholes Are Open for Wage Boosts.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

As the country watched yesterday the unfolding of the government's new strategy for combating wartime inflation, recollections were stirred of two earlier inflations that occurred within recent memory. Each of the earlier inflations was marked by the piling up of debt and the distortion of normal price relationships. Each ended with a collapse that ushered in a period of economic depression.

Can the government succeed, by its new control measures, in stopping the present inflation in prices and thereby prevent repetition of the consequences of the earlier inflation movements?

Too Early to Predict.

Few economists are willing to hazard a guess at this stage as to the outcome of the present wartime inflation. Most of them agree, however, that the control measures undertaken up to the present had been inadequate. Furthermore, many of them assert that it is impossible to arrest completely by government action the inflationary forces that have been at work since the start of the war. The most that the government can hope to accomplish is to control these forces, minimizing the economic distortions that exist or threaten.

The new control machinery set up by the President is not intended, the Presidential order made clear, to prevent a further rise in prices or wages. Loopholes are left for the "adjustment" of wage rates and prices when such action is deemed necessary.

Adjustments Are Expected.

Because of the haphazard nature of the price and wage advances that have already occurred, it is generally assumed that the new director of economic stabilization will be called upon by many groups to approve adjustments to correct existing distortions in price relationships.

Suggestive of what may be permitted under the new system of control was the ruling of the War Labor board made Saturday after release of the Presidential order. The board held that the employés of the Chrysler corporation were entitled to a wage increase of 4 cents an hour.

Under the Presidential order, the board is authorized to increase wage rates when necessary to "correct maladjustments or inequalities, to eliminate substandards of living, to correct gross inequities, or to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

May Create New Inequalities.

The correction of one maladjustment, it had been previously explained by observers, may create a new inequality. The raising of substandard wage rates may render other wages substandard. The wide discretion left to the board means in reality that it will continue to function much as it has in the past. The record of the board shows that it has been exceedingly sympathetic to requests for

Slower Train Time Program to Be Fought

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Government proposals that trains be slowed down "to get more transportation out of the railroads" will meet objections from many carriers at a meeting to be held in Chicago today in the office of C. E. Johnston, president of the Western Association of Railway Executives, it was learned yesterday.

Representatives of the Office of Defense Transportation are expected to outline plans for reducing the speed of both passenger and freight trains at the meeting to be held in Johnston's office in the Union Station building.

Many Chicago railroad executives believe that no general order should be issued for slowing down trains because each railroad has its own peculiar operating conditions. On certain roads where there is heavy and congested traffic movements, some benefit may be obtained in the war emergency from slower trains, it was said.

However, on a majority of the western roads—with their long distances—any slowing down would seriously impede the war effort, it was said, by delaying delivery of materials to war plants and of finished war products to the armed forces.

The effect of a general slowdown may be likened to that of a slowly moving automobile running on a busy highway. One slow automobile can disrupt highway traffic that would otherwise be running smoothly and expeditiously, it was said.

WARTIME CURBS HEAVY BLOW TO RESTAURANT MEN

Restaurant men seeking a recipe to solve the problems of gasoline rationing which may force diners-out to dine at home, meatless menus, and the coffee shortage will meet in Chicago today for the first wartime emergency conference of the National Restaurant association. Sessions for the next four days will be held in the Palmer House.

Early arriving visitors said gasoline rationing and general wartime practice of conserving the use of automobiles would deal a heavy blow to country and roadside restaurants. They said this trend would be offset so far as the industry in general is concerned by the mushroom growth of cafeterias at war production plants.

HARLOW AIRCRAFT.

What information do you have on Harlow Aircraft? I have heard the company provides many of the training planes for use in the orient. Is this true?—D. F. B.

Answer: Operations of this company include the design, development, construction, sale, and repair of aircraft. The company does subcontract work for other manufacturers. Engines, instruments, accessories, and various machined parts are purchased from other producers.

One of the models manufactured by the company is a trainer plane. In 1940, an agreement was made whereby the Intercontinent corporation would act as distributor in the orient with exclusive sales rights to the Harlow PC-5 trainer in that part of the world. A later agreement provided for financing of current operation by Intercontinent on a division of profits basis, 40 per cent to Intercontinent and 60 per cent to Harlow Aircraft.

The company was incorporated in California in 1938 to acquire the assets of the Harlow Engineering corporation. Sole capitalization at the end of 1941 was 541,436 shares of $1 par capital stock. The company showed a net loss of $2,289 in the year ended Nov. 30, 1941, compared with a loss of $50,016 in the preceding fiscal year. Profit for the quarter ended Feb. 28, 1942, was $6,601. No dividends have been paid to date.

ASSETS COMPARED.

What are total assets of Ford Motor company and how do they compare with General Motors?—R. E. D.

Answer: Ford Motor company assets at the end of 1941 totaled $718,660,337. General Motors corporation assets on June 30, 1942, were $1,725,160,968.

INT. UTILITIES UNIT.

Is General Water, Gas and Electric controled by another company?—P. E.

Answer: International Utilities corporation owned 75.8 per cent of the outstanding common stock of General Water, Gas and Electric company at the end of 1941.

SHOWS PROFIT.

Did Farnsworth Television and Radio corporation operate profitably last year? How many shares of stock are outstanding and how many stockholders are there?—G. A.

Answer: For the fiscal year ended April 30, 1942, the company had a profit of $642,237. There are 1,400,997 shares of $1 par common outstanding in the hands of about 6,000 stockholders.

FUTURE TRADE'S LIFE DEPENDS ON PRICE RULES

Markets Confused by New Order.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Philip O'Brien [top] and Lloyd S. Tenny.

Whether the futures markets in grain and other commodities will be able to continue to perform their normal functions under the new price freezing program will depend on the use that is made of the President's discretionary power over price floors and ceilings, officials of Chicago's two major futures markets—the Board of Trade and the Mercantile exchange—said last night.

They reported that much confusion exists as to what effects the President's executive order and the emergency 60 day order will have on trading, and that efforts are being made today to get clarifications on doubtful points.

Depends on Parity Action.

Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Board of Trade, said that if the floors on wheat and corn are held at the permissible minimum of 85 per cent of parity, the big grain exchange will have a good chance of continuing to function as a free market during the war emergency.

However, if the floor is raised to 90 per cent, as the regulations permit, it will be practically impossible for the Board of Trade to maintain a liquid market in wheat and corn, O'Brien said, because the margin within which the speculative risk bearers could expect to make profits would be so narrow that trading volume would not be large enough to bring buyers and sellers together freely. Traders would not want to assume speculative risks under such conditions, O'Brien said.

Full Range Is Adequate.

However, the full permissible range—between 85 and 104.6 per cent of parity for corn and wheat if the farm labor costs of 4.6 per cent are included in parity computations as they can be—would be wide enough to induce traders to continue their normal function as risk bearers. In the case of cotton, peanuts, rice, and tobacco, the floor is 90 per cent of parity. The President does not have discretionary power to cut the floor on these crops to 85 per cent, as he does in the case of corn and wheat, as grain men interpreted the regulations.

O'Brien said the trade was not certain about the meaning of section 2 of title IV. of the executive order relating to deduction for soil conserva-

6% Increase in Freight Thru U. S. Predicted

A nation-wide increase of 6 per cent in railroad freight car loadings during the final quarter of this year above actual loadings during the corresponding quarter last year was indicated yesterday by reports of the 13 regional shipper's advisory boards. On the basis of the boards' estimates, freight loadings of the 27 principal commodities will be 8,666,219 cars, against 8,175,458 a year ago.

Increases over last year were predicted by 11 of the boards, and the Ohio valley and New England boards forecast decreases in their territories. Shippers expect an increase in loadings of 20 of the commodities listed, and decreases in seven.

Best Gain in Central West.

The largest estimated increases were by the central western board, forecasting a 19.7 per cent rise, and the southwest board, predicting an increase of 18.7 per cent. Declines forecast by the New England and Ohio valley boards were 12.6 and .3 per cent, respectively.

Among the larger increases expected were cottonseed and products except oil, 30.8 per cent; potatoes, 24.4 per cent; gravel, sand, and stone, 18.8 per cent; citrus fruits, 18.4 per cent; manufactures and miscellaneous, 13.1 per cent; machinery and boilers, 13 per cent; grain, 11.2 per cent, and live stock, 10.4 per cent.

3,000 DRUGGISTS IN CHICAGO FOR 4 DAY MEETING

A four day convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists will open today at the Hotel Sherman. More than 3,000 druggists from 42 states will discuss early closing of drug stores, price ceiling compliance, and the Pharmacy corps bill which would create a Pharmacy corps in the army.

Delegates will be welcomed by Mayor Kelly.

OUTLYING BANK HOLDING OF U. S. BONDS EXPANDS

Reduced Loan Trend Upset by Some.

Outlying Chicago banks shared with the downtown banks in the trend of the last three months toward heavier investment in government bonds, the Sept. 30 statements of conditions disclosed. Some variance was shown, however, from the main tendency toward smaller loans and discounts.

Drovers' National bank expanded holdings of government securities to $16,335,000 on Sept. 30 from $10,453,000 on June 30. Its loans and discounts also were up, to $5,583,000 from $5,092,000.

Lawndale National bank likewise showed larger holdings of federal obligations, $6,138,000, against $5,572,000, but its loans and discounts dipped to $2,479,000 from $2,660,000.

Live Stock National's government bond holdings increased a shade to $6,330,000, compared with $6,241,000. Loans and discounts showed a larger gain to $6,575,000 from $5,742,000.

Mercantile National Reports.

A rise of more than 6 million dollars in government securities, to $16,423,000 from $10,336,000, was reported by Mercantile National Bank of Chicago. Its loans and discounts, however, were down to $4,982,000 from $5,115,000 on June 30.

Mid-City National bank raised its government securities total to $9,288,000 from $6,647,000 three months earlier. Loans and discounts moved down to $3,724,000 from $3,874,000.

The same trends prevailed for Chicago City Bank and Trust company, which had $13,677,000 of federal issues on Sept. 30, compared with $9,635,000 on June 30, and $8,655,000 of loans and discounts, against $8,779,000.

Lake View Holdings Rise.

Lake View Trust and Savings bank held $25,335,000 of government obligations at the latest call, compared with $21,185,000 three months earlier. Loans and discounts were down to $746,000 from $858,000.

Pioneer Trust and Savings bank's government holdings increased nearly 4 million dollars, to $12,323,000 from $8,403,000 on June 30. Loans and discounts were down to $5,705,000 from $6,127,000.

Among the banks showing increases in loans and discounts were the Milwaukee Avenue National, the National Bank of Hyde Park, the Northwest National, the South Shore National, the Aetna State, and the Kaspar American State bank.

Brown Brothers-Harriman Deposits Below June Mark

Deposits of Brown Brothers-Harriman & Co., New York private bankers, on Sept. 30 were $136,102,334, against $139,381,529 on June 30, the firm reported yesterday. However, a gain was shown above deposits of a year ago which totaled $129,302,370.

More Banks Will Remain Open Nights If Service Is Needed

Additional Chicago banks will remain open for business one night each week if requests for such supplementary service to meet the needs of war industry workers indicate a widespread demand remains to be satisfied.

To date, however, bankers have not considered the question other than at informal meetings of those doing business in the same neighborhoods. The outlying banks, a half dozen or more of which already remain open one night a week, are more likely to extend this practice than the big loop institutions, it was said.

Only one of the downtown banks offers service to its customers during other than the customary banking hours. The Industrial National bank last week began a new schedule by remaining open Monday from 5 to 9 p. m., reviving a practice discontinued several years ago when it was organized as the Personal Loan and Savings bank.

Robert B. Umberger, executive vice president of the Industrial National, said the response of customers during the first night of operations indicated the need for night banking facilities was firmly established.

Bankers whose customers have requested them to remain open at night said the pleas were based on the point that employés of war plants and others were unable to get to the bank conveniently during the customary hours, unless the bank happened to be close to home or their places of employment. The requests increased after many of the downtown stores went on a Monday night shopping schedule.

FUTURE TRADE'S LIFE DEPENDS ON PRICE RULE USE

Markets Are Confused by New Order.

tion and domestic allotment payments in adjusting maximum prices. He said the exchange is seeking clarification of the section.

Lloyd S. Tenny, general manager of the Mercantile exchange, said that unless the board of governors orders otherwise, the exchange will open as usual this morning and that any trading that appears will be accepted within the price limits set in Henderson's emergency order. The order establishes a 60 day emergency price ceiling on eggs, chickens, butter, cheese, potatoes, and flour, the ceiling being the highest price charged by an individual dealer between Sept. 28 and Oct. 2.

Position of Exchange.

The order did not mention futures market prices, but Tenny said the Mercantile exchange would operate on the theory that futures prices would be governed by the same rule.

"There is uncertainty among traders as to how the order falls within the provisions of the law relating to parity prices," Tenny said. "It does not appear that in the 60 day emergency period parity will have anything to do with prices if they are tied to the peak price for the five day period beginning Sept. 28.

In the case of butter and most other commodities traded on the Mercantile exchange—these are, besides butter, eggs, frozen eggs, potatoes, and onions—the prices in the five day period beginning Sept. 28 are at or near the peak prices so far this year. Up to now there have not been any ceilings on these products.

The exchange's board of governors is expected to meet this morning to consider problems raised by the new order. On Saturday, when grain and commodity men had their first opportunity to indicate their reaction to the new controls, bearishness developed on both the Board of Trade and the Mercantile exchange.

No Ceilings Expected Soon.

Packers and live stock men said that as far as they knew there will not be any ceiling on prices of live animals at the stockyards today or until some special notice is issued by the government. Current prices are above the Sept. 15 level.

They said much uncertainty exists as to what the ultimate ceiling on live meat animals will be, and that no decision is expected until several other matters, including a whole new set of pork ceilings, now being drawn up by the Office of Price administration, are settled.

One packer said that if live animal prices eventually are frozen at Sept. 15 levels, retail meat prices will have to be raised.

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT PRICES.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 4 [Special].—Today's fruit prices were: Grapes—concords, 12 quarts, No. 1, 50 to 58 cents; No. 2, 38 to 50 cents; 4 quarts, 26 to 32 cents. Pears—bushels, Kieffers, No. 1, $1 to $1.25. Tomatoes—12 quarts, No. 1, 50 cents to $1, mostly 70 to 85 cents.

NEW CONTROLS MAY CHECK, NOT HALT INFLATION

Loopholes Are Opened for Wage Boosts.

upward wage adjustments, say critics.

Comparing the present pattern of inflation with the record of the World war period and the 1920s, economists emphasize that it is the area of wages that the present inflation has shown the most progress.

Since August, 1939, the average hourly wage rate in industry has risen 34 per cent, according to the bureau of labor statistics. Average weekly wages in industry have increased 57 per cent, reflecting longer hours and overtime wage rates. Almost as pronounced has been the rise in farm prices, altho relatively, farm prices were lower than wages when the inflationary trend started.

"The plain fact of the matter is that both farmers and industrial workers, as groups, are probably receiving a greater share of the national income than ever in the past," The National City Bank of New York observes. "Both are the seeming beneficiaries of the present inflation. Its victims, on the other hand, who are caught by the rise in living costs as farm prices and wages advance, are the white collar and professional workers, charitable and philanthropic institutions, pensioners and other people with fixed incomes, unorganized labor, small business men, and others whose taxes and living costs have risen more than incomes."

The inflation of the World war period was primarily an inflation of commodity prices and farm land values, with wages lagging in the movement. The inflation of the 1920s is described as essentially a financial inflation. Stocks and urban real estate soared, business and individuals overborrowed. Wages and farm prices were not affected seriously.

In each period price distortions developed and when the crash came it engulfed the entire economy.

The bank's conclusion is that effective control must include provision for absorbing the excess income that has been the primary cause of price inflation in each of the periods. Otherwise, the control measures may succeed in one area and fail in another, causing serious dislocations.

AIRCRAFT

Men between the ages of 18 and 50 should face the facts of war; either help secure the war material required by our armed forces or join the armed forces.

This shop training plant has enrolled 4,117 men so far this year. . . . Why?

BECAUSE

[1] Our graduates receive actual shop training in all branches of aircraft manufacture.
[2] Our step-by-step course prepares our students in 8 weeks' time.
[3] Our graduates are in demand and are receiving top pay in the jobs we have secured for them.
[4] Our graduates are employed by every large aircraft plant in the U. S.
[5] We cannot fill the demand for our graduates.

Day or Evening Training

More than 1,000 students now being trained in our modern, splendidly equipped training shops, the largest of their kind in this country.
Call, write, or phone for free questionnaire to determine your qualifications for this training. No obligation.
